School of the Arts opens here this fall

Brochures are being sent to all school districts in the Seventh Congressional District this week to inform them of the opening of the Northern Expressions School of the Arts in Thief River Falls next fall for the 1992-1993 school year.

"The brochures detail information about what the magnet Arts School will offer and how to get further information on how to fill out an application for the first year of the program," notes Marie Hvidsten of the School District 564 curriculum office who is handling the distribution.

Northern Expressions School of the Arts has been in the planning phase for the past year, Hvidsten said. It is a tuition-free magnet school for the Seventh Congressional District of Minnesota that will be housed at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls.

Funded by the 1990 Minnesota Legislature, the school is one of seven in the state. School District 564 submitted a grant proposal late in 1990 and was awarded the grant money in the spring of 1991 to plan for the school.

Marie Hvidsten

Students going into the 11th or 12th grade during the 1992-1993 school year and residents of the Seventh Congressional District will be eligible to participate in the arts school. "This type of school is for the young person whose interest in an art form is so keen and whose growth in development has reached a point that he or she is ready for the concentrated experience that the Northern Expressions School of the Arts has to offer," Hvidsten said.

The school will have six art-based curricular areas as its base—visual arts, media arts, theater arts, music, dance and literary arts. Four of the arts areas will be offered during the first year with visual and media arts to be added in 1993-1994.

"Each student will have an individualized learning plan that will be arranged by the student, his or her parents and an advisor at the school," Hvidsten said. "The arts and academics are stressed equally and are integrated so that students come to understand the relationships among subject areas. Students elect to study one art area in depth. The school will also design the learning process around outcomes rather than class time."

Each of the four art areas will be

Lucas was born at 7:11 a.m. Friday, January 3, weighed eight pounds, eight and one-half ounces and was 21 inches long. Paternal grandparents are Gary Cater of Crookston and Tom and Susan Nelbeuer of Middle River and paternal great-grandparents are Marlon and Vine Cater of Middle River and Cora Schenkey of Middle River. Maternal great-grandparents are Conrad and Alma Olson of Strathcone and Bertha Nalson of Middle River.

Pennington county is part of a Northwest District consortium of 13 counties which recently received notice of three-year funding for the Rural Minnesota Maternal and Child Health Outreach program.

Counties included in the consortium include Becker, Beltrami, Clearwater, Hubbard, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau.

Pennington county will receive first year funding of $7,819 for services provided within the county during 1992 and share in regional services and activities. Total first year funding for the 13 counties is $271,535 with the second and third years projected at $300,000 each.

According to LaRue Johnson, who will be working with the project for Pennington county at the Inter-County Nursing Service office in Thief River Falls, the Rural Minnesota MCH Outreach program will work with providers in local communities to increase their knowledge about community resources and make appropriate referrals, provide education to parents via newsletters, and conduct follow-up with women who miss prenatal appointments and families who miss well-child exams.

"The consortium, along with a focus group and marketing expert, will design, purchase and distribute outreach materials to be used in each county to encourage pregnant women to receive early and continuous prenatal care and for all parents to take their children to their medical provider for well-child exams, follow-up and immunizations," Mrs. Johnson said.

"This program will result in greater numbers of pregnant women receiving health services

"THE ULTIMATE FINISHING TOUCH"

Impressions . . .

by Beth Johnson

I decided to take a look at the resolutions I so boldly printed in this column a year ago to see how I did in keeping them. This year I have not made any New Year's Resolutions. I assumed that last year's resolutions were long broken. Now, for all to see are the results of last year's resolutions.

"Be it resolved that I will try to read as much as possible in the year 1991." I didn't do too badly on this first resolution of mine. The past couple of months I have been too busy to read, but, the rest of the year did find me choosing a variety of authors to read.

"Be it resolved... I will pay close attention to my children's work at school." This resolution, too, has been mostly fulfilled by me. I think I know what I need to know about my children's school work. What they don't tell me is for them to know!!!

"Be it resolved...I will try to encourage the teachers my children have." Once again, after reflection, I think I did fine with this resolution as well. Attending parent-teacher conferences ~~is a~~ must for me. Hopefully my attendance, as well as attendance by all parents, encourages the teachers of our children.

"Be it resolved...I will try to remember that my family comes first." Looking back on this year, I see times when I forgot to practice this resolution. But, my husband and I did a great service to our family when we exited the church he was dutifully serving. So, yes, I can definitely say that my family came first this past year.

"Be it resolved...I will try to take life seriously, but at the same time have fun." Well, I guess this past year my life was a bit too serious. I failed in the fun part of this resolution—but, there's always room for improvement this year!

"Be it resolved...I will try to first shop in Thief River Falls." I guess we did pretty well with this resolution as this is the year we bought a home here in Thief River Falls.

"Be it resolved...I will not try to eat everything chocolate in sight." I failed terribly on this resolution. Chocolate can not hide from me. I don't think I want to even try for this as a resolution this coming year.

"Be it resolved...I will try to exercise more regularly." Well, I partly did OK on this resolution. Between bouts of illness and working on settling into our new home, the regular exercise went by the wayside. But, I did exercise, and I will definitely include this in next year's resolutions.

"Be it resolved...I will try to be aware of opportunities for learning". It seems that life is truly a learning experience at all times. Between learning a computer's capabilities at work and learning how to paper and paint most efficiently at home, I think I can say this past year has had multiple learning opportunities.

"Be it resolved...I will pray daily for peace." Well, after the war was over, my prayers for peace were not daily, but we can be thankful that our multitude of prayers for peace were answered this year.

"Be it resolved...I will live peaceably with those around me." This had been a difficult one for me to fulfill as many times this past year I have felt the peace of my family's existence threatened by outside forces. But, with God's help, I and my family were able to live peaceably.

"Be it resolved...I will show those I love the utmost respect." I guess only those close to me could determine if I lived up to this resolution. Hopefully, I didn't do too badly. I respect those I love, but do I always show this respect??

"Be it resolved...I will teach my family more of the faith that is so basically important to my life." Yes, I can say that this resolution was accomplished. Our family has learned that faith is not religion. It has learned that religion fails, but faith does not.

I thought that I probably failed in my last year's resolutions. After examining them I don't think that I did fail with too many of them. That's encouraging for me.-What about you—did you make any resolutions last year? Did you break them or keep most of them? Maybe we all should strive for the maintaining of resolutions in this new year. The worst we can do is break them. But, we may surprise ourselves at how encouraging it is to keep the resolutions we so boldly make.

Happy New Year. Blessings on you and your new resolutions.

Education ass'n. at Goodridge files for mediation

A petition for mediation was filed by the Goodridge Education Association and notice has been received by the district contract negotiations for a medication meeting on Wednesday, January 8, 1992, at the Pennington County Courthouse.

The district negotiations team and the G.E.A. have held a number of meetings to work out an acceptable contract with the first meeting held on May 21, 1991. Most of the language changes requested by both sides have been agreed upon but the dollar amounts are still in dispute.

The G.E.A. is proposing a $3,150 per teacher or 11.6 per cent increase for a two year contact, which includes an increase in insurance benefits, salary and extra-curricular salary schedules.

The school district is offering $2,540 per teacher, an 8.54 per cent increase in salary and benefits for two years that include up to $300 per month in insurance premiums for a two year contact. The school board is also asking for 17 minutes to be added to the duty day of a teacher. The duty day currently is from 8:17 a.m. to 3:46 p.m.

During the 1990-91 school year the district had a deficit of approximately $98,700 in the general fund and it is calculated that in the 1991-92 school year the district could see a $102,800 deficit spending in the general fund. These deficits are due to the state and local funding.

LEC receives complaints

Several complaints have been received at the Law Enforcement Center in the past week regarding snowmobiles.

According to Police Chief Ken Froschheiser in Thief River Falls, numerous complaints have been received and nine citations for violations have been written in the past three days.

Complaints, Froschheiser said, involve snowmobiles riding on private property, sidewalks, boulevards, and in violation of city ordinance. Froschheiser said tickets will continue to be written for violations and the police department firmly supports and enforces the city's snowmobile ordinance.

NCC recognizes "Good News" at Christmas party

"A Good News Celebration" was the theme for a Christmas party for faculty and staff at Northland Community college in Thief River Falls recently when a number of faculty and staff were recognized for contributing to good things which had taken place at the college in 1991.

Kathryn Henke, director of college relations, said that Northland provost Dr. James Haviland felt that it was appropriate to pause and reflect on the accomplishments after the college had gone through periods of adjustment. Refreshments and gifts for everyone were provided by the NCC Foundation.

Henke noted that recognition was given to the following:

- Diane Drake, who received her 10-year service award. Clearwater Community College region president Sally Ihne was on hand to present this award. Drake was the first person Ihne had hired in her service with the Minnesota community college system.
- Kevin Stuckey for the 65 law enforcement workshops he provided for Northwest Regional Training. Earlier the same week Stuckey had been cited by P.O.S.T. coordinator Tim Erickson as having the model program in Minnesota.
- Janell Hudson was recognized for the advancement she has made with the nursing program by implementing the new objectives and introducing the team teaching approach to NCC and Bemidji sites.
- Mary Ann Hodge was recognized for her work with grant writing and the child care program on campus.

Dear Friends,
We must realize that children are never too young to react to grief. We grieve because we have loved, and any child who is old enough to love is old enough to feel distress when someone dies. In time of crisis, children should be included, and their questions answered with honesty, using simple language that they can understand.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home

Rondorf writes of modernizing his submarine

Commander Neil E. Rondorf of the USS Minneapolis-St. Paul, one of the U.S. Navy's submarines, wrote the following letter to families and friends of crew members:

"The Depot Modernization Period (DMP) has gotten off to a good start up here in Portsmouth Naval Shipyard (Portsmouth, NH). The major portion of equipment removal is completed and the crew is now enthusiastically painting before the new equipment comes back. The work is going well and we are on schedule to return to Norfolk, VA next summer. I am very pleased with the way the crew is trying to get the absolute maximum for every dollar being invested in our submarine's future safety.

"On the 12th of December, Vice Admiral Chiles (Commander, Submarine Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet) visited our boat. He presented the Radio Division with the Green "C" for communication excellence in 1991. He also announced that the crew members who deployed during Desert Shield/Storm were to be awarded the Southwest Asia Service Medal. He personally pinned four on to make it official.

"We have enjoyed wonderful support from the state of Minnesota. We had a nice surprise when the WW II Submarine Veterans of Minnesota (Viking Squadron) sent us a few 1992 Submarine Calendars. Those have become a coveted item and are being presented to special achievers.

"We also had a wonderful set of Christmas parties; one 'adults only' and one 'family' party. This was made possible through a generous donation to our 708 Recreation Fund by the Navy League. The crew and their families enjoyed themselves immensely. It was the first time in three years we have been 'home' to plan a holiday festivity.

"The support we have received from various organizations and individuals in Minnesota has been heart-warming. The officers, crew members and families of USS Minneapolis-St. Paul (SSN-708) are proud to serve and your support has made that service very rewarding.

"Happy holidays and may your 1992 blessings be many."

Return card to maintain credit on homestead

County assessors in the area have reminded all property owners claiming a homestead classification that they must return the application card mailed to them recently in order to receive a homestead credit for real estate taxes payable in 1993.

The Homestead Application Card must be signed and returned to the county assessor's office with the property owner's Social Security number and four questions answered by Jan. 15, 1992.

According to Robert Hansen, Marshall county assessor, Minnesota law states that if the application card with Social Security numbers is not provided, the assessor is required to remove the homestead classification from the property and subsequently a higher real estate tax must be paid.

This is an annual requirement and the card must be returned each year, even if one has been returned previously.

Gerard DeHaan, Pennington county assessor, said the cards were mailed to Pennington county households between Christmas and New Year's holidays. He also emphasized that the card must be returned to prevent removal of homestead credit from the property.

"Law requires that a property owner occupies the property as his or her primary residence on January 2," DeHaan said. "It also requires that the owner of property for which homestead credit is requested is a legal resident of Minnesota and that the owner's spouse does not claim a homestead on any other property or residence in Minnesota."

Persons with questions about the homestead credit application may call the assessor's office in the county in which they maintain residence. In Pennington county the number is 681-3843. In Marshall county the number is 745-5331.

Legislators Voice Opinions

Another Minnesota legislative session is underway and lawmakers are not reluctant to give their opinions and comments, especially as they relate to perceived errors by others, and particularly perceived errors by members of the opposition party.

A couple of letters which came our way this week are of special interest.

Sen. Charlie Berg of Chokio, who has long been known for his candor if not his tact, takes off on the Northwest Airlines financial package recently ratified by the Legislative Fiscal Policy committee on an 11=7 vote. Rep. Berg says the "bail-out bill ...is the worst scam ever perpetrated on the taxpayers of the State of Minnesota. I cannot understand how anyone with any business acumen could vote yes, knowing the terms of that so called 'agreement in principle.'"

With that introduction in the first paragraph of the letter, there is no doubt where Sen. Berg takes his stand. As far as scams perpetrated on the state's residents, however, Sen. Berg has apparently forgotten the legislature's own little job with the state lottery. The lottery was sold on the basis of distribution of proceeds and the voters bought it. The ink wasn't dry on the paper before the rules were changed and lottery funds diverted from their dedicated objective.

Comparative scams aside, however, here is what Sen. Berg has to say about the Northwest Airlines (NWA) deal:

"The public policy is terrible. All the potential downside financial risk (and there is a great deal), stays with the MAC and the State of Minnesota—all the upside potential financial gain with Al Checci and Gary Wilson of NWA.

"The most onerous part of the deal allows Northwest to use $160 million of taxpayers' money to pay off part of their leveraged buy-out debt to the Eastern bankers. This is unprecedented in any state, extremely risky, and suggests that those who negotiated the package for the Governor were woefully unprepared and totally inadequate to negotiate the package.

"For instance, the State of Maryland just negotiated with Northwest for $5 million in loans for a reservation system and 500 jobs, while the best this state could do is $838 million for 1,500 jobs.

"I believe if this deal goes through as written, NWA will default within three years and the taxpayers of the state will be stuck with over half of the $838 million loan package. What a lousy deal.

"In an attempt to keep NWA from 'flying away' with the $160 million in cash, I have introduced a bill to deny NWA the right to use any of the $838 million dollar financing package to pay off any of their leveraged buy-out debt. It will be heard in the Metropolitan Urban Affairs Committee Tuesday, January 7, and hopefully we can get the bill passed by both Houses in this first two-week session.

"I had hoped some of the ridiculous proposals of the Perpich era were behind us. However, this bail-out package engineered by Governor Carlson, Congressman Oberstar and a few Range legislators is not only the height of folly, but financially treacherous as well. I believe this is the dumbest financial proposal in the history of the state."

While Sen. Berg is taking on the Governor (and others) for the careless handling of state funds, Sen. Doug Johnson of Cook is pushing to override the Governor's veto of tax legislation. The veto eliminated a number of tax credits which have been longstanding parts of the state's taxing structure.

"Minnesota taxpayers should look closely at their tax statements this year because next year the tax relief they receive from the homestead credit will not be there," Sen. Johnson writes.

"Like the Grinch who stole Christmas, Governor Carlson with his veto stole Minnesota homeowners' homestead credit. As a result, many Minnesotans will see their property taxes rise hundreds of dollars.

"Minnesotans residing in most suburbs in the metropolitan area and outside of the cities in rural Minnesota will be particularly hard hit. That is because most, if not all of their property tax relief came from homestead and agricultural credit aid, (HACA)."

"As the result of the governor's veto, 55 cities, hundreds of townships and all special taxing districts will receive no state aid whatsoever. All 87 counties will receive none of the major aids of HACA, "local government aid or disparity reduction aid.

"Sometime in the next two weeks the legislature will try and override the governor's veto. If Minnesota taxpayers do not want to suffer the extraordinary tax increases that will occur as a result of the Carlson veto, citizens should contact their state legislators and demand that the governor's veto be overridden and the homestead credit restored."

It begins to look like a busy two weeks for the legislature as the 1992 session gets underway, and the major issues haven't even been mentioned yet!

The Rutherford Report

by Gary Rutherford

Growing by Chance or Vision?

Rutherford Business Institute recently completed a study of seven communities in various stages of decline and/or growth. It's not surprising that growth generally was the result of chance. Even in growing communities, the only "vision" often is hope that growth will continue! Ironically, lack of a concrete vision is a common problem, even where small towns appear to be bucking the trends. Why is this?

In part, it is because Washington has an "AG policy," but not "Rural policy." This reveals an underlying assumption, beginning at the top, that rural America is "AG only." The only "vision" has been trying to cure farm problems. However, there are millions of people in communities all over America that have been forgotten.

In the 1940s, national highway planning had a vision and prepared for a North Dakota population of six million! At this time, most rural America envisioned themselves as the suppliers of food to a growing and hungry world. Obviously, this vision expected enormous growth in world population and not in global food production.

Well, the global population did grow. What "planners" didn't foresee was the acceleration of high-tech farming, requiring less labor to produce enormous yields. Add to that the export of technology, and unfair foreign trade strategy, and what do you have? An incorrect vision of the near-term future.

Not only did this error in vision result in rural depopulation, but also in a mistaken view of rural potential. Many people assume that rural areas now have no alternative but to become a vast game preserve. It's not surprising leaders are confused and indecisive about what to do.

What is the answer? In part, we need a "Rural America" policy in which farming is an important piece. But, the policy has to cover small business development and entrepreneurism, a realignment of educational priorities, and the training of citizen leaders from all key sectors of rural communities.

In addition, communities have to begin developing a new vision. It must be one that parents and their kids really believe will yield quality jobs and thus incomes to sustain a family future.

Webster defines vision as: "The ability to see by pictures formed in the mind, i.e., visions of future greatness by imaginative foresight. A picture of what should be, paying little regard to how things actually are."

Imagine the day I started hiring employees for Classic Roadsters, the only automobile manufacturer in the midwest. There was no company. I could not dwell on this fact, or that no one had done this before. I had to help those first employees to see my dreams, and make them believe that I believed in the ability to achieve those dreams. Both the dream and leadership that believed the dream was achievable where necessary. Delete either element and the people would not have joined. And if they had joined without believing, they would not have been filled with excitement and energy.

I can see your community as the small business capitol of your region. Each year your concerns are for building more facilities and finding more employees for the growing community. I see planning the civic center and a new hotel. Can you see the new school, the beautiful park system, and the new golf course?

Some of you are saying no way! Those who think this way are right, especially if you don't try. This dream is impossible if you don't try. Without a vision the people perish. Without a vision and the knowledge of how to do it, decisions will be delayed and erosion will continue until the end.

On the other hand, those who believe in my vision are right, too. But only if they see the dream and work until it's a reality. Instead of accepting current trends, there are communities that actually are now causing their visions to become a reality. They may have started their growth by chance. But now that they believe it can be done, objectives and strategy are common words at leadership meetings.

Have your community leaders ever clearly stated in writing the community's vision for the future? Has a community leader been selected to coach the team to victory? What team would win a game without a coach, a strategy, or if they didn't try?

It's true folks, we can win the games, but only if we get in the game. I, for one, will play. Are there any others?

UMC receives $200,000 gift from estate

A gift of over $200,000 has been received by the University of Minnesota—Crookston from the Andrew Wardeberg estate and will be used to establish the Andrew J. and Elmer M. Wardeberg Memorial Scholarship Fund, providing scholarships for 10 to 15 UMC students each year.

Andrew Wardeberg graduated from the Northwest School of Agriculture in 1924 and his brother Elmer graduated in 1928. The two brothers, who never married, were born in a log home on a farmstead in King township near McIntosh.

Their father had immigrated to the United States from Norway and their mother was from the Mayville and Hillsboro, ND, area. The friendships they developed and education they received while attending the Northwest School of Agriculture were very important to them.

"We express our deep appreciation for the vision and generosity of Andrew Wardeberg," stated Nils Hasselmo, president of the University of Minnesota, "and promise to build on the educational value and outreach that the gift represents."

HELP YOUR HOUSE OF WORSHIP, WHICH HAS GIVEN YOU HELP

If you've been attending your House of Worship regularly, it's because you've had some good reasons for doing so. You have received God's blessings and guidance there, and perhaps you have been given some advice and comfort by your clergyman at a time when you needed it most. Now you should consider doing something in return for these benefits, if you haven't been doing it already. There are many helpful services you can perform, according to your talents and physical ability. Even such simple acts as making phone calls, typing announcements for the bulletin, or taking a turn watching the children in the nursery can be of great value. So do whatever you can to help your House of Worship, remembering all the times that it has been helpful to you.

Sometimes give your services for nothing, calling to mind a previous benefaction.

Joel Erickson, treasurer of the St. Hilaire Lions, presented a donation to the Noreen family, whose home burned down this fall. Since their home burned down, the family has received a great deal of assistance. Sharon Noreen said "to say the response was tremendous is an understatement." The donation presented to the Noreens was raised at a benefit breakfast. Pictured from left are Joel Erickson, Michelle Noreen, age 3, Sharon Noreen, Luke Noreen, and Mandy Noreen, age 4.

Brazil student will speak to FMS students

Eighteen year old Fernando Silva from Goiania, Brazil, will speak with students at Franklin middle school in Thief River Falls this Wednesday, January 8. Silva is the first in a series of international speakers from the Northwestern Minnesota Global Studies Institute in Red Lake Falls who will be guests in Walter Redlinger's classes.

Silva will talk to middle school students about the climate in Brazil, his native language (Portuguese), education, food, family life and customs. "Brazil is a beautiful country. Although there is a large variation in economic circumstances, and very much poverty, the people are very friendly and the climate is pleasant," he says.

Silva has come a long way to finish his high school education. He is a senior at Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls and one of more than 30 international students who attend Lafayette through the Northwestern Minnesota Global Studies Institute. This is Silva's second year at the institute.

Two international students will be featured each month in Redinger's classes through the end of the school year.

Red Lake Co. Investigates forgeries

Red Lake county sheriff's department is investigating reports of burglaries and a forgery that involves "several thousands" of dollars.

On January 3 the Red Lake county sheriff's office received a call from the Grand Forks, ND, police department regarding some stolen property that had been recovered. The property was from the residence of Dean Hess in rural Red Lake Falls, which had been burglarized on November 19 or 20. Charges are pending against two adults from Grand Forks, ND. The incident remains under investigation.

Upon the arrival of Red Lake county investigators at the Grand Forks, ND, police department, a checkbook belonging to Wesley D. Brinkman of rural Plummer, was discovered.

According to a department spokesperson, in December the Red Lake County sheriff's office had received information that "several thousands" of dollars had been forged on Brinkman's account at cities across the state.

Charges of burglary and forgery are pending against two adults from Grand Forks, ND. The incident remains under investigation.

Speaking Of . . .

. . . Predictions for 1992

The following predictions for 1992 are written with tongue in check and you would be well advised to read them with your own tongue in that very same position. Under no circumstances are these predictions meant to be saved and read again at the end of 1992.

—THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION. I am very doubtful of my prediction on the outcome of the presidential election this year. I have no idea who the Democratic candidate will be, mostly because I am having a lot of trouble with so many ordinary Anglo Saxon names. (Too bad there are no good Polish, Norwegian, Jewish or German names so I could remember them.) Thus, I will leave the Democratic candidate for you to choose.

However, when push comes to shove, I feel that the polls will begin to show President Bush trailing that Democratic candidate, whoever he or she may be, all over the country, and he will be forced to pull a "rabbit" out of his hat (something of benefit to the majority of Americans, either tax cuts or health benefits) at the last minute. He will then win the election by a very small margin. If he does not produce a "rabbit," however, the country will be amazed to learn that they have elected a Democrat over an incumbent this year.

The elections of 1992 will bring out a record number of voters.

—AIDS. The unknown magnitude of this disease will be reported to the general populace this year, creating worldwide panic that will generate fear among many people who have been previously apathetic about it. Sporting events around the world will be altered by fear of the disease.

—CATASTROPHES AND CALAMITIES. There will be an abundance of earthquakes and volcanic eruptions this year, including major earthquakes in Mexico, South America and the Middle East. I see an earthquake in Indiana, which is very strange, if you ask me, and Oregon, too, which is not quite as strange. Of course California will have several small quakes.

Floods will once again ravage Bangladesh and also affect Pakistan. The Philippines will be devastated by another typhoon or volcanic eruption. Several inactive volcanoes will flare up in 1992.

—NUCLEAR FEARS. The country will be made aware of the worldwide apprehension over who is in control of Russia's nuclear weapons. The gravity of the situation has been downplayed because governments are afraid that the general population will panic.

—RUSSIA. Other countries will be obliged to help feed the Russian people this winter, and sporadic fighting will continue in the commonwealths. However, new programs instigated by Boris Yeltsin will begin to work by summer and many of the countries' disagreements will disappear as the free market economy kicks in.

—EMPLOYMENT AT HOME. Lay offs and unemployment in the U.S. will continue on into 1992, generating pickets and demonstrations among the people.

—RECESSION. The recession will continue. If the economy does not begin to improve by fall of 1992, it will worsen considerably in 1993.

—SADDAM. Saddam Hussein will come very close to being assassinated this year, but the attempt or attempts will not be successful. We will not see much of the mustachioed menace in 1992. No doubt he will be in hiding.

—MIDDLE EAST PEACE. Despite the good intentions of participants, the Middle East peace talks will fail.

—OUR STATE. Governor Carlson will further alienate himself from the taxpayers with his unpopular programs. Northwestern Minnesota will be left out in the cold when it comes to any job creation programs or business enticements to the state.

Congressman Collin Peterson will become more popular with his constituents when he cuts down on his free postage mailings and jumps into backing some programs that show he remembers who elected him.

—OUR AREA. 1992 just might be a very good year for farming. It might not, however, be such a good year for anyone else. The recession will become more and more apparent to people in this neck of the woods, and businesses will be tightening their belts. There will be layoffs and cutting of jobs in the area.

All in all, I guess I am of the opinion that 1992 doesn't seem to have much going for it. Generally, I feel that things are going to go from bad to worse. The one good thing about the year is that the general population is going to get good and fed up with the bureaucrats and let them know it, one way or another. Come to think of it, maybe it will be an interesting year, after all.

Slow Drains?
You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again!
The secret? Clean drains don't run slow. Slow drains, or periodic clogs, are signals that a thick layer of "gook" is choking your pipes. This gook coats the entire length of your pipe- from sink to sewer, or septic.
Conventional drain openers cannot remove this build up. Even a small tunnel through the waste lets them flow through the pipe, leaving the gook behind!
Now, with just a few minutes each month, you can easily clean out your pipes like new... and KEEP them clean with Plumb Clean. Its totally unique formula clings, and penetrates deep into the gook. That allows it to liquefy even years of build up. Plumb Clean will clean the entire length of your pipes. It will make your drains run like new, when used as directed. This penetrating action is so revolutionary, Plumb Clean is money-back guaranteed!
Save Money. A 1 lb. container of Plumb Clean holds up to 41 drain treatments. Even if drain openers could fix slow drains, you would have to buy over 10 quart bottles to get the same number of treatments. Plumb Clean costs about 35 ¢ per treatment. We don't know of anything that cleans drains for less.
Safety. Conventional drain openers are dangerous chemicals. They can injure eyes on contact. They can release deadly vapors, in some situations. Some, may damage your fixtures. Plumb Clean will not burn skin, or eyes. It will not release harmful fumes. When used as directed, it is 100% safe for people, and of course all plumbing.
So, if your drains are signalling you, get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean today! Available at:

YOUR TIMES

by Carrie Bang

Parents, Alcohol and Pre-Teens Project

Dad has a beer as he watches his favorite football team. Mom drinks a glass of wine at the table with dinner. Eleven-year old Katie observes their drinking in these settings, but she's too young to be influenced by the decisions her parents make regarding alcohol use, right? Wrong!

Children base their own alcohol use guidelines and behaviors on what they learn at home at a young age. If they watch alcohol being used in a safe manner and have received clear guidelines on alcohol use from their parents, they are likely to respect alcohol and make healthy decisions regarding their own use/non use. On the other hand, if children observe adults abuse alcohol, they too are likely to abuse it.

As parents, we must set and model healthy alcohol use guidelines for our children. In the 1987 Adolescent Health Survey and the 1989 Minnesota Student Survey Report, the top reasons given by young people who chose not to get involved with drinking and using drugs were the perceived objections, concerns and actual guidelines communicated by their parents. How can safe, healthy alcohol use standards be modeled to children? Kids can be positively influenced if parents:

- Openly discuss responsible decision-making regarding alcohol and its use with their children. Talk about the effects and possible consequences of alcohol use/nonuse. For adults the moderate and occasional use of alcohol is appropriate. However, there are times when it is important for everyone to abstain from the use of alcohol including:
  - When you are under the legal drinking age. It is illegal in Minnesota and therefore is not appropriate and is irresponsible.
  - When you're driving or riding in/on any vehicle, including a boat, car, motorcycle, snowmobile, truck or van.
  - When you're in class or on the job.
  - When you're participating in sports or other physical activity.
  - When you're using equipment, such as guns, lawn mowers and power tools.
  - When you're pregnant or nursing a baby.
  - When you're recovering from dependency on alcohol or other drugs.
  - When you're using certain medications.
- Model healthy, safe alcohol use in your home. Kids watch your every move and alcohol use is no exception. If your children ask questions, use these opportunities to discuss appropriate alcohol use guidelines.
- Set guidelines and alcohol use/nonuse policies for the whole family. Let your children know that abusive drinking is not funny and encourage discussions about mixed messages they may be getting at school, at the movies, and on television.
- Promote family involvement in healthy alternatives and activities and encourage your children in hobbies, athletics, academics and extracurricular activities.
- Always offer alternative beverages such as soft drinks when entertaining. This tells kids it's perfectly acceptable to choose not to drink. In addition, it's important to monitor the alcohol intake of your guests. Don't let anyone drive home from your event if they have had too much to drink.

The Minnesota Department of Human Services is currently conducting a statewide campaign to encourage parents of pre-teenage children to set and model healthy alcohol use guidelines. The campaign consists of a radio public service announcement, posters, church bulletin inserts, a feature article series, radio interviews, responsible hosting seminars and a parent take-home piece to be used at parent/teacher conferences.

For more information on how you can model appropriate alcohol standards in your home, contact Julie Dondelinger at 1-800-247-1303.

1991 . . . A Year of Transition; 1992 . . . Economic Recovery?

We at The Times wish to thank all of our advertisers, subscribers, contributors, and friends for their generous support during the past year.

1991 proved to be a year of major changes at The Times. In response to a regional and national economic downturn, our product is now printed and distributed twice a week instead of three times a week. At the beginning of 1991 we printed two editions of The Times each week as well as an edition of a total market coverage product entitled the Northern Minnesota Shopper's Guide. In an effort to more closely match cost with revenues and to save distribution and printing costs, we combined our Monday edition of The Times and the Northern Minnesota Shopper's Guide into a brand new total market coverage product renamed the Northern Watch. This product is printed on Friday and distributed Friday evening and Saturday morning. In addition we moved the publication date of The Times from Wednesday to Tuesday because of the Friday publication date of the Northern Watch.

We believe these changes have turned out to be well accepted and continue to serve the Northwest Minnesota region with a twice-weekly news and advertising publication.

All advertising and marketing media had a difficult year in 1991 as a result of economic downturn nationally as well as a continuing poor agricultural economy locally. A pervasive problem that continues to haunt Thief River Falls and Pennington County, as well as many other Northwestern Minnesota counties is the continuing population decrease. It doesn't take a genius to figure out that fewer people mean less retail dollars and consequently less advertising and marketing dollars.

Thief River Falls is fortunate at this time to have nearly every store front filled and the number of retailing establishments has increased over this period one year ago. It is also comforting to realize that our area has been suffering from a poor agricultural economy for so many years that a disastrous national economy has had little additional affect on Thief River Falls. It seems as though we never suffer as badly as many of the urban areas in the nation in an economic recession. However, on the other hand, we never prosper as well as some of the urban areas during economic good times. It is very comforting to know that we are not one of the 21 towns that will lose a major automobile manufacturing facility as General Motors has announced they are closing 21 factories. As you can well imagine, this will have a devastating affect on any community.

Nevertheless, we face a continuing challenge to economic well-being in the fact that we continue to lose population every year. In order to stem the economic downturn in this area, Thief River Falls and Pennington County must do everything possible to promote population growth. Since farming continues to become more consolidated with fewer and fewer families being involved in agriculture, the population growth must come in the urban area of Pennington County, basically in Thief River Falls itself. The long-run economic well-being of retailing in Thief River Falls is definitely tied to the population of the customer base which shops in Thief River Falls.

It appears that 1992 is starting out to be a very tough economic year throughout the nation, and we can be thankful that Thief River Falls and Pennington County are not nearly as hard hit as many other areas in the United States. Hopefully the lower interest rates and the fact that 1992 is an election year, will lift the national economy up and we'll see better times in 1992 for the nation. It is unfortunate that a national recovery will not have all that much affect in Thief River Falls and Pennington County until a turnaround in the agricultural economy happens, which does not appear to be imminent and until such time as we figure out how to prevent the loss of population.

As a community, we all need to do our part to help promote business, economic expansion and population growth in our trade area. Let's all do our part in supporting our local businesses and keeping those store fronts full and open and make 1992 a better year than 1991. We know it can be done and we are betting on it.

Although the weather succeeded in postponing a music recital scheduled before Christmas at Oakland Park Nursing Home, Karl Lindemoen's students assembled after Christmas at the nursing home to perform for the residents. The group consists of a number of students at different levels of ability and from many communities.

offering blocks of class time for concentrated study in the respective art area. The arts school will also offer a "Creative Connections" class where students will experience multiple art and general studies curricular areas coming together in one class. The interdisciplinary concept will also be carried through in each of the art area class times.

Instruction in the arts school, which will be located at Lincoln senior high school, will be provided in part by school district instructors and in part by instructors hired on a part-time basis to teach in their area of expertise.

Because demand for enrollment can not be anticipated in advance, most plans are preliminary at this time. Further planning and arrangements, such as potential need for housing for out-of-town students, will be conducted when the enrollment pattern has been established.

"Interested students should ask for a brochure from their high school principal, counselor, English teacher, visual arts teacher, music teacher, drama teacher, physical education teacher or media center supervisor," Hvidsten noted. "Brochures are being sent to educators in each of these areas at all Seventh Congressional District schools."

Deadline for receiving an admissions packet for the first year of Northern Expressions School of the Arts is Feb. 1, 1992. Deadline for admissions packets to be postmarked for the 1992-1993 school year is February 21.

For more information about the arts school or to receive the informational brochure and/or admissions packet, call Marie Hvidsten at 218-681-8677 or write to her at the School District 564 Service Center, Zeh St. and LaBree Ave., Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Funding received for county health outreach program early in pregnancy (first trimester), more pregnant women receiving continuous care and more children receiving well-child exams and immunizations in the northwest 13 counties of Minnesota," she added.

Outreach will be provided in several community locations to increase public awareness about the need for early and continuous prenatal care as well as the need for children to remain under the care of a medical care provider and receive well-child exams and immunizations at the recommended intervals (and the need to encourage children and pregnant women to seek care).

Outreach activities will occur in places in communities that reach the high risk population as have been identified in studies, such as laundromats, video stores, grocery stores and schools. Families will receive home visits by a nurse if they miss prenatal appointments or do not take their child for well-child exams and immunizations. All these activities will increase access to care by increasing community awareness that it is important, that it is available, that there are local community resources and that one can call the local public health agency for more information.

"It is estimated that each dollar spent in outreach and prevention saves $4 to $10 in direct care costs," Mrs. Johnson noted. "More information on the program will be made available during the next several months."

Prowlers stop Moorhead 4-2; host Roseau tonight

Moorhead's bid to supplant the traditional powers as the Section 8 high school hockey leader received a jolt Saturday when Thief River Falls came from behind to knock off the Spuds 4-2 in front of a near full house in the expanded Moorhead Sports Center.

One of the preseason Section 8 favorites, Moorhead was ranked No. 6 in last week's Associated Press poll. The Spuds entered the game with a 5-1 record – losing only a 4-3 overtime decision to No. 5-ranked Elk River in overtime.

And Moorhead looked the part of a title contender in out-shooting Thief River Falls 19-4 while taking a 2-0 first period lead. But the goaltending of the Prowlers' Barry Dowers kept it close. He stopped another 18 shots in the second period and finished with 48 saves in an performance that should certainly earn him an all-conference vote from Moorhead coach Terry Cullen when the 1991-92 Mariucci Conference ballots are distributed later this winter.

Despite being out-shot 37-12 through two periods, the Prowlers trailed only 2-1, and they quickly turned that into a 4-2 lead when Jason Svir, Carter Rogalla and Rick Ostby all scored in the first 4:32 of the third period.

"As the game progressed, the tighter it got," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo. "We had a nice third period, but I actually thought we played all right at the start, too. We got the shots, but they never got to the net. Moorhead has a good hockey team. They're quick. They did a nice job knocking things down and tipping things away."

The two Moorhead goals came 59 seconds apart near the midway mark of the first period as Louis Paquin fed a wide-open Jason Blake in front at 7:23 and Josh Arnold slammed one home at 8:22 as the Spuds controlled the puck in the Prowlers' zone.

But Dowers, a first-year varsity performer as a senior, shut the door the rest of the night.

"It's great when you can go into the rink of one of the pre-season Section 8 favorites and get an effort like that from your goalie," said Chiodo. "Barry had a great game, but that's nothing new. He's played well before, and we've grown to expect that kind of performance from him. We feel he's one of the top goalies in Section 8; he just hasn't received the respect and recognition he deserves."

Dowers started receiving some offensive support when Ostby picked up a behind-the-back drop pass in the slot from Marc Seaverson and beat Moorhead goalie Jeremy Gregoire low to the right side at 7:22 of the second period.

Thief River Falls' third period scoring outburst started with a wrap-around goal from behind the net by Svir at 1:04 to tie the game.

Rogalla then won a foot race down the ice against a Moorhead defender and got off a tough-angle shot that caught the far corner at 3:04.

It was 4-2 just 1:28 later when Ostby collected his second goal of the night when he lifted a rebound up and over the sprawling Gregoire during a goal mouth scramble.

Gregoire, who rotates in the Moorhead nets with Troy Brekke, wound up with 18 saves. Both Moorhead goalies are sophomores.

To many it was an extra-special win, but Chiodo wanted to remind his players to keep it in proper perspective. "It's a nice victory," he acknowledged. "It shows our capability. But you have to remember, it's just game No. 10 in a long season. Tuesday we have another one."

And that one should be another top box office draw as the 6-4 Prowlers take on rival Roseau tonight (Tuesday) at 7:30 p.m. in the Sports Arena. The two-time defending Section 8 champion Rams were ranked No. 8 in last week's state poll.

Scoring

First period - Moorhead, Jason Blake (Louis Paquin-Justin Wegner), 7:23. Moorhead, Josh Arnold (Jim Jacobson), 8:22.

Second period - TRF, Rick Ostby (Marc Seaverson-Troy Bertram), 7:22.

Third period - TRF, Jason Svir (un.), 1:04. TRF, Carter Rogalla (Nathan Knutson), 3:04. TRF, Rick Ostby (Jeff Twomey), 4:32.

Goalie Saves

TRF - Barry Dowers 17-18-13 – 48. Moorhead - Jeremy Gregoire 4-7-7 – 18

East Grand Forks boys hold off Prowlers 62-56...

TRF rally falls short

Thief River Falls boys found out Friday that 24 minutes of pretty good basketball won't do it. The Prowlers turned in a solid second half effort, but it wasn't enough to make up for a not-so-good first half as they lost a 62-56 decision to East Grand Forks.

"We lost it in the first half," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "We played a pretty good second half, but they just don't know what it takes to get mentally ready to start the game. We didn't lose it at the end; we lost it at the beginning."

Even though they were having trouble against an East Grand Forks press that led to 11 first half turnovers and took the Prowlers out of their offense, they managed to stay close. It was 13-13 at the end of the first quarter and it was still tied at 21-21 with 3:43 remaining before an 8-1 finish by the Green Wave opened up a 29-22 halftime gap.

With baskets by guard Phil Sheridan and forward Matt Hustad opening the second half, East Grand Forks was in control 33-22.

Three times the Green Wave led by as many as 13 points, including 48-35 on a fast break lay-up by guard Pat Whitty with 2:05 remaining in the third quarter.

But Third River Falls promptly went on a 10-2 run to make a game of it as Nathan Egge closed out the third quarter with a short jumper. Darin Wald opened the fourth quarter with a three-point basket, Kelly Swanson sank two free throws, Tom Upham connected from close-in and Swanson added a three-pointer to make it a suddenly-interesting 50-47 with 6:24 left.

East Grand Forks interrupted the Thief River Falls rally on back-to-back short range jumpers by Chad Filipski and Sheridan to re-open a 54-47 lead, but a four-point play by Wald, who canned a three-point basket and added a free throw when he was fouled on the shot, cut the difference to 54-51 with 3:22 still showing.

A two-point basket by Filipski was countered by a three-pointer from Upham for a 56-54 game. Two free throws by Adam Sheridan of the Green Wave and a lay-up by John Wallberg of the Prowlers left it 56-54 with 1:05 to play.

Both teams missed the front end of bonus free throw situations in the final minute – the Green Wave with 42 and 24 seconds left; the Prowlers with 41 seconds remaining. After controlling the rebound following the East Grand Forks miss with 24 seconds to go, Thief River Falls put up a long shot with 13 seconds showing. The shot was off the mark, and the Green Wave drew another free throw opportunity with 12 seconds left.

This time Matt Hustad made both attempts, and when a another foul followed a desperation Thief River Falls shot, Jared Kovar of the Green Wave wrapped it up with two more free throws.

Hustad and Wald shared game-high scoring honors with 20 points each. Filipski and Phil Sheridon joined Hustad in double figure for the Green Wave with 16 and 12 points, respectively.

Thief River Falls was 21-for-45 from the field (47 percent), which included an 8-for-16 showing from three-point range. And it was nifty 8-for-13 three-point shooting (62 percent) until they threw up three misses in the hectic final moments.

"We opened things up on the outside in the second half when we pounded the ball inside," explained Brekke. "You have to push it inside to open up the outside. When they (EGF) dropped inside, we had some nice shots from the outside."

East Grand Forks was 26-for-54 from the field (48 percent). The Green Wave, unlike the Prowlers, didn't have to go outside to score – they were just 1-for-3 from three-point range, all in the first half.

The Prowlers were 6-for-13 at the free throw line, where the Green Wave was 9-for-14. East Grand Forks finished with a 25-20 rebound edge and Thief River Falls topped the turnover charts 16-10.

"We played better defense, and we did a much better job handling their press in the second half," noted Brekke. "We made a few adjustments at halftime, and the press didn't bother us that much in the second half. It's something we should have recognized and handled better in the first half."

Thief River Falls fell to 2-6 with the loss, but Brekke has not lost faith in his ball club. "We're getting there," he said. "We feel we can be competitive in every game we play, no matter who the opponent is."

The Prowlers visit Detroit Lakes Tuesday for a North Sub-Section 8AA game and will be at home Friday against Tri-County.

EGF girls win 79-63 over TRF

Season-high Thief River Falls figures on both offense and defense resulted in a high-scoring 79-63 Friday night girls high school basketball loss at East Grand Forks.

While the setback dropped the Prowlers to 4-4 for the year, Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse saw more positive than negative in the first outing of the New Year. "We gave up too many points," she admitted, "but I was really happy with the way we played. We didn't want to get into a running game with them, but that's what happened."

Despite double and triple-team defensive coverage, Jenny Loeck led the fast-paced Green Wave attack with 33 points. She received offensive support from Tara Hecht with 16 points, Brenda Hawthorne with 12 and Missy Maristuen with 10.

Thief River Falls led 21-16 at the end of the first quarter and trailed just 32-31 at halftime, but Loeck had a 12-point third quarter as the winners opened up a 52-44 gap and Hecht scored a dozen points in the fourth quarter. When the Prowlers went after Loeck and Hecht, Hawthorne was there to score off the offensive boards.

Thief River Falls' season-long scorer leader Jodi Kruta was held to 10 points by the Green Wave, but Amy Adams and Lisa Ulrich both came up with season-best outings to help pick up the slack. Adams, who missed games earlier this year because of an ankle injury, scored 25 points and grabbed 18 rebounds while playing pain-free for the first time, pointed out Wiltse. Ulrich doubled her previous season-high with 16 points.

"Amy and Lisa played really well," mentioned Wiltse.

Thief River Falls shot 41 percent from the field, while East Grand Forks shot 36 percent, but the Green Wave went 32-for-73, including an accurate 5-for-7 from 3-point range, while the Prowlers were 28-for-69 – 0-for-3 from outside the circle.

East Grand Forks also cashed in on 12 of 15 free throw attempts, while Thief River Falls went 7-for-13 at the line. The Green Wave had a 43-33 rebound advantage.

The Prowlers travel to Warren Tuesday and will host Moorhead Saturday.

Swimmers resume schedule

Idle since Dec. 12, the Thief River Falls boys high school swim team showed no ill effects from the long lay-off Saturday as the Prowlers turned in a strong performance at the Fergus Falls Invitational.

Middle River splits games

A slow start Friday wound up as a 67-58 Middle River loss to Badger-Greenbush, but a strong first quarter Saturday netted the Skippers a 77-51 win over Red Lake Falls in boys high school basketball.

The weekend split left Middle River at 5-2 for the year. The Skippers host Roseau tonight (Tuesday) and will head to Grygla Friday.

"We did not play a real good ball game, and I felt they played very well," said Middle River coach Eldon Sparby after the home court setback at the hands of Badger-Greenbush. "They were always a step ahead of us."

The trip to Red Lake Falls proved more profitable. "We shot the ball better than we did the night before, and they turned the ball over," pointed out Sparby.

Badger-Greenbush started with a 13-9 first quarter lead and held off Middle River the rest of the way.

The game featured 54 free throws as the Skippers went 14-for-24 at the line and the Bulldogs were 19-for-30. Middle River had a 29-16 rebound advantage. The turnovers were even at 15-apiece.

The game was a make-up contest from a Dec. 13 postponement.

Eagles lose to Rams

Grygla-Gatzke shot only 29 percent from the field Friday in losing a 69-47 boys high school basketball game at Roseau.

The Eagles were 15-for-52 from the field as they fell to 2-2 for the year.

"I think we were intimated by their size," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "They made us alter our shots, and they blocked quite a few, too."

Roseau led only 15-11 and 34-28 at the first two quarter stops, but hit a trio of three-point shots during a brief flurry that helped open up a 52-42 third quarter gap. The Rams' lead continued to expand down the stretch as the Eagles scrambled trying to get back in it.

Four Roseau scorers hit double figures, led by David Pankratz with 17 points. Mitch Bernstein scored a game-high 20 points for the Eagles, with Scott Rindahl contributing 10.

Roseau was 28-for-63 from the field (44 percent) and 8-for-13 at the free throw line, where Grygla-Gatzke was 16-for-20 – mostly in the first half. The rebounds were even at 22-apiece and both teams wound up with 19 turnovers.

"Actually, I didn't think we played all that bad," said Johnson, whose team will meet Badger-Greenbush Tuesday in Greenbush before hosting Middle River Friday.

Girls high school basketball...

Stephen stops MCC 52-28

Marshall County Central had a tough time of it offensively Monday, losing a 52-28 girls high school basketball game at Stephen.

It was the first outing since Dec. 17 for the Nordics, and the loss dropped them to 3-4 for the year. They will wait until Monday to play again – when they will head to Badger-Greenbush.

Stephen led only 7-6 at the end of the first quarter before opening up a 26-11 halftime spread. It was 36-19 through three quarters as Marshall County Central struggled through its lowest offensive production of the year.

"We played well for about 12 minutes," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "But we missed an awful lot of easy shots, and then we ran into foul trouble."

With Marshall County Central center Sandi Gustafson on their bench because of fouls, Stephen broke open a close game with a 10-point second quarter run, and the Nordics never recovered. "We need her (Gustafson) in the game," pointed out Mjelde. "When she's on the floor we're okay, but if she's on the bench we've got problems."

Just one Stephen scorer hit double figures, but it was a big 25-point night for Darcy Kuznia. Kim Davidson led Marshall County Central with 14 points, but none of the other Nordics came up with more than four points.

Marshall County Central sophomore Sara Lokstad, the leading scorer in the North Border Conference with a 21.3 average, was held to just two points by the Stephen defense. "We just couldn't get the ball to her," said Mjelde.

The Nordics were just 10-for-49 from the field (20 percent) and 6-for-15 at the free throw line. The Tigers went 22-for-65 from the field (33 percent) and had an 8-for-18 night at the line. Stephen outrebounded Marshall County Central 39-33.

The results left the Skippers at 5-3 for the year and dropped the Wolverines to 0-7.

New snowmobile trail opened from Bemidji to I. Falls

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Trails & Waterways Unit recently announced the opening of a new snowmobile trail connecting Bemidji and International Falls.

The Blue Ox/Voyageur Trail was constructed on the abandoned Burlington Northern rail bed, which was recently assigned to the state Rail Bank Program by the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT). Under the Rail Bank Program, control of abandoned rail beds in Minnesota can be reserved by Mn/DOT for up to 30 years, for use as potential, future transportation corridors. Mn/DOT and DNR signed an interim-use agreement last October which allowed the Bemidji-to-International Falls route to be developed as a public recreation trail.

DNR Trails & Waterway Unit, working with local officials in Beltrami, Itasca and Koochiching counties, assisted members of local snowmobile clubs in Bemidji, Blackduck, Northome and International Falls in turning the rail bed into an official state, grant-in-aid snowmobile trail this winter. Under the grant-in-aid program, the DNR and local snowmobile clubs share costs involved in the construction, signing and maintenance of snowmobile trails.

Southern half of the new trail has been named the Blue Ox Trail and the northern segment is called the Voyageur Trail.

In related news, officials announced that the state was very close to closing a deal with Burlington Northern this winter for the outright purchase of the proposed Paul Bunyan Trail, on abandoned rail bed between Brainerd and Bemidji.

Minnesota Legislature authorized a special appropriation to acquire the corridor, following a grass-roots lobbying effort by several communities along the proposed trail.

DNR News

Contributions to the Nongame Wildlife Checkoff Fund are "Earning interest" in the wild of Minnesota. Since 1988, the nearly 150 swans released in the Nongame Wildlife Program's restoration project have produced 71 young from 30 nests, with 42 reaching flight age.

Swans released by the Nongame Wildlife Program are marked with aluminum leg bands and with orange wing tags that have a black numeric code. Males are marked on the right side and females on the left side. Not all swans are marked, however. Birds hatched in the wild by the released swans are not captured for marking.

Young swans are gray in color for the first year.

People observing trumpeter swans should report the date, location and marker information to their local DNR wildlife office, or call a toll-free Minnesota number – 1-800-652-9747 (ask for DNR).

The trumpeter swan restoration project is just one of the many Nongame Wildlife Program projects supported by Minnesota taxpayers who designate a donation by the loon symbol on their state income tax forms.

Russian visitors have American experience

It was so rewarding to witness the excitement of each new American experience. One day we stopped for gas and Mikhail took a picture of the non-existent line at the pumps. He said that in Russia there is at least a half hour wait in line whether it is 6 a.m. or 11 p.m. Inside the gas station they were astonished at the abundance of products that were for sale. Natasha and Irina took turns posing for pictures by the candy display, the dairy cooler and the grocery aisles. I didn't have the heart to tell them that this was just a convenience stop!

A few days later they witnessed for themselves a "real" grocery store. People smiled as they watched them taking pictures of each other in the produce aisle, dwarfed by the shelves overflowing with peaches, apples and bananas. We also visited the apple orchard where they were amazed at the size and quality of our apples. (My husband described the apples in Russia as small, scabby and having the consistency of tennis balls!)

We bought a few bags of apples and they ate them morning, noon and night the rest of their stay, to the point that we were afraid they would get sick. They consistently turned down sweets for apples, which was hard for this good Scandinavian to relate to.

One day we took a quick shopping trip to the mall, where we bought them everything from underwear to shoes. Even the basics are hard to get in Russia. They were surprised at the service they received from the clerks, commenting that there is no such thing in their country. They were so excited about their bright new clothes, as their clothes are very dull, with army green being a big color in everything from shirts and slacks to blouses and lingerie.

Later I found out that a pair of shoes in their country costs about 1,200 rubles and trousers cost about 900 rubles. The average working person earns around 250-300 rubles per month (less than $10 in American money).

We also had a chance to take our new Russian friends to the Metrodome for a Twins game during "drive time." It was a new experience for them, as their main sport is football—which is known as soccer in America. We bought Homer Hankies and taught them how to use them, as the Twins blessed us with a win. Looking back at our big Twins' win in the World Series, I wonder if they broadcast the games in Russia. I chuckle when I picture the sight of three Russians sitting in front of their black and white TV waving their Homer Hankies!

One night, when they were staying with the other Twin Cities host family, they discovered popcorn. They were fascinated as they watched it pop, both in a popper and in the microwave. Natasha and Irina had never seen nor tasted it, but Mikhail remembered it as a child in the mid '50s.

In Moscow, Mikhail, Natasha and Irina live in a two-bedroom apartment called a "flat." They enjoyed our yard and green grass. Natasha was interested in my "machine that washed dishes." Mikhail said that it is almost impossible to buy a new car in Russia. He used to drive a car but it needs repair and it is too expensive to get it fixed.

We found out that they like peanut butter but can't buy it in their country. I will never forget the tears in their eyes the day that I came home with jars of peanut butter, tuna and rolls of summer sausage for them to pack in their suitcases for their return trip. Even though I bought the items for them, I knew in my heart that they would soon appear on someone else's table—as they would more than likely share their new "riches" with their elderly parents and other relatives and friends.

When a neighbor of ours asked Mikhail how he liked America, he put his hand on his heart and said, "It is very cozy here!" He told another friend of mine that one of the memories that he would take home is that everything smells good here—even the bathrooms and the downtown area. In contrast, my husband said that one of the memories he has of Moscow is the nauseous sewer odor everywhere.

We were happy that our 18-year-old son Brian, who is attending North Dakota State University in Fargo, also had a chance to meet our Russian visitors. My mother and all four of my sisters were also in town one weekend, and we gathered with Mikhail, Natasha and Irina for one large picture. Natasha told me that I was lucky to have such a large family. In Russia the families are very small, usually only one child, because of the housing and economic situation.

When the time to go "home" was approaching, Irina became very sad one evening. She said, "Janet, I do not know if I want to go home, or if I want to stay." We discussed the problem and she seemed OK until we got to the airport. We sat on the lobby floor and played a Russian game similar to backgammon that they had brought as a gift to our family, and reminisced about our time together.

As we exchanged our goodbye hugs through tears, Mikhail said, "My smile is very sad!" Our smiles were sad as well, as they walked down the ramp and into the plane. Suddenly we heard thundering footsteps, and there was Irina! We looked at each other, wondering if we had a defector on our hands, but she smiled and waved and said, "I just needed one more look!"

With heavy hearts we watched as their plane pulled away and started down the runway, back to a country of economic and political uncertainty. We knew that they were returning with their suitcases packed full of gifts, but the biggest gift of all remained in Minnesota—their love and friendship!

The Masons Cornerstone

It is interesting to note that the first officers installed in Northern Lodge A.F. & A.M. took office Feb. 23, 1901. At that time the main industry in Thief River Falls was a sawmill and the first electric light plant and water treatment plant were in operation.

Since that time we have gone from the production of lumber to the production of snowmobiles; from the sound of big bands to the sound of rap. In the thousands of changes that have taken place, most have probably been for the better; some, maybe not.

The structure of Masons, and sound foundation on which its philosophy is built, still manage to remain basically unchanged.

TRF to host seminar

Thief River Falls will be one of 25 communities in the state to host a Community Environmental Development seminar with the local event set for 2:30 to 5 p.m. Tuesday, February 11, at the Best Western Inn. Don Stewart, Thief River Falls community development director, will serve as regional host.

The seminars are sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development's Community Environment Development (CED) section. Discussion will address economic realities and provide information about current programs and resources used by CED to assist with community and economic development.

One featured topic of the seminar is Minnesota Main Street, a program intended to maximize the existing or remaining historic character of downtown as the traditional central business district. Minnesota's Main Street program is based on an approach developed by the national Trust for Historic Preservation.

"It is no secret that most traditional main streets of Minnesota have fallen upon difficult times," stated Mark Gustafson, CED representative. "The Main Street program addresses these issues and provides the training and resources necessary to help communities maintain historic traditions and create a competitive business environment."

Other topics include Minnesota Pride 1992 and the Governor's Design Team. These programs assist in identifying and achieving goals and objectives, and improving cooperation and communication between existing groups and organizations.

CED is a section of the Business Development and Analysis Division which promotes economic development growth and healthy, self sustaining communities through marketing, technical assistance, analysis, evaluation, publications and information services, training assistance and partnership activities.

For more information contact Mark Gustafson at 1-800-657-3858 or Don Stewart at 681-2500.

School board hears reports on programs

Reports on the Thief River Falls Technical college nursing program and potential changes for the Northwest Vocational Center to greater utilize the post secondary option program were presented Monday evening at the regular meeting of the School District 564 board of education.

Nursing program director Sharon Erickson reviewed the LPN program which has graduated 799 students since it was started in 1949, citing changes in program and participants over the years.

When she began working with the program in 1975, she said, it had 21 female students, mostly single and without children and from a 25-mile radius. There was only one instructor.

At the end of 1991 there were 115 students in the program, 14 per cent male, many female and male custodial single parents and from a wide geographic area. Seventy-five per cent of the graduates go on to the RN program through Northland Community college in the career ladder program and 15 per cent into the Bachelor of Science in Nursing program.

In 1991, she said, 97 graduates of the program took state examinations and only two failed, one of whom passed upon re-testing.

Mrs. Erickson said the 78-credit course required about five quarters to complete. She encouraged the board to keep the number of credits required for attendance low to permit more students to attend, to maintain membership in ARNEC and to maintain local control of the program.

Dr. Robert Duncan, superintendent of schools, reported on preliminary plans to phase Northwest Vocational Center's high school program into the post-secondary options program at the Thief River Falls Technical college and at Lincoln high school.

"I am not convinced," he told the board, "that it is our purpose to train people in grades K-12 to go into the work force. I believe we need to prepare them for post-high school training."

The proposed changes would result in vacating much of the space used by the vocational center in the school district service center building. Supt. Duncan said there would be some cost savings, personnel moves and perhaps a job or two lost, but he noted that additions to the program should be made in introduction to aviation and agricultural careers.

A report was also given to the board by Bill Stock and Jay Fomey of Lincoln high school on the Minnesota State High School League's "Target" program for chemical health and student leadership. They said the program is being coordinated into the Captain's Club at Lincoln and would involve about 40 student leaders, their parents, school personnel and others.

Elect Belmont as chairman of S.D. 564 board

Larry Belmont was elected chairman of the School District 564 board of education at the reorganizational meeting of the board recently, succeeding Maryel Anderson in that position.

Larry Belmont

Other officers elected were Dennis Kiesow, vice chairman; Darla Twomey, clerk; and Carl Clark, treasurer. Board salaries were set at the same amounts as in 1991—chairman, $3,750; vice chairman, $3,500; clerk, $3,400; treasurer, $3,200; and director, $3,000.

The Times was designated as the official newspaper for publication of school district legal notices and other board business and a resolution was approved authorizing the superintendent or board designee to contact legal counsel as needs require.

Scheduled as regular meeting dates for the board in 1992 were January 13 and 27, February 10 and 24, March 9 and 23, April 13 and 27, May 11, June 8 and 22, July 13, August 10 and 24, September 14 and 28, October 12 and 26, November 9 and 23 and December 14. Agreement near on package for school salaries

Negotiating teams for the School District 564 board of education and the Thief River Falls Education association will meet at 7 p.m. tonight with expectation of working out final details of the 1991-92 and 1992-93 faculty salary and benefits package.

Members of the TRFEA are scheduled to vote on the package at about 3:30 p.m. Wednesday with the full board of education to vote at 5 p.m. Wednesday.

General agreement on the contract has been reached, it was reported by board chairman Larry Belmont Monday evening at the board of education meeting, with some of the details discussed at a negotiations session at 7 a.m. today.

If an agreement is not signed by midnight Wednesday, the school district will lose $25 per pupil unit in foundation aid from the State of Minnesota.

TRF fire dept. receives fewer calls during 1991

Fewer fire calls were received by the Thief River Falls Fire Department in 1991. In his annual report to the city council Tuesday night, Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman will outline the number and types of calls received during the year.

A total of 122 calls were received during the year — 101 within the city and 21 in the rural fire district. The rural fire district includes North, Rocksbury, Smiley, Norden and Silverton townships.

The 122 calls received during the year are nine less than the year before. Bjorkman explains the decline due in part to the fact that the area got some timely rains last year and grass fires were down.

One significant change during the year was that although the number of calls decreased, the dollar amount of damage increased significantly. In 1990 there were 131 calls, and the dollar amount of fire damage was $147,195. In 1991 there were 122 calls, but the dollar amount of fire damage was far higher at $328,150.

Bjorkman said there was one big loss, which accounts for a significant portion of the increase. When the St. Hilaire elevator was damaged by fire, their loss added up to over $100,000.

In his report, Bjorkman also outlines the types of fire calls received. The highest number of calls received came from false alarms (27).

Bjorkman explained that a false alarm does not necessarily mean that someone intentionally caused an alarm to be sounded. False

Kendall wins '200' snowmobile race

Jim Kendall of Cross Lake was the overall winner of the Pabst 200 race held in Thief River Falls last weekend. Kendall rode away on his Polaris 440 with a winning purse of $2,239.63.

Jim Kendall of Crosslake sang the praises of the Pabst 200 race in Thief River Falls Saturday. Kendall said the course was faster than he anticipated and the race was well organized. Of course, since Kendall went home with the top prize on Sunday he might have been basking in a winner's glow when he made the comment, but other racers also had compliments for the race.

Joel Hallstrom, Arctic Cat racing director, complimented the organizers of the event. Hallstrom said this type of racing is easy on equipment and easy to control. The race, he said, was run.

Hallstrom also liked the format. Jerry Erickson, he said, came up with a good idea, when he suggested this race. The I-500 type of racing is popular and will probably continue to grow, Hallstrom said. It really tests the ability of the riders.

Races held Saturday and Sunday included a cross country race which began at Neptune bridge near Goodridge and finished at Bill LaFave park in Thief River Falls, a 20 mile ride. Racers then competed in an oval track race that added to the challenge.

Jim Kendall riding a 1992 Polaris 440 XCR won the race with an overall time of 1:19.49 and took home $2,239.63 for his first place finish. Over $9,700 was awarded to finishers in the I-500 division. Cash awards were given to the top 10 finishers in the I-500 division.

I-500 — 2) Kevin Spielman, Pequot Lakes, 1992 Polaris 440 XCR, 1:20:29, $1,752.75; 3) Eric Loge, NA, 1992 Polaris 440XCR, 1:20:47, $1,363.25; 4) Kirk Hibbert, Thief River Falls, 1992 Arctic Cat Prowler SP, 1:20:48, $1,071.13; 5) Todd Wolff, Annandale, 1992 Polaris 440 XCR, 1:21:32, $876.38; 6) Corey Davidson, Holt, 1992 Polaris 440XCR, 1:21:33, $681.63; 7) Jim Loss, Brainerd, 1992 Polaris, 440 XCR, 1:21:46, $584.25; 8) Les McLenehan, Estevan, Sask., 1992 Polaris 440 XCR, 1:22:05, $486.88; 9) Craig Feierabend, Brainerd, 1991 Polaris 440 XC, 1:22:25, $389.50; 10) Tim Wolff, Annandale, 1992 Polaris 440 XCR, 1:22:34, $292.13.

Impressions . . .

by Beth Johnson

Sunday I became the mother of an 18-year-old. It seems like only yesterday that my son, now an adult, was a newborn.

Eighteen years ago, we were living in the tiny town of LaBolt, South Dakota. There were barely 100 souls living in that town. We served two parishes. One was in LaBolt and the other in Stockholm, South Dakota. The town with the doctor and hospital was 50 miles away. To get to Watertown one had to drive some pretty desolate stretches of South Dakota prairie.

At 6:00 in the morning, though, this normally desolate road had a friendly appearance. The dairy barns along the way were all glowing in the soft lights which lit the work of the farmers. Our trip to the hospital 18 years ago was not desolate as we knew that in each of the farms we passed were friends or even strangers who would lend a helping hand to us if we needed help.

In spite of 20 below zero cold, and in spite of many miles to travel, we arrived at the hospital to simply wait for the birth of our son some 15 hours later.

What a miracle we beheld as we saw before us our son. How can one even describe that feeling known only to oneself as the newborn offspring offers his first cry. The joy and peace that new parents experience is precious to them. The feelings of wonder and helplessness and happiness and awe are part of the special feelings new parents have. We were not unfamiliar with these feelings when our first born son was born.

But, now 18 years later, I'm still feeling wonder and helplessness and happiness and in awe of this human being we have helped to create. Each parent can only wonder at the children for which they are the caretakers. We wonder at the mysteries they are. We wonder at the silliness of them. We wonder at the thoughts and feelings they have. We wonder if they will turn into good human beings. We wonder if we have been any help to them in their growing up days. We wonder what the future will hold for them.

In our wonder, we often find ourselves helpless. We feel helpless to help them in the studies which they do and which we cannot even fathom. We feel helpless to help them in learning how to control their feelings. We feel helpless when we ponder their future. We feel helpless because we know that we cannot guarantee that they will be always happy and content.

But in spite of our helplessness, these children of ours cause us much happiness. To imagine these past 18 years without my son and his brother is to imagine years of happiness denied. The times we have had together have been wonderful. They are times which are for the memories of all of us. How precious those memories are as we ponder the future. How even more precious those memories will become when these sons of mine will be living lives away from my constant care.

To me, my children are a source of awe. I'm forever in awe of the amount of food they consume. I'm in awe of the intelligence they have. I'm in awe of the athletic ability they have. I'm in awe of the plans they have for not just tomorrow, but for the years ahead. I'm in awe, that in spite of my mistakes as a parent these sons of mine are pretty good kids. I'm in awe of the pride they cause me.

Eighteen years seems like an eternity when the future is being examined. But, as a mother, 18 years have simply flown by as if in an instant.

They have been good years which I will cherish. As I worry and fret and plan and feel basically helpless about the futures of my sons I can look back at these past years. I can remember the tiny babies and the toddlers and the school boys who have turned into fine young men. In the remembering, I can feel confident that these children of mine have the ability to become adults of good character. I can feel proud of these sons I'm so pleased that I can claim. We are all truly blessed.

Dear Readers,
Aids is one of the most difficult challenges ever faced by modern medicine. It threatens millions of Americans regardless of age, gender race or place of residence. By 1991 an estimated 5 million Americans may be carrying the Aids virus. This will certainly affect the funeral profession. I would like to let my community know that we have been trained to deal effectively with infectious disease so that we can serve all families, and we offer total confidentiality to all those entrusted to our care.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

Speaking Of . . .

. . . Don't Remind Me, Please

I'm really not very fond of having birthdays any more and I would just as soon not remember that I'm having one tomorrow.

I used to like birthdays when I was little. It seems so long ago that I can hardly remember, but I distinctly remember looking forward to my birthdays back in grade school, having parties and getting presents. Yes, that was nice.

Since my birthday is in January, I can also remember that the weather was always bitterly cold on whatever day my birthday happened to be. I remember walking home from school with my little classmates, all of us dressed in our party dresses, little bare legs freezing blue. Maybe those years of cold birthday celebrations are what caused me to begin to dislike them—maybe.

It couldn't possibly be that I dislike birthdays because I get a year older every year, could it? I'm not going to tell you how old I will be on my birthday. In fact, there is no way you are going to persuade me to tell you my age. Wild horses couldn't drag that information out of me.

However, let me tell you, the 30th, and the 40th birthdays were absolutely painless compared to this one! Talk about an age that is over the hill—this has got to be it!

I don't really mind being this old; I just can't believe I'm already it! I certainly don't feel as old as I will be tomorrow, and nobody better tell me I look as old as I will be tomorrow, either. Frankly, it just doesn't seem possible!

Remember when we were young how we thought 35 was pretty old, 40 was very old, and everything else was absolutely ancient? I always thought that when I got as old as this, I wouldn't think it was such as old age and wouldn't mind when I got to be it. Wrong! It is old and now I'm it.

I've thought about coloring my hair and knocking 15 years off my age by lying, but it just doesn't seem right, somehow. I'm sure I would forget and tell my real age most of the time, and what would I do when it got time for retirement? Would I suddenly become the right age then? I'm really lousy at telling lies, anyway.

Besides, my son had his 30th birthday in 1991, and it just wouldn't do to have him running around almost as old as I am saying I am. I know I couldn't possibly say I had him at the age of five with a straight face. I bet he wouldn't mind if I took 15 years off of his age, though. But...

I'm sure that idea would backfire on me. You see, he has a six-year-old son. Doggone!

If I could get away with it, I would ignore the whole thing. Actually, it would be fine with me if my whole family forgot my birthday this year. In fact, it would be great!

I could just go through the day as if it were any other old day, and then—a few days later—when they least expect it—I could lay the biggest guilt trip on them about forgetting my birthday! Ha!

I have to admit, however, there is one thing I like about having a birthday tomorrow, and that is—THAT I CAN GET IT OVER WITH AND NOT HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT IT FOR ANOTHER WHOLE YEAR!

Public radio adds stations

Minnesota Public Radio (MPR) continues its statewide expansion with KNTN, a 100,000-watt non-commercial news and information station at 102.7 on the FM dial, and an arts and performance station at 90.9 FM at Roseau.

KNTN was aired in this area December 13 at a start-up power of 52,000 watts. It would now be possible for a motorist to listen to the news and information programming of MPR without interruption from the Canadian border to beyond Rochester.

The Roseau station went on the air December 14 and utilizes the signal of KQMN, Thief River Falls, to provide 24-hour music programming.

"KNTN is in the middle of a group of area stations and breaks up a pop/country/oldies/rock music format with varying programs that could be termed 'radio for the mind,'" states Bob Ekeren, MPR volunteer and promoter in Thief River Falls.

"Daytime offerings provide late-breaking news and profiles on issues not confined solely to regional orientation. Thief River Falls Times editor Marvin Lundin was recently interviewed by Paula Schroeder on items of area legislative interest during her 'Close to Home' program which airs each morning."

Ekeren said that KQMN has now been converted to an all-music format so that KNTN listeners will receive news and information 24 hours a day, including the BBC world service starting at 11 p.m. each day. The balance of programming includes religion, sports, politics, finance, parenting and National Press Club addresses.

KQMN at Thief River Falls is at 91.5 on the dial.

TRF girls win 51-48 ball game...

Prowlers' rally tips Moorhead

Moorhead never led in the first half. And the Spuds never trailed in the second half – until the final 49 seconds when Thief River Falls capped a come-from-behind effort in a 51-48 North Sub-Section 8AA girls high school basketball win in the Lincoln gym.

The Prowlers led 10-8 at the end of the first quarter and it was a 20-20 tie at halftime before a 10-0 Moorhead run provided the Spuds with a 39-29 cushion to start the final eight minutes.

Thief River Falls quickly cut the gap in half when the Prowlers opened the fourth quarter with a short jumper by Amy Adams, a free throw by Lisa Ulrich and a rebound basket by Tarik Koivisto.

But the Prowlers didn't overtake the Spuds until the final minute.

A four-shot flurry under the Thief River Falls basket finally produced points for Toni Chiodo, trimming the Moorhead lead to 48-47 with 1:10 remaining. After a full court press-produced turnover, the Prowlers went ahead 49-48 on a short jumper by Ulrich with 49 seconds left.

Another Moorhead turnover, this one coming as the Spuds tried to force the ball inside, turned into a pair of Jodi Kruta free throws with 19 seconds showing to make it a three-point game.

Kruta then came through defensively when she batted a potential game-tying three-point shot by the Spuds' Jenny Ritchie out of bounds with two seconds to play.

Ritchie, a 5-4 senior guard, led all scorers with 18 points. Teammate Sunny Glumich, a 5-9 senior center, netted 11. Kruta and Adams paced the Prowlers with 14 and 13 points, respectively. Kruta, a 5-6 senior guard, had 10 of her 14 in the first half, while Adams, a 5-10 junior center, did all her scoring in the second half.

"Amy came through at the end when it really counted," noted Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse, who said defense, and heart, keyed the Prowlers' comeback. "We had a tough time getting the ball to fall, but defensively we made some things happen. And they wanted to win it in the worst way; they just weren't going to lose."

Thief River Falls shot only 38 percent from the field for the game (23-for-60), but that was still better than the 33 percent shooting done by Moorhead (18-for-54). The Prowlers were 5-for-9 at the free throw line, where the Spuds' shooting woes continued in a 12-for-20 showing. Thief River Falls finished with a 37-26 rebound advantage, and although they made the Spuds pay dearly for their late-game mistakes, the Prowlers still wound up with more turnovers, 20-17.

The 6-4 Prowlers, 2-0 against North Sub-Section 8AA teams, were scheduled to be at Bemidji tonight (Tuesday).

Prowlers fall to Wildcats 57-52

Tri-County cashed in on its free throw opportunities Friday for a 57-52 boys high school basketball win over host Thief River Falls.

The Prowlers led 18-14 at the end of one quarter, but the Wildcats went up 35-26 at halftime and maintained a 45-41 third quarter edge.

Thief River Falls was within 53-52 with 11 seconds remaining, but Tri-County wrapped things up on free throws by Jon Pearson and Mark Thompson in the final moments.

It was the eighth loss in ten starts for the Prowlers, who will visit Fergus Falls Friday for an 8 p.m. North Sub-Section 8AA assignment.

"We played three good quarters, but the one bad quarter cost us," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "We weren't patient enough offensively in the second quarter. But the kids are playing hard. I was pleased with the effort."

A decided edge at the free throw line proved to be a major factor in the outcome as the Wildcats went 21-for-28 at the line, compared to a 6-for-9 showing by the Prowlers. Tri-County scored just once from the field in the final quarter, but kept Thief River Falls at bay with a 10-for-14 final period free throw performance.

The Prowlers were 22-for-45 from the field (49 percent), while the Wildcats went 16-for-44 (36 percent). Thief River Falls also had a 28-22 rebound edge, including a 12-9 advantage on the offensive boards, and Tri-County wound up with more turnovers, 13-5.

"We beat them in every aspect except at the free throw line," noted Brekke. "But give them (Wildcats) credit. They played well. They played aggressive and drew the fouls."

Thief River Falls' Tom Upham led all scorers with 17 points. Pearson and Tom Engen both netted 13 points for Tri-County, with Jeremy Polland adding 11.

Prowlers beat Bears by 10-2

Jason Svir and Carter Rogalla both had five-point games Saturday afternoon as Thief River Falls handled Lake of the Woods 10-2 in Section 8 high school hockey at the Sports Arena.

Svir scored four goals and picked up an assist, while Rogalla scored twice and had three assists as the Prowlers improved their record to 7-4-1.

Ryan Kraemer also scored twice for the winners, while Aaron Broten and Nathan Knutson both finished with a goal and two assists.

After three straight nail-biting finishes – a 3-2 overtime win over Robbinsdale Cooper in the St. Cloud Granite City Classic, 4-2 come-from-behind victory at Moorhead and a 3-3 overtime tie with Roseau – the running time third period was a welcome respite, said Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo.

"It was nice to be able to sit back and relax," he said. "This was our 12th game, and 11 of the 12 have been the high-pressure kind of games. After a while, those kind of games begin to wear you down. Today we had a chance to get everybody involved; we got some different kids some playing time."

The line-up alterations, stemming in part to a Friday practice injury suffered by wing Chad Frazer, gave junior varsity players like Kraemer and Barry Rhineberger an opportunity to pick up their first varsity points. Defenseman Darin Weleski, sidelined by a broken thumb suffered in a preseason practice, also wound up with an assist in his 1991-92 debut.

Thief River Falls started with a 3-0 first period lead as Svir came in from behind Lake of the Woods goalie Ed Gens to tap a loose puck into an open net at 1:32; Broten slammed home a centering pass at 8:26; and Rogalla converted a power play opportunity during a flurry around the Bears' net at 14:26.

Svir scored on a goal mouth tip at 2:42 and cut across the crease for point blank backhand at 5:03 as the Prowlers' lead climbed to 5-0 early in the second period.

A drop pass left by Rogalla was turned into a goal by Knutson at 8:58 and Svir scored off another power play goal mouth scramble at 14:49 to make it 7-0.

Eric Larson put Lake of the Woods on the board with a shoulder-high shot that found its way out of goalie Trevor Haugen's glove at 6:18 of the third period, but Kraemer walked in for a goal at 7:18, Rogalla finished off a Thief River Falls rush at 12:11 and Kraemer picked up his second goal at 13:01.

A long shot by the Bears' Bill Peterson got through at 14:25 to complete the scoring.

Thief River Falls was scheduled to host Crookston tonight (Tuesday). The Prowlers head to Detroit Lakes Saturday for a varsity game-only.

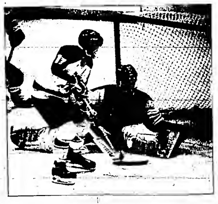
Pioneers will see Air Base, MCCC teams

Northland Community College men's and women's basketball teams, idle since mid-December, were scheduled to resume play tonight (Tuesday) with a home doubleheader against the Grand Forks Air Base teams.

Women's game was scheduled for 6 p.m. The men's game had an 8 p.m. starting time.

Chet Engelman-coached Northland men are 5-3 for the year. Sue Barnd-coached Northland women are 4-3.

Both Northland teams begin their Northwest Division-counting 1991-92 Minnesota Community College Conference schedules at home this weekend when they host MCCC Northeast Division foes Rainy River Friday and Hibbing Saturday. Friday game times at 6 and 8 p.m.; Saturday games are planned for 12-noon and 2 p.m., with the women playing the first game each day.



Lake of the Woods goalie Ed Gens tried to stretch across the goal mouth, but he couldn't stop Thief River Falls forward Jason Svir from putting the puck in the net during the second period of the Saturday afternoon high school hockey game at the Sports Arena. Svir scored four goals in the 10-2 Thief River Falls win.

Skippers top Eagles 51-49

Grygla-Gatzke efforts were sabotaged by fourth quarter shooting problems Friday as the host Eagles dropped a 51-49 boys high school basketball game to Middle River.

After posting quarter leads of 13-6, 30-25 and 44-39, the Eagles produced just five points over the final eight minutes when they went just 1-for-16 from the field and 3-for-7 at the free throw line – including misses on the front end of five bonus opportunities.

"We really went south with our shooting in the fourth quarter," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "We had the shots we wanted; they just wouldn't fall. Then we starting getting a little flustered and forced a couple of shots we maybe shouldn't have taken."

A free throw by the Eagles' Scott Rindahl did tie it 49-49 with seven seconds left, but he missed the next attempt. The Skippers' Jarrett Walton grabbed the long rebound and was fouled. He went to the free throw line with three seconds remaining and made both attempts for the win, finishing a frantic final 33 seconds that featured four turnovers and six trips to the free throw line – along with several time-out calls.

"We did our best to lose it," offered Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We were happy to just be in the game at halftime – we had played poorly, and Grygla was playing well."

Middle River still faced a 10-point deficit in the third quarter before cutting that deficit in half to begin the final eight minutes, and a suddenly-effective defense put the Skippers in command down the stretch.

"I thought we played excellent defense in the fourth quarter – probably the best we've played all year," pointed out Sparby.

Walton finished with 14 points and teammate Gilbert Olson had 12. Ryan Bakken led the Eagles with a game-high 15 points, while Mitch Bernstein scored 13 and Rindahl had 10.

Grygla-Gatzke wound up with a 30 percent shooting figure for the night on an 18-for-60 showing. Middle River shot just slightly better on an 19-for-58, 32 percent effort. The Eagles were 11-for-19 at the free throw line, where the Skippers went 10-for-13. Middle River finished with a 34-22 rebound advantage and the turnovers were even at 10-apiece.

The win put the Skippers at 6-3 for the year, while the loss dropped the Eagles to 3-3. Middle River was scheduled to host Goodridge tonight (Tuesday). Weekend road games will have the Skippers playing Badger-Greenbush Friday in Greenbush and Kittson County North Saturday at Lancaster. Grygla-Gatzke was scheduled to meet Marshall County Central tonight (Tuesday) at Northland Community College. The Eagles also have a three-game week as they host Lake of the Woods Friday and head to Argyle Saturday.

Huskies lose for first time

There was a 36-point turnaround in Friday's Goodridge vs. Clearbrook-Gonvick boys high school basketball match-up in Clearbrook as the Bears overcame an early 11-0 deficit to beat the Huskies 78-53.

It was the first loss in seven season-opening starts for the Huskies, who were scheduled to visit Middle River tonight (Tuesday) before taking on a weekend doubleheader that find them playing Valley North Friday in Oslo before they end a string of seven straight road games with a Saturday night match-up with Climax in Goodridge.

After spotting Goodridge the first 11 points of the game, Clearbrook-Gonvick came back to take a 17-15 first quarter lead. The Bears made it 36-26 at halftime and opened up a 62-35 third quarter gap.

"We went up 11-0, and I thought, great, this is going to be all right," reported Goodridge coach John Rahn. "But then everything went nuts. Nothing went right for us after that. We got in foul trouble and our reserves just didn't pick up the slack."

The fouls, illness and injuries all played a part in the outcome, mentioned Rahn, "but the bottom line is, we just didn't play that well."

Four Clearbrook-Gonvick scorers hit double figures, including matching 21-point games by Jeff Brunsberg and Terry Torgerson, who had 17 of his points in the first half. Chris Schmitz added 12 points and Joe Johnson contributed 11 to the Bears' total.

Donovan Quam led the Huskies with 17 points, while Willie Vettleson scored 13 and Brandon Blaine had 11.

Goodridge shot 36 percent from the field (22-for-61), while Clearbrook-Gonvick shot 52 percent (26-for-50). The Huskies were 8-for-13 at the free throw line, where the Bears had a productive 23-for-30 night.

Middle River girls beat Bears

Middle River out-scored Lake of the Woods 23-6 in the third quarter Saturday afternoon en route to a 70-46 girls high school basketball win at Baudette.

The two teams played to a 15-15 first quarter tie. The Skipper went ahead 33-26 at holftime, then opened up a 56-32 third quarter spread.

"Denise Johnson dominated the second half for us," pointed out Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. The senior guard finished with only eight points, but she ran the show with her ball handling and passing skills, explained Neibauer. "I've been coaching a long time, but I haven't had a guard control a game like that before," he said.

Krissi Super led the Skippers in scoring with 26 points. Teammate Holly Gram netted 15. Erika Klassen led the Lake of the Woods offense with 17 points – getting 11 of those in the first quarter.

"We have to play better defense," noted Neibauer.

Middle River was 30-for-57 from the field (53 percent) and had a 10-for-15 game at the free throw line, where Lake of the Woods was a similar 9-for-15.

Fourth straight win for the Skippers put them at 7-3 heading into a game at Plummer tonight (Tuesday) against Red Lake County Central. Middle River will host rival Marshall County Central Thursday.

MCC boys beat Badger-Greenbush, lose to Crookston...

Nordics split NCC games

Back-to-back visits to the Northland Community College gym for the Marshall County Central boys high school basketball team produced contrasting results for the Nordics, who out-scored Badger-Greenbush 76-72 in North Border Conference play Friday night, but struggled through a 55-39 nonconference loss at the hands of Crookston Saturday afternoon.

The Nordics, who are playing a portion of their 1991-92 'home' schedule in Thief River Falls following the loss of their school to a November fire, are 4-4 for the year.

"It went as bad Saturday as it was good Friday," noted Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We've got a young team and they have to realize the basketball season is a marathon, not a 50-yard dash. It was a real good game Friday – there was a full house and lots of excitement. Saturday we were flat. We had no energy left. We had tired legs. Everything we put up was short."

Another drive to Thief River Falls awaited the Nordics tonight (Tuesday) – this one at Lincoln High School vs. Grygla-Gatzke.

Marshall Co. Central	76
Badger-Greenbush	72

A fourth quarter Badger-Greenbush rally came up short as Marshall County Central came out a 76-72 winner in Friday's high-scoring match-up.

Tim Olson led the winners with 23 points, while Ivan Hirst had an 18-point, 14-rebound game and Jeremy Tallum added 13 points to the Nordics' total. Four Badger-Greenbush scorers hit double figures, with Ryan Rislov netting 17, Ben Borgen and Matt Kuznia 12 each and Trent Wahl 11.

Marshall County Central, up 18-13 at the end of the first quarter, had a lead ranging from 10-to-17 points much of the rest of the way, including a 37-27 halftime advantage and a 62-51 third quarter spread, before Badger-Greenbush made a fourth quarter run.

The Bulldogs had a chance to tie on a three-point shot in the final 30 seconds, but the attempt was off the mark, and the Nordics wrapped it up at the free throw line.

Marshall County Central shot 46 per cent from the field on a 26-for-57 night, while Badger-Greenbush enjoyed 51 percent shooting on a 24-for-47 showing.

Both sides were busy at the free throw line, where the Nordics were 23-for-36 and the Bulldogs went 21-for-30. Marshall County Central finished with a sizeable 42-28 rebound advantage. The turnovers were even at 13-apiece.

Crookston	55
Marshall Co. Central	39

Crookston ran an effective fast-break offense against a tired Marshall County Central squad in a Saturday matinee match-up as the Pirates ran away with a 55-39 decision.

The Nordics started with a 10-9 first quarter lead, but then went 1-for-10 from the field in a three-point second quarter to fall behind 28-13 at halftime. They never recovered, trailing 41-22 through three quarters.

A balanced Crookston attack was led by Scott Magsam with 11 points. Tim Olson had 10 points to lead Marshall County Central. Ivan Hirst, one of the Nordics' leaders, left the game with just six points after taking a finger in the eye.

The Nordics shot only 37 percent (16-for-43), while the Pirates wound up with a 46 percent figure (21-for-46). Marshall County Central was 5-for-8 at the free throw line, where Crookston went 8-for-12. The Pirates out-rebounded the Nordics 29-18 and Marshall County Central had more turnovers, 13-10.

Rams beat Wolverine girls 54-33

Roseau began to break away from Grygla-Goodridge late in the first half Monday and the Rams went on to beat the Wolverines 54-33 in girls high school basketball at Goodridge.

The two teams played to a 9-9 first quarter tie and it was still close before the Rams struck late for a 24-16 halftime advantage. Roseau opened up a 42-25 third quarter gap.

"Overall, and especially defensively, I was pretty well pleased with the effort," noted Grygla-Goodridge coach Mike Gast. "They gave it a strong effort, but we always seem have a minute, minute-and-a-half stretch late in a quarter where we let up, and it winds up costing us."

The winless Wolverines are 0-10. "We knew at the beginning of the year we weren't going to score a lot of points," admitted Gast.

Teresa Gotzlaman and Sue Roadfeldt scored 12 points apiece to lead the Rams. Kathy Smeby finished with a game-high 14 points for the Wolverines.

Grygla-Goodridge shot only 24 percent from the field (10-for-41), while Roseau shot 35 percent (23-for-65). The Wolverines were 13-for-27 at the free throw line, where the Rams went 8-for-20. The rebounds were even at 32-apiece. Jacki Kiesow led Grygla-Goodridge with 8 rebounds.

The Wolverines will be idle until Monday when they will meet Marshall County Central in Thief River Falls' Lincoln High School gym.

Fire department answers fewer calls in '91

alarms can be caused by a number of factors. Bjorkman said he didn't think there were any malicious false alarms during the year. The second highest number of calls received were defined as smoke calls or good intent calls (18). Those calls typically involve someone reporting smoke.

The third and fourth highest number of calls received were defined as auto fires (17) and home, apartment and garage fires (17). This may help explain why the dollar amount of damage increased significantly this year; although, the number of these types of calls in 1991 are not significantly higher than the number of calls recorded during the prior year.

Grass fires with 13 followed auto and home fires. This represents a decrease of five from the previous year. In 1989 there were eight grass fire calls and in 1988, 21.

Responses to spills, leaks and hazardous conditions followed grass fires with nine reports. This represents a decrease of four from the previous year.

Other responses included six requests for extraction or rescue, five for mutual aid and business, two for electric disturbance and appliances, and one each for trash/dumpsters and boats, snowmobiles and recreational vehicles. There were no chimney fires or piled material fires.

Bjorkman also lists the cause of structure fires. According to his report, the leading cause of fires in Thief River Falls were juveniles playing with fire (7). This represents a significant increase from the previous year, which recorded two such incidents.

Bjorkman said fire department personnel counseled three to four kids last year. He said the fire department usually involves the school social worker to find out if a youth has a problem. If the youth has a problem they will go through the juvenile court system. "So far, that hasn't been a problem."

Bjorkman said the fire department has a youth fire prevention program in place, and so far, they've been able to "nip the problem in the bud."

The second and third leading cause of fires were woodstoves (4) and electrical wiring and extension cords (4).

Extension cords seem to be the main problem. People are using too many extension cords improperly. They are hooking them up to appliances that should be wired in to the house or residence. They also put them where they get pinched and frayed and overheat if they are too light to handle the demand, Bjorkman said.

As causes, woodstoves and electrical wiring, were followed by fires caused by cooking (3), accidental damage (2), and heating device (2). Other causes of fires include: Clogged machinery/friction, smoking material, appliances, chimney, explosion and lightning, automobile, and candle.

There were no serious injuries or deaths during the year. During the year, the fire department personnel also completed 1,036 hours of training. That compares to 815 hours of training completed the year before.

The number of hours increased, Bjorkman said, mainly because the fire department got five new fire fighters last year. New fire fighters have to go through mandated training in addition to in-house training.

Bjorkman said the fire department also hosted the sectional school last spring, which was attended by more than 300 fire fighters. And, the department had another house burn for training purposes, which added to the number of training hours.

Local school reps attend OBE session

Five staff members from the Thief River Falls public schools attended a conference on outcome-based education (OBE) January 7-9 in Rochester.

Attending the national conference which attracted more than 4,300 educators from throughout the country were Jean Petterson of Knox elementary; Christine Burnham, Washington elementary; Jan Breiland, Franklin middle school; Bob Michalicek, Lincoln high school; and Glen Espe, elementary principal.

Outcome based education is being promoted as a replacement for time and grade-drive learning structure. Its goal is to ensure that students at all levels demonstrate a mastery of knowledge skills and values to the point of application before they graduate from high school.

The Rochester conference featured teachers and administrators who work with OBE every day and school site visitations for about 200 of those attending the conference.

Skaars named honor farmers for Pennington

Brothers Andy and Leonard Skaar of rural Thief River Falls have been named by a local committee as Pennington County Honored Valley Farmers for 1992.

Andy and Leonard will be recognized at a special banquet for county winners Monday, February 17, during the Red River Valley Winter Shows in Crookston. Named to receive the award from Red Lake county are the Larson Brothers from rural Oklee.

Previously known as the Valley Farmer and Homemaker award program, criteria for nomination was changed by the Winter Shows committee this year to permit nomination for recognition of family units which do not include husband and wife.

Other county residents honored at the Winter Shows are the King Agassiz candidates and Honor Dairyman. Kelly Lundeen of rural Trail was crowned county King Agassiz at the Pennington county fair last summer. Selection of the county honor dairyman has not yet been announced.

Pabst Thief River 200 —

Tom Weng of Thief River Falls was among the many volunteers and race officials who made sure the race went smoothly. Racers participating in the Pabst Thief River 200 Cross Country Snowmobile race seemed to enjoy the course, which included a cross country race which began at the Neptune bridge near Goodridge and then an oval track race.

A couple of snowmobile racers wait for the start of the oval race and last minute instructions before being given the start.

Snowmobile racers got off to a good start on Saturday at the Pabst Thief River 200 Cross Country Snowmobile race. The weather was perfect and racers seemed to like the course. Sunday, the weather got rather chilly for spectators, but there was a good turnout.

Children learn from behavior of parents

(First in a series of three articles on Parents, Alcohol and Pre-Teens.)

Can parents drink alcohol and expect their kids not to drink? What influence do parents really have on the standards and guidelines their children develop regarding alcohol, tobacco and other drug use?

Parents throughout Minnesota are concerned about alcohol, tobacco and other drug use among children. Hardly a day goes by without news stories of teenage drinking problems, drinking and driving by citizens of all ages, police raids on crack houses, children smoking and selling crack and cocaine, and date rapes involving alcohol use on college campuses.

National attention to problems of illegal drugs such as crack, cocaine and marijuana sometimes obscure the facts that alcohol and tobacco present far greater health risks for many more adolescents than all other drugs combined. According to the Minnesota Student Survey Report of 1989, 55 per cent of high school seniors report regular use of alcohol and 31 per cent report regular use of tobacco.

Throughout the United States, cigarettes cause 1,000 deaths each day. Alcohol is related to another 350 deaths per day. Illicit drug use accounts for 15 deaths each day. Driving while impaired or intoxicated, family tension due to alcohol use, short or long term health consequences of tobacco use, legal problems, chemical dependency, and harm to a developing fetus are very real problems that affect all of us.

Parents of children of all ages are afraid, confused and uncertain about what to do to prevent these problems from affecting their children. Some fear that if they talk with them about alcohol it will somehow encourage them to drink. Other parents feel that if they drink alcohol it is impossible for them to ask young people to abstain. Even when their alcohol use is considered safe and appropriate, many parents simply do not know what to say.

This fear and confusion has often left parents with few clear guidelines to share with their children about when the use of any chemical is necessary or unnecessary, healthy or unhealthy, appropriate or inappropriate, or low risk or high risk.

Perhaps alcohol is the clearest example of a chemical around which there is a great deal of confusion and lack of accepted guidelines for chemically healthy behavior. We live in a society where a significant number of people choose to abstain from any alcohol use. A majority of our adult population chooses to use alcohol. Some experience alcohol-related problems, and some use alcohol in risky and dangerous ways on certain occasions.

Yet most people are neither abstainers nor problem or dependent users of alcohol. They choose to use alcohol legally, occasionally, moderately and safely. Many parents in our community fall into this category. Because of our confused attitudes toward alcohol, however, many parents simply say nothing or

Tweet to handle Arctco "Tigershark" effort

To oversee the engineering, production and marketing of Arctco's new "Tigershark" line of personal watercraft, Ole Tweet has been named vice president of product development and general manager of marine products.

Arctco's vice president of marketing since 1982, Tweet has held management positions in new product development, design, engineering and marketing in the recreational vehicle industry for more than 25 years. He will continue to be heavily involved in product planning for the snowmobile division.

Tweet said he is looking forward to the challenge of leading Arctco into new markets. The first "Tigershark" personal watercraft will be available this spring and summer.

Arctco president and chief executive officer, Chris Twomey, said Tweet is the ideal leader for the new division. He said Arctco has experienced "tremendous growth" under Tweet's marketing leadership for the past nine years.

"He has the ability to understand what the consumer is looking for and the technical and marketing expertise to make our new product line a success," Twomey said. "I am very pleased he has agreed to head this new division."

Children learn from behavior of their parents limit their comments to "Don't drink; it is against the law." By saying nothing, parents risk that their children will think that their parents approve of their drinking or that their parents don't care.

However, the research is clear. What parents say or do not say has a substantial effect on the choices their children make about the use and nonuse of alcohol and other drugs. One of the most significant influences on alcohol use decisions of young people is the degree to which they think their parents will be concerned about their use. Those who feel their parents will be very concerned are much more likely to abstain or use very infrequently.

Less than 50 per cent of high school seniors feel that their parents would be concerned about their use of alcohol. There is a need for parents to first of all establish their own personal guidelines for safe, legal, healthy and appropriate choices about the use and nonuse of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs. Once these are established, parents can help their children develop their own guidelines about the choices they will ultimately need to make.

The State Chemical Dependency Program Division of the Department of Human Services is currently working to help parents throughout Minnesota to use their influence in a positive way. The second article in this series will describe how parents can establish guidelines and begin the process of helping their children to do the same.

FRANKLIN'S ADVICE FOR LIVING HAS VALUE FOR ALL OF US

The birthday of Benjamin Franklin should remind all of us that he was far more than just a revered American statesman with an incredible array of interests and achievements. In addition to his accomplishments as a diplomat, author, publisher, scientist and philanthropist, we remember him for his practical advice on living. He extolled the virtues of thrift, temperance, the wise use of time, and the merits of keeping sensible hours. His formula of "early to bed, early to rise" continues to be a household expression. Your faith will teach you that the value of Benjamin Franklin's advice knew no national boundaries and is as valid today anywhere in the world as it was during the colonial days of America in which we lived.

Waste neither time nor money, but make the best of both. -Benjamin Franklin

INSURANCE Update

by Dee Schmidigell

When it comes to insurance policyholders should pay as much attention to what the policy does not cover, as they do to what is covered. The things that are specifically not covered by the insurance contract are known as exclusions. They are designed, not so much to deprive the policyholder of coverage; as they are to get the policyholder to think about what coverage is most appropriate. Exclusions can deliberately cause a policyholder to think about coverage that might otherwise have been overlooked. As a result, a switch to another type of policy, or the purchase of an endorsement, can make the policy more suitable to actual needs.

Regardless of your insurance needs, NORTHERN STATE AGENCY is here to provide you with the protection you require. It is important to see that you have adequate insurance protection before a tragedy or mishap occurs. If you have any questions or concerns regarding your policy or coverage, discuss the matter with us. You will find our office conveniently located in the Northern State Bank Building. To reach us, call 681-4042. We're open Mon.-Fri 8:30 - 5, until 6-Thursday.

Note: It is unlikely that an affordable insurance policy can provide coverage for every possible loss.

Put Those Check-off Dollars To Work

"Call yourself a farmer today and you are likely to open yourself up to being called a lot of nasty names," states a news release from a new organization called Minnesota Foundation for Responsible Animal Care (FRAC).

"Animal rightists say farmers are cruel and inhumane to animals," the release continues. "Environmentalists accuse farmers of polluting the water. Even the average consumer charges farmers with using unsafe chemicals on crops or in animals. What is frustrating for Minnesota farmers is that these charges don't hold up under close scrutiny. Minnesota's farmers are responsible and committed to high quality food."

Tom Cashman of FRAC claims that "animal rights propaganda highlights the rare, and often contrived, example of animal abuse. Nowhere in their literature will animal rightists tell you that an industry such as fur farming has implemented a strict set of husbandry guidelines. Nor will they tell you that most fur producers subscribe to a certification program which includes on-site veterinary inspection of facilities.

".....Consumer advocates decry the chemicals put into animal feeds," Cashman continues. "They never bother to discuss the strict withdrawal schedules all animal producers must follow or how animals naturally eliminate or break down these additives so they do not appear in the finished meat products.

"What's more is that they never detail the multi-step inspection process of animal foods. Most importantly, never will they acknowledge the undisputed fact that Americans have the safest food supply in the world."

Mission of FRAC is two-fold, Cashman says: (1) to inform the public and foster consumer confidence in animal care and product quality and (2) to expand the animal industry's knowledge about production and marketing practices. It will accomplish this through public relation campaigns, advertising, literature distribution, educational forums and research," Cashman adds, "but is not a political action group and will not engage in any form of legislative activities."

He calls FRAC a coalition of Minnesota agriculture groups and said it is "committed to raising funds from the general public to tell the agriculture story in the areas of animal rights, environmental stewardship and food safety. With poor markets and tight margins, farmers just do not have the funds to compete with organizations like People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA), a highly active animal rights organization with an annual budget of over six million dollars."

Yeah, right. When your livelihood is on the line you darn well better get your priorities in order and put survival first. Cashman may be a genuine defender with the best interests of farmers at heart, or he may be an opportunist looking to benefit personally like the leaders of some of the other self-proclaimed environmental and animal rights groups. Time will probably tell which.

But if strapped farmers don't have the funds to defend their own industry and practices, their commodity groups certainly do. Virtually every agricultural product from milk to beef to pork to soybeans to corn to wheat and other small grains has a check-off system to provide money for promotion. For the most part this gets routed through an administrative system of sorts to professional agencies which are only too willing to help spend it, mostly on expensive television spots.

Shouldn't the commodity committees that are elected to oversee the use of check-off funds direct their professional staffs to reserve a portion of the cash flow for defense of the industry? If they want to give it to Cashman and his FRAC to do the job for them, that's fine and dandy. Maybe a coalition effort would be most effective at what any special interest group calls the promotion of its cause....."education."

We believe in having the truth told about farm operations and we have no time for those who distort the truth and prey on emotions to promote their animal rights positions. But the dispute is agriculture's fight, not the general public's fight, and the general public should be rightfully indignant about being asked to pay for the ammo.

Scandinavians—Are You Ready To Protest?

It's about time that Scandinavians in the Midwest showed their displeasure at the disrespect that the Minnesota professional football team's management has shown for their proud ancestral heritage by naming its football team the Vikings. Protest seems to be the thing to do these days.

We propose a march on the opening of the team's training camp because it will be a long, long time before the opportunity comes to protest during its appearance in a Super Bowl. We must be firm and united in the demand that the name "Vikings" be changed to something that doesn't bring discredit to the Norwegians, Swedes and Danes of the world.

"I am particularly outraged by the team mascot," said an angry Per Olaf Olssen, leader of Mostly Incensed Scandinavians For Innovative Renaming Effort (M.I.S.F.I.R.E.). "A horned and hairy hulk carrying a sword and shield is an insult and mockery to a nation of proud and noble seamen who sought to spread their cultural refinement throughout the world. Stereotyping of Vikings as uncivilized rogues is a grave injustice and must be stopped."

Olssen was joined in his protest of offensive team names by Betsy Dogooder of Friends of Animals and Their Caricature As Teams (F.A.T.C.A.T.). "The exploitation of our defenseless creatures is inexcusable," she said. "Why associate such exquisite creatures as bears and lions and falcons and eagles with a senseless, brutal sport?"

Why indeed? Why not just name the team for the head coach, put his picture on the helmets and eliminate all that discontent? Then next fall we can watch the Minnesota Greens play the Chicago Ditkas and not have the commentators remind us of past Super Bowl losses by the—there's that name again—Vikings.

The Rutherford Report

by Gary Rutherford

Parents Role in Economic Development

Thirty-eight juniors and seniors entered the high school auditorium. While the TV cameras recorded, I asked, "How many of you will return to this community when you are finished with your education?" Not one hand went up!

Thinking they had misunderstood, I rephrased the question: "How many plan to leave this community when your education is complete?" Every hand but one went up. They hadn't misunderstood.

Then I asked, "Has anyone ever told you how important you are to the future of this community?" No! "What is the future of this community if each class feels the same way as you do?" Dead! Other questions confirmed that a firm attitude had been developed in these kids before high school. They didn't hate their home town, they just didn't believe there was a future for them there.

If I were to ask, "How many of you would like to return to this community if a good job awaited you?" most would raise their hands. But, across rural America the condition is, no faith in the future.

Similarly, concerned citizens say their number one problem is, "We can't retain our youth." Yet, they have no written plan of how to retain or return their youth. Parents have also given up on their community offering a future for their kids. Parents more often encourage their kids to leave than find a way to make a good income there. More than any other group, parents develop attitudes that have much to do with what kids value and are willing to fight for. Thus, parents have a very important role in the future of a community. What can parents do?

1. Parents must first deal honestly with their own attitude. That attitude will be transferred to their kids.

2. Openly discuss your family's history. Why did your grandparents move to this area? What did they overcome? What family character traits continue today? Build family pride and review the self-dependence that is evident anywhere in the family tree.

3. Discuss why needing to find a job has nearly placed the drive to start your own business.

4. Discuss the global economy with your kids, how America is changing economically, and why.

5. Reinforce that higher education is always good, but no longer insures a quality job.

6. Discuss strong and weak points of major cities versus your community. The differences in cost of housing, drive time to work, air quality, crime, drugs, school system, values system, environment for their children, cost of living, divorce rate, etc., make your community look good.

7. Study state and community history. Understand its beginnings, its problems, and how citizens overcome. Develop a sense of identity, of belonging, and of home.

8. Teach a solid work ethic, the value of doing excellent work, and discuss why America's productivity is falling.

9. Teach the value of money, the danger of debt, and the merit of savings.

10. Help your children explore possible futures early. Encourage lemonade stands, paper routes, and sales jobs. Stimulate creativity and reward initiative. Develop entrepreneurism. Opportunity lies wherever there is a long-standing problem or something has been done one way for a long time.

11. Subscribe to Popular Science and Popular Mechanics. As a family, discuss the applications of the new ideas you learn.

12. Read the biographies of those who have caused success, and reinforce that persistence is the secret of success. Teach that to fail does not mean you are a failure, it only brings you one step closer to success.

13. Start with simple tasks, applaud success, and build your kid's confidence.

14. Let your kids see your concern for your community, and your involvement. An attitude of citizenship comes from parents. Teach responsibility for more than yourself, reestablish a meaning of commonwealth.

15. Encourage discussion with neighbors and their children about what can be done to create a stronger community. If your kids share your concern about retaining and returning them to the community, some would. Become a community booster, the attitude is contagious.

16. Show any successes in the community to your kids.

17. Bring your kids to leadership meetings, encourage discussion and involvement.

With parents involved in these ways, a percentage of kids will want to prepare to return to their community. Kids that are prepared attitudinally and educationally, can succeed any where financially. With a continuous injection of "new blood," your community will have a future, and new parents to encourage their children to participate, too!

Strandquist News

F. Myrtle Vagle

Most folks around Strandquist, have been entertained this weekend by looking for pictures of themselves and friends in the last yearbook to be published from the Strandquist school-1991. Fifty years ago we knew almost everyone by name and now we wonder who these people are, and were they ever there.

After a couple of weeks of beautiful weather, which made for mere homecomings than usual, the TV announced this morning that we are due for some real winter the next few days. It is fortunate that most guests have now reached their own homes.

Buss and Dorothy Challe returned home to Wibaux, MT, after spending the holidays with Morris and Hazel Anderson and other relatives and friends. Chana Chalea returned to UND.

December 26 to 28, Jennifer Anderson joined other 4-H officers and Ambassadors at Camp Shemineau near Motley. They had this winter retreat to plan for 1992 4-H events for Minnesota.

They were celebrating Jared's 11th birthday. Happy Birthday, Jared!

That Sunday evening Paul and family, J.R. and Toni, Wayne and Pat Larson, abby, Kate and Rebecca, Terry and Betty Pietruscewski, Michael and Kevin, Ben Kleinvachter, Mark, Brian and Sara went to Thief River Falls, and had their Christmas supper with Fr. Susan Gustafson was a houseguest at the John Blackbird home in Minneapolis, from Thursday to Sunday last week.

Tuesday, December 31, Alvin and Nina Halvorson and Lloyd and Harryet Larson were afternoon visitors and supper guests at the Ray and Marion Gusa home of rural Middle River.

Peter and Valerie Solem, Andrew and Rebekah returned home Thursday evening after spending the Christmas holidays in Chicago with Valerie's parents, Leo and Dora Anderson, and with other relatives. Christmas Eve Peter and Valerie and Andrew attended services at the First Evangelical free church, Valerie's home church as a child. The service was divided between the English and the Spanish language, with an interpreter for those who were unable to understand Spanish. The hymns were sung in both languages at the same time, which worked very well. The evening of Christmas Day, Peter and Andrew and Valeria's niece, Susan, attended the basketball game between the Bulls and the Celtics at the Stadium, which was very exciting for sport-minded Andrew. Peter, Andrew and Rebekah went by train to Salem, WI, Sunday December 29, to visit the Rev. Kermit Solem family. Valerie drove to Salem Tuesday, and was also a guest at Kermit's. Wednesday they all left for Minneapolis, and were overnight guests at the home of Valerie's cousin, driving back to Thief River Falls, later in the day Thursday.

Mrs. Harryet Larson spent last Saturday at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Eugene Floistad in Holt. Lloyd came to Floistads in the afternoon and both he and Harryet were supper guests.

"School officials are wondering whether or not air raid drills should be practiced in the schools. Air raids are so remote a possibility that preparation for them seems like a waste effort. What to do? Our guess is that if defense officials recommend air raid drills in the schools then the schools should have air raid drills. Certainly they would do no harm and teaching the youngsters what should be done in case of an air raid is a good way to instruct all of us. And there always is the possibility of an actual raid. The one thing the war should have taught us by now is that we should be prepared for the unexpected."

Chamber sets tone for leadership in '92

Awards in education were presented at the 78th annual Chamber of Commerce banquet at the Best Western Saturday evening to Darcy Reese, Jim Haviland and Ron Novak. Darcy Reese received a plaque in appreciation of her contribution as director of her choirs. Jim Haviland received the Higher Education Award, which recognized Haviland for his vitality, values and visioning. Ron Novak, who was not able to attend the banquet, received the Excellence in Education award. The awards were presented by Jean Heinrichs, who was president of the education committee in 1991.

"Make Your Dreams Come True in '92" opened with a review of 1991 during the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce 78th annual banquet, which was held at the Best Western Saturday evening.

Past President Larry Rohlf stated in his 1991 Presidential message, that "day after day working together the chamber, city, county, Jobs Inc, and others all are trying to improve our community".

Rohlf's highlights also included some comments about the casino issue. "As my year was winding down or so I thought, along came the infamous casino issue. What can I say about the 'good, bad, and ugly'. This was an excellent opportunity to see that a community is made up of many different ideas of what we want to be and many different ways to accomplish them. 'Good, bad, and ugly' or shall we say 'good, bad, and average'? I feel we are no different than any other community. All issues have many sides. You choose what's right for you and follow through. You have to admit we had a lot of people working together, all with positive attitudes. With this much energy possible if we all get going in the same direction, look out world."

Rohlf passed the duties of leading the chamber of commerce in 1992 to Jane Mattson. Mattson is only the second woman to lead the chamber in the position as president.

In her presidential message, Mattson pledged to follow the chamber's mission — "To support all those activities believed to be beneficial to the community and area; and in general, to promote the welfare of all area citizens, following always those policies intended to accomplish the greatest good for the greatest number."

"I realize this mission cannot be accomplished alone but will take every member of our community working together in order to make our dreams come true. This includes business and industry, county and city government, secondary and post secondary education, health and human services, all medical and professional, those in service industries, and finally our important retired population. Together we make up the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce," said Mattson.

"I ask that you keep the communication lines open, share your ideas, your concerns and participate actively. Because together we can "Make Your Dreams Come True in 1992".

"Make Your Dreams Come True in 1992" is the theme of this year's Chamber of Commerce leadership, and those individuals responsible for leading the chamber membership in 1992 include the following board of directors, who were recognized at the banquet: Jane Mattson, president, John Tofte, president elect, Roy Lunde, treasurer, Kermit Genereux, vice president membership services development division, Pete Lavalier, vice president business climate division, Joan Lubitz, co-vice president of the promotion division, Deb Zak, co-vice president of the promotion division, Larry Rohlf, past president, Dave Beito, director, Sami Haj, director, Jean Hogan, director, Regan Rohl, director, and Ron Winter, director.

Appointed members include: Skip Swanson representing Pennington County, Frank Hamerlinck, representing the city of Thief River Falls, Bob Duncan, representing School District 564, and Dick Spyhalski, representing the health care industry.

Leaders of the various committees include: Howard Person, Agribusiness committee, Connie Omdahl, Ambassador committee, Jackie Filipy, Christmas decoration committee, Dave Strong, Convention and Visitors Bureau, Bruce Keller, education committee, Roger Shaffer, finance committee, DelRay Sparby, Legislation/Transportation committee, Dick Bjorkman and Jeff Hendrickson, Retail Business committee, and Joel Swanson, Events committee.

About 185 people attended the event, which, according to Bob Bergan, executive vice president, is about what attendance was at last year. Bergan added that there were a lot of good comments about the event.

Jerry Wigness, city clerk for Thief River Falls, gave the welcoming address and was the master of ceremonies. The invocation was given by Reverend D. Josh Nelson. Doni Loeslie led the community song "We're From Thief River".

Several special awards were presented at the meeting Saturday evening. Life memberships were granted to Phil Hess and Milt Reierson. The President's award went to Ron Winter, who has been the board's treasurer. Ron Novak received the Excellence in Education award for his excellence as a teacher and his activity in the chamber of commerce. Jim Haviland was presented the Higher Education award. Darcy Reese was presented a plaque in appreciation of her contribution as director of choirs. Erling and LuVerne Olson were presented plaques for their work at the game feed and past committee and task force chairs also receive appreciation plaques.

Heather Olson attends National 4-H Congress

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

"Crossroads of Cultures" was the theme for the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, IL, attended December 7-11 by Heather Olson, daughter of Myles and Susan Olson of rural Thief River Falls and a member of the Kratka 4-H club for 10 years.

Heather qualified for attendance in the 56-member delegation from Minnesota by placing first in the state in the 4-H Achievement project. She is the first Pennington 4-H club member to qualify as a state winner since Wendy Noreen of the Black River club won in the clothing project in 1978.

Winning the state award involved judging of her project records, an interview on achievement and writing a six-page story on achievement and her main project of Child Development. There were an estimated 60 to 80 in the project area who began competition for the trip and 12 were selected for interview at the state level.

Held at the Chicago Hilton and Towers hotel, the 4-H Congress is a learning experience but is intended more as a reward for past accomplishments than as a training session, Heather said. The room she and her roommates shared in the hotel is listed at $350 per night.

"There were two keynote events each day of the Congress," Heather said. "We had speakers from some of the sponsoring organizations and we heard Dawnn Lewis, a TV actress who plays Jaleesa Vinson on 'A Different World' and had a visit by Miss America. One night we had a speaker from Reader's Digest and it was announced that Reader's Digest had made a $3.5 million donation to the 4-H Foundation."

Delegates participated in an aerobics program called "Fitness Fantastico," attended a number of cultural four-course dinners and visited ethnic areas of Chicago as well as other points of interest such as the Oceanarium, Chicago Board of Trade, Sears Tower, Chicago Tribune building, Art Institute, Museum of Science and Industry, Comiskey Park and others.

"We saw President Bush the day we visited the Chicago Board of Trade," Heather said. "And the Chicago Bears football team was staying at our hotel but on a different floor the night before their home game.

"One morning we had the Firestone leadership banquet which consisted of a baked potato with chipped beef on it because it was supposed to be Mr. Firestone's favorite breakfast. And the final banquet in the grand ballroom had 1,700 people attending and one waiter for each of the 170 tables."

While the Chicago trip was a fitting climax for Heather's 4-H club career, it was not the first trip she had earned or received through 4-H club work. She earned state fair trips nearly every year with county fair championships and won three state fair purple ribbons. She served as a State Ambassador two years ago and assisted in planning the state junior leadership conference.

Two trips were also made to Washington, DC, one for the national conference on records at the National 4-H Center as one of six participants from Minnesota and one to attend the Citizenship Washington Focus as a delegate from Pennington county with Paul Johnson of the Happy Acres club. Heather also participated in the Capitol Experience trip to St. Paul and the Montana 4-H member exchange.

A freshman at Concordia College in Moorhead where she has a $15,000 four-year faculty scholarship, Heather is enrolled in the honors program area of philosophy and discourse. She earned a 3.8 grade point average during the fall quarter with four A and three A- grades. She also has a work study job and participates with an outreach team.

"The 4-H program has shown me how much I enjoy helping peo-

She earned the trip by winning first place in the state achievement project competition. A 1991 graduate of Lincoln high school, she is now enrolled in the honors program at Concordia College in Moorhead where she has a $15,000 faculty scholarship.

Dear Readers,
Pre-financing of funerals can be accomplished through several methods. A Burial Trust may be established with monies deposited at a local financial institution. Interest accumulated will help offset inflation. Burial and Funeral Insurance is now available. We have information as to where this coverage may be obtained. We, at Belmont, will be happy to discuss the options open to you and your family.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

Correction:

There is no leak in the tanks at the Main Street Standard station. Remarks made at a recent meeting to discuss the Highway 32 project should have indicated that the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency is working with the main Amoco company to clean up contaminated soil caused by a leak several years prior to when the current owner took over the business. The Times regrets any confusion over the issue.

Speaking Of . . .

. . . What to Watch

I was sick last week. Some people say I was sick because I had a rather traumatic birthday last week, but that is beside the point.

Sometimes people get just a little sick—just sick enough to stay home from work and curl up and cuddle under a warm afghan on the couch with a good book, aspirin and lots of liquids. That kind of sick can be almost enjoyable.

I wasn't that kind of sick. Mine was not enjoyable at all.

I was so sick that the good book lay on the table, unopened, the liquids were used to wash down numerous kinds of serious pills as well as aspirin, and I cowered under a quilt and an afghan, still shivering, curled up but certainly not cuddling.

I was so sick that all I could do is stare at the television set, if it wasn't too bright, mostly through squinted eyes, and pretend I was watching it between my restless naps. The first day I was sick, I hardly watched anything. I left one channel to drone on and on all day without changing it, and once in a while I would open my weary eyes (sometimes only one weary eye) to peek if the drone raised itself to a more interesting pitch.

The next day, I felt a bit better. I could actually get up enough energy to poke the buttons on the remote control. I can get up to 23 different channels with my remote control, so just polling through them, in itself, was quite a feat for me. I poked and poked and napped and napped.

By the next day I was actually watching what I was poking into and I couldn't believe my eyes! Do you know what is on day time, week day television?

There are soap operas (no fun to watch when a person works all week and doesn't know anything about anybody on them), game shows (too many flashing lights and too much noise for a sick person), talk shows on which guests discuss much more than you'll ever want to know about any subject you can imagine (too much laughing, crying, emoting, whatever), continuous news shows (depressing, depressing, depressing enough when one is healthy, but definitely not for the ill), and cartoons and kiddy shows (these were cute and I was desperate—I watched some of my old favorites from the tiny tot days).

I finally ended up watching cooking and home improvement shows. One day I know I watched five cooking shows and four shows showing me how to redecorate my house, cheaply, of course.

From what I can remember between naps, with the fevered state of my brain, I learned how to stop my drawers from sticking (good idea if I could remember what it was), how to put molding on my doors (carefully), what to do with tiles (obviously, put them anywhere and everywhere), and how to make numerous crafty decorating items to spruce up my house.

These crafty people showed me how to make baskets from their fabric scraps (nice, but I wouldn't have any place to put another basket), little bears dressed in lace and flowers (I don't think I need one right now, thanks anyway—maybe for my granddaughter when she gets old enough not to eat the lace and flowers), gaudily decorated waste baskets (now that is something I could use—couldn't I?), a brightly painted watering can (I can't imagine what I would do with one—I have no garden) and many other similar items my befuddled brain barely registered and refuses to recall. Frankly, none of the shows made me want to hop off of the couch and run up to the sewing machine.

On another half-hour program I watched two grown men utilize more power tools and carpentry equipment than I have ever seen in my life to make one beautiful, but very plain, table lamp. They seemed to enjoy their labor, but I found the fruits to be somewhat anticlimactic. Perhaps it was my fevered brain.

The cooking shows did not tempt me at all. It was a pleasure to watch someone else cook, and have fun at it, at that, but they did not tempt me to rise from my sick bed to concoct any of the delicacies for my family. They ate frozen pizza and other such delicacies. I drank liquids and ate pills, and very little else.

After a week of watching day time television, I feel better, I think. Anyway, I found out I am certainly missing nothing by being at work all day. I'm very anxious to get back there, too.

"Experience 4-H. FOLLOW....and become a LEADER" is the message of this poster from the National 4-H Congress which Heather Olson attended recently in Chicago, IL. A member of the Kratka 4-H club and 1991 graduate of Lincoln high school, Heather earned the trip with a first place finish in the state 4-H achievement award competition.

Local students participate in mock trial event

Can a parent be held responsible for the death of a cocaine baby? That question will be at the center of the 1992 Minnesota High School Mock Trial Competition, an academic competition that teaches students about the law and our legal system.

Students from Lincoln high school will be among the 200 teams participating in this year's competition, which is sponsored by the Minnesota State Bar Association.

In the mock trial competition, students assume the roles of attorneys and witnesses and argue a fictitious case. Each team prepares the case with the help of a volunteer attorney-coach, as well as a teacher-coach. More than 500 lawyers and judges volunteer to assist with mock trials each year. The cases are decided by volunteer lawyers, who serve as judges.

"Mock trials are an excellent way to increase students' knowledge of the law and the court system," said Robert Monson, president of the Minnesota State Bar Association. "Teachers and students tell us the program also is extremely helpful in developing reasoning and communication skills. I think students will find this year's case both challenging and interesting."

The case involves the death of a cocaine baby. Authorities have charged the baby's father with third degree murder, claiming he supplied cocaine to the mother through marijuana cigarettes. Authorities believe the drugs caused the child to be born unusually small and with birth defects. The father blames the death on the baby's mother, who he says knew what she was consuming while pregnant.

Students will have an opportunity to review the facts in the case and argue Minnesota's drug laws during the mock trials. "The case will raise a number of interesting issues for students to explore," said Lisa Wilde, director of Public Education for the Bar Association. "It presents a novel approach to the issue of responsibility for cocaine babies, since it has generally been the mother who has been charged in actual cases throughout the country."

Students are preparing for the mock trial competition this month. Regional trials will be held in February, with the state mock trial competition tournament held in March.

Coaches for the Lincoln high school team include teacher Cal Lindberg and attorney Mike Jorgenson.

ple," Heather said. "I learned this through my service projects, in junior leadership and working with special needs children. I am interested in English writing and secondary education and may be interested in law school. I also have developed an interest in politics."

Some of Heather's activities were summarized in a Times article at the time her faculty scholarship at Concordia was announced. The summary shows a wide variety of talents and interests as well as a continuity of interests in some areas —her church, for instance.

She was a Luther league treasurer and substitute Sunday school teacher while in ninth grade. She continued in the treasurer's post and became a regular Sunday school teacher as a sophomore. As a junior she was still a teacher and league officer as well as working with youth ministries and serving as a district Luther league representative for the Northwest Minnesota synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. In her senior year she became league president and again taught Sunday school.

A consistent honor student in high school she sampled most of the co-curricular activities as well —concert, marching and pep bands, concert choir, women's choir, jazz ensemble, vocal solos, school newspaper, golf, girls' and boys' basketball cheerleading, hospitol volunteer work (Candystriper), drama club, Key club, plays, speech team, musicals and mock trial team.

She became a member of the county fair board, state finalist in the Hugh O'Brian youth program, delegate to Minnesota Arts Experience, secretary of the county 4-H leaders' council, counselor for Japanese camp, state 4-H Ambassador, Girls State finalist, volunteer in the Adopt-A-Grandparent program, president of her 4-H club, member of the community education advisory council, member of the planning committee for the teen support group, member of the state child development committee, camp lifeguard and part-time worker at the Rex Cafe and Pizza Hut restaurant.

This is just a part of her list of activities. It would be difficult to imagine how anyone could utilize any less than 24-hour days to match her accomplishments, and her state achievement award is certainly richly deserved.

TRF to host seminar on development

Thief River Falls will host a Community Environment Development (CED) seminar on Tuesday, February 11, from 2:30 to 5 p.m. at the Best Western motel. The seminar, sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development's CED section, will address economic realities and provide information about current programs and resources used to assist community and economic development.

One featured topic of the seminar is Minnesota Main Street, a program intended to maximize the existing or remaining historic character of downtown as the traditional central business district. Minnesota's Main Street program is based on an approach developed by the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

"It is no secret that most traditional main streets of Minnesota have fallen upon difficult times," said Mark Gustafson, CED representative. "The Main Street program addresses these issues and provides the training and resources necessary to help communities maintain historic traditions and create a competitive business environment."

Other topics include Minnesota Pride 1992 and the Governor's Design Team. These program assist in identifying and achieving goals and objectives, and improving cooperation and communication between existing groups and organizations.

CED is a section of the Business Development and Analysis Division which promotes economic development growth and healthy, self-sustaining communities through marketing, technical assistance, analysis, evaluation, publications and information services, training assistance and partnership activities.

For more information on the seminar content, contact Mark Gustafson at 1-800-657-3858. There is no charge for the seminar, but space is limited. Advance reservations should be made with Don Stewart, Community Development Department at 681-2500.

Keep snacks at hand in winter

Wintertime brings the threat of being marooned without heat in home or car. The Minnesota Safety council suggests keeping quick-energy snacks available that will help the body produce its own heat in an emergency. Such foods include raisins, honey, dried fruit, nuts, chocolate and cheese.

Clinic continues to be provider under Medicare

Dakota Clinic Ltd., of which Falls Clinic in Thief River Falls is a member, has recently chosen to continue to be a participating provider with the Medicare program, accepting assignment for all Medicare Part B covered services. It has been a participant since April of 1990.

Under the program, financial responsibility of Medicare patients for covered services is limited to the Medicare deductible plus a co-payment of 20 per cent of the Medicare "allowed" charge. Non-participating clinics or physicians may charge an additional 15 per cent above the allowed charge and 20 per cent co-payment.

"In addition to the advantage for Medicare patients, Fall Clinic can file most supplemental insurance claims automatically for the patient," states Jan Nyflot, manager. "Medicare and supplemental insurance companies will directly reimburse the clinic. Patients will continue to receive an explanation of benefits that have been paid to the clinic.

"While there is a loss in reimbursement, participation allows the clinic to most efficiently utilize its billing processes, receive direct payment from Medicare and dramatically reduce the amount of paperwork required of Medicare patients."

LEC receives several theft, alcohol reports

Charges of theft have been filed against a Thief River Falls man for theft. According to a police spokesperson, police received a report of an alleged theft of money from Domino's Pizza in Thief River Falls. An investigation revealed that the suspect had traded pizzas for merchandise, which he allegedly used for his personal use. Two counts of theft have been filed against Joe Ray Lovato, 27, Thief River Falls. Lovato was manager of Domino's at the time.

Citations for criminal damage to property have been filed against two Thief River Falls men for allegedly causing damage to fish houses on the river. According to a police spokesperson, the sheriff's office received several reports of damaged fish houses, two of which had been struck by a vehicle and a third was completely demolished. There were others which had been allegedly broken into, but officers were unable to determine whether they were related. Officers learned of damage to a vehicle and upon inspection discovered wood splinters in the trim where the car had been damaged. Citations for criminal damage to property were issued to Steven Engstrom, 18, Thief River Falls, and Andrew Paul Dennis, 19, route 1, Thief River Falls. The incident is still under investigation.

Thefts. On January 11 at 1:38 p.m. Darryl Sande, Thief River Falls, reported that someone broke into his van parked on Fourth street in front of his residence. His toolbox was found in the snow. Someone had broken a window and damaged the door latch assembly. Some tools were gone along with two propane torches and a bottle of aspirin. Theft loss was estimated at $221. Damage loss was estimated at $250.

On January 13, the sheriff's office announced that citations for dishonored checks were issued to: Robert David Shaw, Bismarck, ND, for $225 in checks; and Korina Richter, 22, Thief River Falls, for writing a check in the amount of $51.40.

On January 13 at 8:02 p.m. Scott Daniels, route 6, Thief River Falls, reported that someone had taken his single shot Remington pistol with scope and gun case from his vehicle which had been parked in the Arctco parking lot. The theft loss was estimated at $700.

As a result of an investigation into an auto theft that occurred on January 10, police have charges pending against two juvenile boys, both age 14, for theft. Items recovered from one juvenile boy included a radar detector, equalizer-booster, CB radio, black cassette tape box with 14 cassette tapes, and a tray with 25 cassette tapes. Some of the items were identified, but the youth said some of the items came from unreported thefts. One unreported theft was a CB radio and antenna from an unlocked vehicle which was parked in Sjoberg's parking lot. Another, involving the theft of a black cassette box, came from an unlocked vehicle in Hugo's parking lot. Police have learned that the owner of the vehicle parked in Sjoberg's parking lot belonged to Noel Joppru, route 8, Thief River Falls. On Thursday, police learned whose vehicle had been broken into in the Hugo's lot. Mike Bckert, Thief River Falls, reported that his vehicle had been broken into while parked in the Hugo's parking lot. Twelve to 15 tapes and an old pair of deck shoes had been taken.

Pennington county sheriff's office has charged Karl Lionell Olson, 23, address unknown, with issuing a dishonored check in the amount of $18.65; and Joseph Lamb, 39, Winger, with issuing a dishonored check(s) in the amount of $86.85.

On January 17 at 6:41 p.m. Kmart reported that a 14-year-old female took some clothes into a dressing room and exchanged old clothes for new clothes. She faces charges of theft.

On January 18 at 11:22 a.m. Hugo's reported that a VHS movie that had been rented in September and valued at $30 had not been returned. A citation for theft was issued to Gary Lee Kittelson, 21, Thief River Falls.

On January 18 at 11:19 p.m. Thomas Race, Goodridge, reported that his Polaris snowmobile which had been in the back of his pickup which was parked at Miz Ellies between 5 and 11 p.m. had been stolen. Theft loss was estimated at $5,500.

On January 18 at 4:41 p.m. Randy Lou Brewer, Thief River Falls, reported that her vehicle was missing. She believes it was taken to Moorhead for repairs but never returned. The 1989 Chevrolet Camero convertible had an estimated value of $10,000.

Consumption under age. On January 9 police stopped a vehicle. The occupants included two under age individuals who allegedly claimed they had been drinking alcohol at a residence in Silverton township. The report was turned over to the sheriff's department, which charged Daniel Vannorman, route 6, Little Falls, age 19; and Jon Sigerud, route 2, Goodridge, 20, for consumption under age.

INSURANCE Update
by Deb Schmidtgall
Not all insurance applications provide immediate coverage. In some cases, coverage will not go into effect until the insurance company provides notice of acceptance of the application and the risk. A binder, on the other hand, provides for immediate coverage for those who need it. The binder may be issued by an insurance agent who has been authorized to do so. In general, property and casualty agents are those most likely to possess the power to 'bind' coverage with an insurance company.
Insurance is a complicated business requiring experience and first hand knowledge. Your best insurance value is representation by an agency that has extensive market capabilities. This means the ability to select the best coverage available from the major companies to meet your individual needs. NORTHERN STATE AGENCY represents many of these companies. Our office is conveniently located in the Northern State Bank building. To reach us, call 681-4042. Hrs.: Mon.- Fri. 8:30 - 5, 'til 6 Thurs.
Note: As with most contracts, it is advisable to get a binder in writing

Sparby hopes to override vetoes

Amid the controversy over Gov. Arne Carlson's failed vetoes, one that some people overlooked — despite its importance to rural municipalities and property taxpayers — is his veto of funding for the Homestead Credit and several local aid programs in 1993.

Rep. Wally Sparby predicted that situation will change before the current legislative session adjourns. "My position, and that of many of my colleagues, is that we need to reverse the Governor's veto and continue the Homestead Credit after 1993. I remember that the Governor approved negotiations last session over the tax bill, and he said he'd sign the bill, so I was very disappointed with the veto."

Rep. Sparby said the Homestead Credit is one of the state's most important programs in encouraging people to buy homes — which creates stability in communities. "This program is partially what keeps property taxes at reasonable levels for homeowners, especially in rural Minnesota. The Governor seems to have forgotten how important this tax relief program is to people in our area," he said.

Rep. Sparby said the Governor's veto was not the first indication that he doesn't support the Homestead Credit. "His very first property tax proposal, the one which caused so much negative public reaction last year, called for eliminating the Homestead Credit," he said.

If legislators don't solve the problems created by the veto, taxpayers could get hit twice in 1993: they not only would lose their Homestead Credit, but in addition, counties, townships and some cities will undoubtedly raise property taxes to make up for the lost aid.

In invoking the veto — which enables the Governor to cancel specific spending items within a bill — he blocked spending from the Local Government Trust Fund for the Homestead Credit after 1993. This trust fund is financed with part of state sales tax revenues and the new half-cent "local option" sales tax.

The Legislature created the fund in order to provide a dedicated source of money for property tax relief which wouldn't be subject to the biennial struggle over the state budget, Rep. Sparby explained.

He said eliminating the Homestead Credit would be especially burdensome for rural Minnesota. The vast bulk of spending from the trust fund is in rural Minnesota, while much of the money is raised in the seven-county Twin Cities metro area.

Overriding a veto requires a two-thirds majority vote in both the House (90 votes of 130) and Senate (45 votes of 67). He said DFLers have that majority in the Senate, but are 12 votes short in the House.

IMPRESSIONS

BY BETH JOHNSON

Monday was the day our nation honored Martin Luther King. The third Monday in January is the date our federal government has set aside to honor this American who fought peacefully for the rights of all Americans.

In his famous "I have a Dream" speech which he gave at the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C. in 1963, Martin Luther King stated that "I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: "We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal."

Consider for a few moments how we have treated people in this grand country of ours.

Our nation was first inhabited by those who we now label "Native Americans." Yet, how have we treated these first inhabitants of our country? instead of the "self-evident" truth that shows us the equality of mankind, we fought. Both pioneers and original inhabitants fought each other. In the end, the original inhabitants of our nation were "given" land to live on. Reservations became the home for those who had previously had the country to call home.

Many early settlers in our nation came here to escape intolerable conditions in the countries where they were living. Many came to escape the religious persecution they did not want to tolerate in their home countries. Our government gives us the freedom to worship as we please. Yet, in spite of this freedom granted to us by our government, we, the people, deny this freedom of worship to each other. We do not allow others who do not dress as we do, or who have a different color of skin, or who express themselves in worship differently than we do, or who do not have the means to donate to our religious cause, the freedom to worship side by side with us. "All men are created equal" is self-evident, but not always practiced, even in religious groups that try to emulate the love of Christ.

The early settlers of our nation fled conditions in their homelands which they considered intolerable. Yet, in spite of the "self-evident" truth of the equality of humanity, some of these early settlers caused human beings of a different skin color to become slaves. "Self-evident" equality seems to have stopped with the color of skin. Consider today. We in our nation have long ago banished slavery. Yet, we have a Presidential candidate, who just lost a bid for governorship, who is telling us that the races are not equal.

Our nation is a melting pot of races. We in this part of Northern Minnesota are mostly white Caucasians. In the cities of our land, the multitude of races is much more evident. It's true that our government says that it is self-evident that all of us are created equal. The Civil Rights Act of 1964 does not allow us to discriminate another because of color, race, national origin, religion, or sex. It is true that our nation is helped because of this act. No longer are the black people among us relegated to the back of the busses. No longer are there different drinking fountains for the races. We have come a long way in just a few years. But, we still discriminate. The discrimination may be more subtle, yet it is still there. There are still families being forced to leave neighborhoods because of their skin color. We, the people, do not allow the rights of all of us equal treatment.

Women are a group that has been discriminated against in the past. It took much effort to gain voting rights for women. Now, women are among those for whom we may vote. We have come a long way. But, consider how far we need to go—consider the abuse against women. Consider the lower salary ranges, in spite of equal education and responsibilities. Our nation has made strides, but it has not reached the potential equality for all could produce.

If Martin Luther King were still alive, he would have to say with the rest of us, that yes, we have come a long way toward eliminating discrimination in our nation. But, he, like us, would also need to say we have a long way to go before the dream of freedom for all humanity is attained. But, minus the dream we all will perish. We need to be reminded of the dream of freedom. We need to be reminded of the progress that dream has caused in our nation. We need to continue to dream so that future generations will be blessed with the blessings of freedom the dream of freedom has procured for them.

Oscar Breiland

Oscar Breiland to retire from welfare agency

Oscar Breiland, a native of the Thief River Falls area and a 1944 graduate of Lincoln high school, will retire January 31 from the Polk County Social Services agency where he has served since 1959 as a case worker, social worker, supervisor and administrative assistant.

When Breiland joined the agency in 1959, he was assigned duties with foster homes for children, services for handicapped children and child adoption. "Be good to all children" is one of his favorite statements and the agency now has early and periodic screening, diagnosis and treatment program that promotes medical care for children.

Nursing homes that provide needed services to the aged and those who have medical problems have long been one of Breiland's concern. During his career new nursing homes were built in Crookston, East Grand Forks, Fertile, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston.

Breiland graduated from the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis. His admission and scholarship were sponsored by a large mail-order company with the understanding that he serve in some type of public service career after his graduation.

NCC men's basketball...

Pioneers sweep conference foes

Head coach Chet Engelman is the first to admit his Northland Community College men's basketball team won't win many beauty contests. However, the Pioneers are expected to win their share of games – like this weekend when they opened their 1991-92 Minnesota Community College Conference schedule by out-scoring Rainy River 104-103 Friday night and Hibbing 99-96 Saturday afternoon.

"We're not going to win pretty because of the style of ball we play," acknowledged Engelman, whose entertaining fast break basketball racks up points - and turnovers – at a rate that keeps statistic keepers busy for a full 40 minutes.

After beginning MCCC play with the home court sweep, Northland, 8-3 overall, will try their act on the road this weekend with an 8 p.m. game at Mesabi Friday in Virginia and a 2 p.m. game at Vermilion Saturday in Ely.

Rainy River 103

Northland had six double figure scorers and Rainy River wound up with five as the Pioneers beat the Voyageurs in a shoot-out, 104-103.

Rainy River trailed 57-43 at halftime, but rallied to make a game of it down the stretch.

Northland still enjoyed an 81-70 cushion midway through the second half, but it was tied at 98-all when the Pioneers' Joe Comstock stepped to the line for a pair of free throws with three minutes left.

Two more free throws by John Clark upped the Northland lead to 102-98 with 2:38 remaining, but Rainy River stayed close on a free throw by Dustin LaFrambaise with 1:59 to play and a basket by John Wiley with 52 seconds showing as the gap narrowed to 102-101.

Larone Greer came through with what proved to be the winning points by making two free throws with 15 seconds remaining – leaving the Voyageurs one point short despite a basket by O.C. Lee with two seconds showing.

Greer led the Pioneers with 20 points, while also handing out seven assists. Kelly Dahl went 5-for-5 from three-point range en route to a 19-point performance, Travis Brown and Fred Seulfield both netted 11, while John Clark and Nate Carlin had 10 each.

Wiley paced the Voyageurs with 23 points, while Kevin Flynn had 19, O.C. Lee 17, LaFrambaise 16 and Malcom White 11.

Northland was 42-for-90 from the field (47 percent) and 10-for-16 at the free throw line. Rainy River went 38-for-73 from the field (52 percent) and had a busy 25-for-35 free throw performance. The Voyageurs finished with a 47-45 rebound edge, but they also had more turnovers, 27-19.

Scoring

Rainy River	43	60	103

Rainy River - O.C. Lee 17, Marlon Grant 4, Dustin LaFrambaise 15, Clarence McMiller 5, Tad Glad 3, Malcom White 11, Kevin Flynn 18, John Wiley 23.

Northland 99

Northland went 20-for-23 at the free throw line in a 99-96 matinee win over Hibbing.

A three-point play by Travis Brown with 6:18 left in the first half gave the Pioneers a 38-37 lead they would never surrender, and a 7-0 blitz in the final 65 seconds provided Northland with a 57-47 halftime cushion.

That 10-point spread was still on the board when Joe Comstock scored on a fast break to make it 92-82 with 4:31 left in the game, but Hibbing produced the next six points to make it a tight finish.

A three-point basket by Andy LeTourneau cut the Northland lead to 96-93 with 1:04 still to play.

Comstock made one of two free throws with 30.4 seconds left and Fred Seulfield hit both foul shots with 10.6 seconds to go as the Pioneers opened up a 99-93 gap. LeTourneau's three-pointer with 5.0 seconds remaining gave Hibbing a faint chance at the end, but the Cardinals never got the ball back.

Brown finished with a game-high 28 points, while Larone Greer hit 19, Comstock 15 and Northland newcomer William Mitchell had 13. LeTourneau led Hibbing with 24 points, while Marchellose Williams had 16 and Antoine Parks contributed 14.

Hibbing shot 52 percent from the field on a 43-for-82 showing, but the Cardinals' 8-for-18 free throw shooting fell far short of the Pioneers' numbers. Northland shot 43 percent from the field, hitting 36 of 84.

Hibbing center Mike Payne was called for a foul as he tried to block this shot by Travis Brown of Northland in Saturday's Minnesota Community College Conference basketball game played in Thief River Falls. Brown scored 28 points in the Pioneers' 99-96 win over the Cardinals.

Otters beat Prowlers

Fergus Falls put the game away with an 18-3 first quarter and the host Otters went on to a 67-39 Friday night North Sub-Section 8AA boys high school basketball win over Thief River Falls.

It was 34-14 at halftime and 47-27 through three quarters as the Prowlers fell to 2-9 for the year.

Thief River Falls' 31 percent shooting from the field (17-for-54) and Fergus Falls' 47-17 rebound advantage added up to the 28-point difference on the scoreboard.

"They're just too big for us," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "We got one shot, and one shot only. In spite of the score, we actually didn't play all that bad. We handled the ball well (just six turnovers) and we had good shots – they just wouldn't fall. We just couldn't match up with their size."

Four Fergus Falls scorers hit double figures as Ryan Retzlaff netted 15 points, Kevin Pearson and Fritz Skinner both had 14, while Mark Heidelberger contributed 10.

Only Thief River Falls double figure scorer was Kelly Swanson with 10 points.

Fergus Falls was 26-for-54 from the field (48 percent) and 12-for-20 at the free throw line, where Thief River Falls went 4-for-10. The Otters wound up with 16 turnovers.

Thief River Falls will be in Crookston Friday for an 8 p.m. game.

MCC boys lose 51-46 to Roseau

Roseau doubled Marshall County Central 18-9 in the first quarter and went on to beat the Nordics 51-46 Friday in a boys high school basketball game at Middle River.

The Rams were up 28-22 at halftime and maintained a 39-33 third quarter edge.

"We got down in the first quarter and never caught up," noted Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We didn't do a lot offensively the whole game. We didn't do a very good job adjusting to their size."

Roseau received a 21-point game from 6-7 sophomore Jeff Taylor and 13 from David Pankratz.

"We couldn't stop Taylor," said Ueland. "We fouled out three kids trying to stop him."

Shane Borg supplied Marshall County Central with a 17-point offensive spark in the second half when he hit five three-point shots. Teammate Tim Olson added 12 points to the Nordics' attack.

Marshall County Central struggling with a 36 percent shooting performance, hitting just 15 of 42 attempts. The Nordics were 11-for-19 at the free throw line. Roseau shot 53 percent by hitting 21 of 40 attempts. The Rams failed to put the game away, though, by going just 8-for-23 at the free throw line.

Roseau finished with a 33-29 rebound advantage. Marshall County Central had more turnovers, 19-13.

The loss dropped the Nordics back to .500 at 5-5. They were scheduled to be in Middle River again tonight (Tuesday) to meet the rival Skippers before heading to Baudette Friday to play Lake of the Woods.

MCC girls fall 49-48 to Hallock-Kennedy

Marshall County Girls girls fought back from an 11-point first half deficit to take highly-regarded Hallock-Kennedy into the final seconds before surrendering a 49-48 Saturday night high school basketball decision to the Wolfpack at Middle River.

"I was pleased with the way we played," said Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "Even though we lost, there a lot of positive things about our performance. We battled back. We didn't give up when we got behind."

Hallock-Kennedy had a 19-16 first quarter lead, a 36-27 halftime advantage and a 43-37 third quarter edge – thanks to a controversial three-point play at the buzzer that Marshall County Central argued left the hands of the shooter as the horn sounded ending the third quarter, not before.

Marshall County Central caught Hallock-Kennedy with 2 1/2 minutes remaining. After working for a final shot, the Nordics wound up missing inside and the Wolfpack turned it into what proved to be a game-winning fast break lay-up for a 49-47 lead with 30 seconds left.

Making one of two free throws with 15 seconds left, Sara Lockstad drew Marshall County Central within 49-48, and the Nordics had one final chance with a desperation long range toss at the buzzer. But the shot just missed the mark.

Karen Larson of Hallock-Kennedy led all scorers with 18 points, getting all of them in the first half. Teammate Rachael Olsonowski had 15 points.

"We did a much better job defensively in the second half," noted Mjelde.

Lokstad netted 17 points and Kim Davidson had 10 for the Nordics.

Marshall County Central was 22-for-51 from the field (43 percent) and had a quiet 2-for-4 night at the free throw line. Hallock-Kennedy went 22-for-61 from the field (36 percent) and was 3-for-5 at the line. The Wolfpack finished with a 27-24 rebound edge. The turnovers were even at 14-apiece.

Mustangs win 67-47 over NCW

Red Lake County Central spotted Norman County West a 17-11 first quarter lead before coming back to win a 67-47 boys high school basketball decision at Plummer Friday.

The win snapped a four game losing streak for the 4-8 Mustangs, who will meet Clearbrook-Gonvick Friday in Oklee.

"We played all right," noted Red Lake County Central coach Todd Fore. "We started kind of slow, but they (Panthers) had a tough night shooting."

Indeed, Norman County West was just 21-for-55 from the field (38 percent) and only 5-for-19 at the free throw line.

Red Lake County Central, on the other hand, went 29-for-62 from the field (47 percent) and finished 9-for-15 at the line.

Ryan Melby led the Red Lake County Central offense with a 20-point night, while Jacob Melby netted 13 and Bill Maul had 10. A trio of Norman County West double figure scorers included Brandt Mickelson with 14 points, Jeremy Paulsrud 12 and Jon Hellerud 10.

The Mustangs turned that six-point first quarter deficit into a 31-24 halftime lead and they headed into the final quarter with a 40-30 cushion.

NCC splits MCCC games

First Minnesota Community College Conference-counting weekend of the 1991-92 basketball season produced a home court split for the Northland women, who lost to Rainy River 73-64 Friday night before beating Hibbing 80-65 Saturday afternoon.

The Pioneers, 5-5 overall, will have their first MCCC road trip this weekend with a 6 p.m. Friday game against Mesabi in Virginia and a 12-noon Saturday contest vs. Vermilion in Ely.

Rainy River	73

Daphne Walker did a number on Northland inside to lead Rainy River past the Pioneers 73-64.

Walker scored the Voyageurs' first 10 points, staking Rainy River to a 39-27 halftime lead. She finished with 28, while teammates Danielle Jones and Teresa Mink netted 16 and 12 points, respectively.

"We played well," said Northland coach Sue Barnd. "We just didn't get it done on the offensive boards. Walker was awfully tough on us inside."

The loss spoiled a 35-point, 11-rebound game for Northland's Rhonda Rothschadl. Jill Brantl joined her in double figures with 15 points.

Northland was 25-for-72 from the field (35 percent) and 14-for-19 at the free throw line. Rainy River went 30-for-71 from the floor (42 percent) and had a 9-for-16 game at the line.

Northland	80

Northland probably played better basketball the night before, but the Saturday match-up with Hibbing produced the Pioneers' first conference win, 80-65.

"We play better against better competition," explained Northland coach Sue Barnd. "We sometimes play to our opponents' level – like we did that at times today."

Hibbing guard Char Omdahl tried to keep her team in the game with her outside shooting. She put up 15 three-point shots, hitting five of them, en route to a team-leading 24 points. Gina Quirk grabbed some of those misses for rebounds and netted 17 points, but it wasn't enough to offset a Northland attack that featured five players scoring from 9-to-26 points.

Rhonda Rothschadl led the Pioneers with 26 points, 16 rebounds and four blocked shots, while Nanette Berg had a 16-point, 10-rebound game, Jill Brantl contributed 11 points, Nikki Anderson came off the bench to score 10 points and Alice Dunning scored 9 points while also grabbing 12 rebounds.

Hibbing had an early 14-8 lead, but Northland would never trail again after putting together an 8-0 run. It was tied at 18-18 following a drive by Quirk with 16:25 left in the first half before Northland put the game away with a run of 17 straight points that produced a 35-18 gap with 4:42 remaining.

The Cardinals tried to come back with a 7-2 spurt in the final 52 seconds of the first half to cut the difference to 42-30, but Hibbing was never able to get closer than 10 points in the second half.

Northland was 30-for-83 from the field (36 percent), while Hibbing went 23-for-82 (28 percent). Both teams had productive days at the free throw line, where the Pioneers were 20-for-28 and the Cardinals finished 13-for-19. Northland topped the turnover charts 20-17, but the Pioneers made up for it with 25 offensive rebounds.

Huskies lose to Valley North, but beat Climax...

Goodridge ends streaks

Beaten by Valley North 54-48 Friday night at Oslo, Goodridge finally ended a string of seven consecutive road games and three straight losses Saturday when the Huskies defeated Climax 66-50 in boys high school basketball.

The 7-3 Huskies were scheduled to be back on the road again tonight (Tuesday) against Kittson County North in Lancaster, but they will have back-to-back home games Thursday with Grygla-Gatzke and Friday vs. Red Lake Falls.

Valley North	54
Goodridge	48

Valley North couldn't miss and Goodridge had a hard time hitting anything as the Raiders knocked off the Huskies 54-48.

Goodridge started on the right foot with a 24-12 first quarter lead, but the Huskies netted just 24 more points the rest of the night as Valley North cut the gap to 28-23 at halftime and pulled within 38-37 through three quarters.

The Raiders put up just 35 shots, but they hit 24 of them – an eye-opening 68.6 percent performance that featured a 13-for-18, 72.2 percent second half. Valley North was 7-for-8 as the Raiders out-scored the Huskies 17-10 in the fourth quarter for the win.

Goodridge, meanwhile, shot only 35.6 percent on a 19-for-52 night from the field.

"We were ice cold," said Goodridge coach John Rahn. "We couldn't throw it in the ocean, and they (Raiders) hit everything they put up. They were unbelievable in the fourth quarter."

Joel Osowski scored 18 points, Brent Farder had 16 and Chris Corradi had 10 for the Raiders. Donovan Quam scored a game-high 22 points for the Huskies, but he was their only double figure scorer.

"We just didn't play very well," said Rahn. "We didn't have any intensity."

Goodridge was 10-for-14 at the free throw line, where Valley North went 4-for-7. The Huskies out-rebounded the Raiders 36-26.

"We played much better than we did the night before," reported Goodridge coach John Rahn. "We got back to the team continuity that carried us earlier this year."

Badger-Greenbush got by Middle River 82-81.

It looked like an easy night for the Skippers when they ran up a 27-6 first quarter lead, but the Bulldogs came right back with a 31-point second quarter to pull within 41-37 at halftime.

"We played some of our best basketball of the season in the first quarter," pointed out Middle River coach Eldon Sparby, "but then we played some of our worst basketball of the year in the second quarter."

Foul trouble created some of the Skippers' problems as their lead was cut to 55-54 by the end of the third quarter.

Middle River fell behind by as many as six points in the fourth quarter, but got a tie out of it on a three-point basket by Richard Waapula to force overtime.

Badger-Greenbush got back-to-back three-point baskets from Ben Borgen in overtime, then won it with Bertilud's free throws.

Ryan Rislov led the Bulldogs with 23 points, while Billy Hollum had 18, Trent Wahl 16 and Bertilrud 13. Gilbert Olson led the Skippers with 22 points. Jarrett Walton and John Sparby both finished with 13.

Middle River was 30-for-74 and Badger-Greenbush went 30-for-73 from the field – both 41 percent. The Skippers were 14-for-21 at the free throw line, where the Bulldogs went 18-for-32. Badger-Greenbush had a 35-24 rebound edge. The turnovers were even at 12-apiece.

"We've got to do a better job defensively," mentioned Sparby. "We sent them to the line too many times."

Middle River	47

Middle River shot just 29 percent from the field in losing to Kittson County North 59-47.

Kittson County North led at the quarter stops 13-8, 25-20 and 40-33.

Middle River connected on just 18 of 63 field goal attempts and went 8-for-17 at the free throw line. Kittson County North was 24-for-70 from the field (34 percent) and 9-for-14 at the line. The Skippers had a 39-24 rebound advantage and topped the turnover charts 13-12.

DNR News

Cars are designed for anti-freeze and windshield washer fluid. Lakes aren't.

That's the latest word from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), which reports some ice anglers are pouring these products into their holes to keep them from re-freezing. Doing so is both illegal and environmentally irresponsible, according to the DNR.

"Both ethylene glycol and methyl alcohol are toxic chemicals," said Paul Diedrich, area fisheries supervisor at Montrose. "Methyl alcohol is the active ingredient in windshield washer fluid and ethylene glycol is found in anti-freeze."

Under Minnesota law, it is unlawful "to deposit any refuse, poisonous substance, or chemicals injurious to fish life in any waters of the state." This law is noted on page 8 of Minnesota's fishing regulations.

"Most ice anglers have not and never will add anti-freezing fluids to their holes," said Diedrich. "Still, our census clerks see it often enough to that it is a concern."

Diedrich said that ethylene glycol and methyl alcohol are less toxic to fish than many other substances, but that their use raises health risk concerns.

Student from Mexico to visit FMS students

Franklin Middle school students in Thief River Falls will hear first hand Wednesday of the lifestyle and culture of Mexico from a Global Studies student.

Seventeen year old Jamime Osequera compares Mexico City to New York City, NY. "Many people, many buildings, many problems."

Osequera is an international student at Lafayette High school in Red Lake Falls. This Wednesday he will be speaking with Franklin Middle school students in Thief River Falls about Mexican lifestyle, traditions and culture, education and the economy of his native country.

"School is very different in Mexico City. There were three thousand students in my class. Although instruction is indoors, we use the outdoors more. Connecting corridors are all open-air. The class schedule is also different. I had a varied schedule of 13 subjects, sometimes all in the same day," Osequera said.

Osequera is looking forward to spending the day with Walter Redinger's classes at Franklin Middle school on Wednesday, January 22.

Redinger says the series of student speakers from the Global Studies Institute in Red Lake Falls provides his students with a unique view of the variation in international cultures.

Early bird gets quicker refund

The early bird gets a quicker refund, and according to the Internal Revenue Service, people who file their income tax forms early usually make fewer mistakes, too.

If you send in your return now, there's a good chance you'll get your refund check within four to six weeks, the IRS says. If you wait until March or April, it can often take six to eight weeks and sometimes longer.

- Write the full name and, if age one or more, the social security number of each dependent you claim on the front of your form.
- Get a W-2 form from each employer you worked for during 1991 and attach it to your return. Most banks and businesses are also required to give you a year-end statement, usually a Form 1099.
- Sign your return. If you're married and file a joint return, both husband and wife must sign.
- Use the pre-addressed label that came with your tax package.
- Mail your form in the pre-addressed envelope that came with your tax package. Be sure to put enough postage on the mailing envelope.

Tele-Tax has more good ideas to help you. Tape number 465, for example, focuses on common errors people make on their returns. Check your tax package for a complete list of tape numbers and subjects. You can listen to Tele-Tax messages any time of the day or night by calling toll-free 1-800-829-4477.

Four new Tracer II blood glucose monitoring systems were presented last week by Northern Lodge No. 236 of the Masons to School District 564 for use at each of the four public elementary schools. The systems allow diabetic individuals to monitor their own blood sugar at various intervals and have better regulation and control of their condition. They system comes complete with everything needed, including an instructional video tape. Masons have provided the schools with glucose monitors for the past 25 years, but this is the first time each school will have its own system. Anita Cardinal, school health nurse, is showing one of the units to Dale Nelson, junior warden of the local Masonic lodge, and Glen Espe (right), elementary principal. Anyone with questions about use of the monitors may contact Anita Cardinal at 681-5950.

Goodridge Area Fire Department has a new pumper truck with 3,000-gallon tank, partly as a result of donations from several Thief River Falls organizations. The American Legion Post donated $500, the VFW Post gave $1,000 and the Eagles lodge contributed $5,000. Snow was falling heavily when representatives of the organizations gathered for this photo. Left to right are John Ellison, commander of VFW Post 2793; Joe Forberg, commander of American Legion Post 117; Rodney Wayne, chairman of the Goodridge Area Fire Department board; Roger Hible, secretary of Eagles Lodge 2368; Dale Henson, Goodridge fire chief; and Richard Olson, trustee of Eagles Lodge 2368. Cost of the 1991 International fire truck which was purchased as a used vehicle in May of 1991 was $67,000. About $5,000 has been spent on equipment for it and more is being added. The truck had been used for fighting forest fires in Oregon and had about 6,000 miles on it when purchased. Goodridge Area Fire Department also has 1,600-gallon and 1,000-gallon tanker trucks, a pickup which carries 300 gallons and a 250-gallon unit.

County Board Proceedings

WHEREAS, Pennington County has a State approved Comprehensive Local Water Plan pursuant to the Comprehensive Local Water Management Act, which has been locally adopted as of May 8, 1990; and

WHEREAS, The State of Minnesota, through its Board of Water and Soil Resources, has made $35,526.00 in state grant funds available to Pennington County to assist in the implementation of its Comprehensive Local Water Plan; and

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the Pennington County Board of Commissioners approves of Pennington County entering into a Grant Agreement with the State of Minnesota to receive state funds for the implementation of its Local Water Resources Protection and Management Program, under the terms of the Grant Agreement and all statutory requirements, and

FURTHER, THAT THE Chairperson of the County Board of Commissioners and the County Auditor are authorized to execute the Grant Agreement together with all related documents.

Commissioner Murphy moved, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to approve the Pennington County Comprehensive Local Water Planning Work Plan/Annual Report and Budget Fiscal Year 1992 as presented by Sandy Werner. Motion unanimously carried.

Howard Person, Solid Waste Officer and Art Desrosiers, County Engineer discussed the application written by John and Gloria Erickson to establish a Demolition Landfill site known as the Erickson Demolition Site. The application was for obtaining a permit from the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency. Art Desrosiers was concerned about signing his name to the application as the professional engineer who supervised the planning. Also the question of the land ownership of the site was not completely settled. The County Board asked Howard and Art to get together with John and Gloria Erickson to help get the application completed. It was made clear that the County did not want to operate or supervise the facility and that it should be a totally private operation.

Deb Zak, County Extension Director informed the County Board that the Traffic Safety Grant that the County Extension Office applied for has been awarded in the amount of $10,000. Deb would like the approval to hire a coordinator that would be responsible for implementing the Traffic Safety Grant. The position would be from January 1992 to September 30, 1992 with all funds coming from the grant. Commissioner Swanson moved, seconded by Commissioner Murphy to approve hiring a coordinator to implement the Traffic Safety Grant. Motion unanimously carried.

Deb Zak also discussed a change in the County Extension Office secretaries. Betty Kezar will be going to 2 days per week beginning January 1st, 1992 and Kim Swanson will be going to 4 days per week at that time. The County Board approved increases in Kim Swanson's salary of an additional amount equal to the amount saved by Betty Kezar going from 3 days to 2 days per week.

The County Engineer, Art Desrosiers then discussed reimbursing a Highway Department employee for eyeglasses that he broke while working for the county. The County Board denied this reimbursement.

Commissioner Murphy moved, seconded by Commissioner Swanson that due to the fact that Westside Motors could not provide a new pickup within their quoted price range that the County Board award the bid to Northern Motors for a 1992 Chevrolet for $12,388.00. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Engineer discussed the culvert policy and recommends changing the language indicating 150 acres to read a nominal quarter section. The County approved of the change.

WHEREAS, Pennington County has a State approved Comprehensive Local Water Plan pursuant to the Comprehensive Local Water Management Act, which has been locally adopted as of May 8, 1990, and

WHEREAS, The State of Minnesota, through its Board of Water and Soil Resources, has made $35,526.00 in state grant funds available to Pennington County to assist in the implementation of its Comprehensive Local Water Plan, and

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the Pennington County Board of Commissioners approves of Pennington County entering into a Grant Agreement with the State of Minnesota to receive state funds for the implementation of its Local Water Resources Protection and Management Program, under the terms of the Grant Agreement and all statutory requirements; and

FURTHER, THAT THE Chairperson of the County Board of Commissioners and the County Auditor are authorized to execute the Grant Agreement together with all related documents.

Commissioner Murphy moved, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to approve the Pennington County Comprehensive Local Water Planning Work Plan/Annual Report and Budget Fiscal Year 1992 as presented by Sandy Werner. Motion unanimously carried.

Howard Person, Solid Waste Officer and Art Desrosiers, County Engineer discussed the application written by John and Gloria Erickson to establish a Demolition Landfill site known as the Erickson Demolition Site. The application was for obtaining a permit from the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency. Art Desrosiers was concerned about signing his name to the application as the professional engineer who supervised the planning. Also the question of the land ownership of the site was not completely settled. The County Board asked Howard and Art to get together with John and Gloria Erickson to help get the application completed. It was made clear that the County did not want to operate or supervise the facility and that it should be a totally private operation.

Deb Zak, County Extension Director informed the County Board that the Traffic Safety Grant that the County Extension Office applied for has been awarded in the amount of $10,000. Deb would like the approval to hire a coordinator that would be responsible for implementing the Traffic Safety Grant. The position would be from January 1992 to September 30, 1992 with all funds coming from the grant. Commissioner Swanson moved, seconded by Commissioner Murphy to approve hiring a coordinator to implement the Traffic Safety Grant. Motion unanimously carried.

Deb Zak also discussed a change in the County Extension Office secretaries. Betty Kezar will be going to 2 days per week beginning January 1st, 1992 and Kim Swanson will be going to 4 days per week at that time. The County Board approved increases in Kim Swanson's salary of an additional amount equal to the amount saved by Betty Kezar going from 3 days to 2 days per week.

The County Engineer, Art Desrosiers then discussed reimbursing a Highway Department employee for eyeglasses that he broke while working for the county. The County Board denied this reimbursement.

Commissioner Murphy moved, seconded by Commissioner Swanson that due to the fact that Westside Motors could not provide a new pickup within their quoted price range that the County Board award the bid to Northern Motors for a 1992 Chevrolet for $12,388.00. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Engineer discussed the culvert policy and recommends changing the language indicating 160 acres to read a nominal quarter section. The County approved of the change.

County Attorney Olin then discussed a personnel issue. Mr. Olin will be sending Mike Bello a letter stating that the County is going forward in setting up a Veterans preference hearing for him.

County Sheriff, Robert Wold then presented a draft of by-laws for setting up a Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Council. The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Penning and upon vote was unanimously carried.

WHEREAS, The Pennington County Board of Commissioners recognizes that the availability of quality Emergency Medical Services (EMS) is essential to ensure the health, safety and welfare of the citizenry, and,

WHEREAS, EMS is multi-faceted requiring the availability and cooperation of an informed public, trained first responders, law enforcement, fire services and ambulance providers, and,

WHEREAS, the challenges to an effective EMS system within the county can best be addressed by an organized flow of information, identification of needs and coordination of all efforts of providers within the county jurisdiction; and,

WHEREAS, the County Board of Commissioners feels that the most efficacious means of addressing the needs of the EMS system is with the direct input and participation of those entities providing pre-hospital emergency care;

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, That the Pennington County Board of Commissioners directs the creation of the Emergency Medical Services Advisory Council that shall advise the County Board on issues, concerns and needs of EMS within the county. Further, the Board directs the office of the Sheriff to assist the Board in the creation of said council, draft by-laws and accomplish any other tasks necessary to carry out this mandate.

The Auditor was asked to set up an Account of $250.00 to be used for postage, copies and etc. of the Emergency Medical Services Advisory Council.

Sheriff Wold then discussed the need to be licensed for more prisoners in the jail. He has talked to the Department of Corrections and they have indicated they will give the approval. Commissioner Murphy moved, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to direct the Sheriff to get the Department of Corrections approval to house a maximum of 20 prisoners in the Pennington County Jail. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Commissioner Penning, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to approve the purchase of two beds and any other related items for the jail for the amount of $1,011.46. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Sheriff then asked that the part-time Deputy Sheriff position be paid a hourly rate of 80% of a full-time Deputy with the same amount of time of employment with Pennington County. Commissioner Swanson moved, seconded by Commissioner Murphy that the part-time Deputy Sheriff position be paid 80% of the hourly rate of a full-time Deputy Sheriff with the same amount of time of employment with Pennington County. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Murphy moved, seconded by Commissioner Penning to approve the minutes of 11-22-91 at 3:00 P.M.

Blood drive in TRF Jan. 29-30

United Blood Services will conduct a blood drive at Thief River Falls from 1 to 7 p.m. January 29 and from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday, January 30 at Northwest Medical Center Chapel.

Many of you might be wondering, who needs blood or blood donors? "People do!" says Jan Falk, director of Community Relations of United Blood Services, Fargo, ND. "As many as 90 per cent of all people who live to age 72 will need blood or blood products during their lives."

Blood is needed for many surgeries, for patients being treated for leukemia or other cancers, or for a mother experiencing a difficult delivery.

While most of us will receive blood, only a few donate it. Less than 10 per cent of this area's population donates blood.

According to Falk, more people would donate if only they knew the importance of blood. Doctors use blood for only one reason: to sustain life. Without blood, the life of the patient would be endangered. Giving blood is one of the most important acts of service you can ever do.

Some people believe they can wait until they know someone needs blood before they donate. Years ago, this was true. Blood was collected only as it was needed, but it was often transfused before some very important tests could be run. United Blood Services collects blood every day so that it is available every day to meet patient's needs. Before your donation is usable for a patient, it must be fully tested, which takes more than six hours.

Falk thinks the main reason people don't donate blood is because no one has ask'ed them. "Please, consider yourself asked," Falk says, extending a personal invitation to all Thief River Falls to donate at the January 29-30 blood drive. The goal for the drive is 88 donors scheduled with appointments for each day.

Anyone interested in making an appointment to donate may contact Cathy Spengler at 681-1483 or United Methodist Church at 681-4388.

Nurse assistant training course offered at T.C.

Thief River Falls Technical college will offer a 76-hour nurse assistant training program starting Tuesday, February 1, with Carmen Stinson, RN, as instructor. Course fee is $240, including testing in March of 1992.

The course utilizes lecture, skills lab and supervised clinical experiences to introduce the learner to the role of the nursing assistant. Topics to be covered include resident rights, basic human needs, communication skills, asepsis and handwashing, temperature, pulse, respiration, blood pressure, bedmaking, lifting, transferring, positioning and much more.

"The curriculum addresses bedside care needs of residents in long-term facilities and teaches attitudes and behaviors that promote the health and well-being of these residents," Stinson said.

If a registrant has to cancel, a full refund will be given only if the customized training office at the college is notified two days prior to the first class meeting. In the unlikely event the class is canceled, a full refund will be given.

Pre-registration and pre-payment are required by contacting the customized training division of the TC on highway 1 east, Thief River Falls, or calling 681-5424 or 1-800-222-2884.

Attorney General shares views on sexual harassment

Attorney General Hubert Humphrey III gave a presentation on sexual violence at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls recently. About 70 people attended the event.

Attorney General Hubert Humphrey III spoke to a crowd of about 70 students, faculty and residents recently at Northland Community College. Humphrey's message was one of demanding the public to become involved in an effort to stop sexual violence.

"We have to take action. It's not something we can leave up to our leaders. We are all involved because it is our problem," said Humphrey.

Humphrey stopped in Thief River Falls recently after bringing the same message to crowds in Moorhead and East Grand Forks.

The issue, Humphrey said is on the front burner because of recent events in the news, specifically the Thomas confirmation hearings, and recent rape and murder events in Minnesota.

Humphrey urged those in attendance to channel their rage towards something that is productive such as writing their state legislator. Humphrey is worried that because of the economic recession there will be cuts in the budget which will affect efforts to prevent sexual harassment and violence.

Humphrey was instrumental in getting tougher legislation passed that would change sentencing guidelines for rapists and repeat offenders in 1989. In 1988 he formed a task force to study sexual harassment and violence. Humphrey said he was proud of the task force, which he said, conducted numerous hearings across the state, research and came forward with recommendations. Humphrey said they first looked at the criminal justice response and what it should be, and there were some changes. Despite the successes, however, Humphrey pointed out that no matter what changes are made, there will be those who will not change their ways. Life without parole, is what Humphrey suggested for those individuals.

The task force, he said, also realized that resources must be directed at the young. "We must start at the playpen, not the state pen," Humphrey stated. Problems must be identified early on in development.

Societal attitudes must also change, Humphrey said. Education is the key. In 1989, the Minnesota legislature passed a law requiring all post-secondary institutions to have sexual harassment policies. Most of those institutions do have those policies in effect, he said. However, many students are still unaware of the policies, or don't know what to do once a problem is identified. The problem is still widespread, despite policies. According to Humphrey, one study showed that 35 to 40 per cent of female post-secondary students (and some male students) are subject to some form of sexual harassment during their time in school.

Finally, Humphrey said a need for comprehensive victim services was identified. Humphrey said it was the right and moral thing to give assistance to those who have had their lives torn apart. Such a service, he said will help establish reporting procedures. If you have reporting, he said, the criminal system will be able to work with the situation.

Humphrey doesn't believe the problems are insurmountable, even the need for a change in attitude. Humphrey pointed out that society has changed its views before, most recently towards smoking and eating habits.

Humphrey said everyone can participate in helping change soci-

TIMES OF TROUBLE CAN BRING OUT THE BEST IN ALL OF US

We have just completed a year that those of us who survived it will not soon forget. In addition to the man-made calamities of war and economic recession, we saw an incredible parade of natural disasters throughout the world. There were floods, along with tornadoes and other killer storms; as well as earthquakes and volcanic eruptions. For the answers to why these things happen, go to your House of Worship. There you will learn that misfortune can bring out the best in us, causing us to forget our own problems and pursuits while we help our neighbors in trouble. This is true of nations as well as individuals. God has been reminding us of the power of His universe, and helping man to develop an unselfish capacity for dealing with it.

He who helps in the saving of others
Saves himself as well.
-Hartmann Von Aue

Sparby co-author of crime proposal

State Rep. Wally Sparby and 14 other members of the state House of Representatives have authored the toughest anti-crime proposal yet placed on the table.

Their package was introduced when the Minnesota Legislature began its 1992 session on Monday, January 6. Hearings on the bill are expected to start in February.

Rep. Sparby said the most important feature in the bill is a life-without-parole sentence for first-degree murder, including drug-related murders and those committed during rapes, plus a host of other measures meant to keep dangerous or violent criminals in prison. Their plan features the stiffest sentences on homicide and rape, short of the death penalty, of any proposed for action this session.

"I often hear from people that they're very concerned about violent crime. Plain and simple, citizens want to feel safe in their communities, and they want dangerous criminals kept off the streets longer. This bill responds to that concern," Rep. Sparby said.

The provisions of the bill were unveiled in a news conference at the State Capitol. They include:

- A life-without-parole sentence for second-time rapists and a 20-year mandatory minimum sentence for first-degree rape with violence. Also, rapists who complete their terms would remain under lifelong supervision by the Department of Corrections.
- Minimum sentences of 30 years for intentional second-degree murder, 17 years for unintentional second-degree murder, 15 years for third-degree murder and seven years for an assault causing severe injury.
- Minimum sentences of 20 years for a first-degree rape conviction and 15 years for second-degree rape. A second conviction of second-degree rape would carry a 20-year penalty.
- A 20-year mandatory minimum sentence for anyone convicted of operating, promoting or receiving profits from teenage or minor prostitution and similar penalties for adult prostitution operators.
- Judges could no longer allow persons convicted of multiple crimes to serve their sentences concurrently (at the same time). Instead, felons would serve consecutive sentences, resulting in longer stays in prison.
- Power for the attorney general to step in and prosecute felony offenses if county attorneys are unable or unwilling. The attorney general could act on a direct complaint from a citizen.
- Toughening the 1991 sex offender registration law by extending it to cover persons convicted of raping adults (not only children); extending the registration period from 10 years to the offender's lifetime; and requiring the Department of Corrections as well as the BCA to be notified of offenders' address changes after release.
- For imprisoned violent offenders, reducing the time off sentence allowed for good behavior to one quarter of their sentence instead of the current one-third.
- Requiring the Commissioner of Corrections to determine prior to the release of any sex offender whether that offender should be committed to the Minnesota Security Hospital in St. Peter under the "psychopathic personality" law.
- Constructing an addition to the Minnesota Security Hospital to house persons committed as "psychopathic personalities."
- Studying whether persons accused of violent crimes should be required to post minimum cash bails for pre-trial release.

Rep. Sparby said one of the group's goals is to reduce the plea-bargaining that results in shorter sentences than those established in law for given crimes.

YOUR TIMES

by Donald A. Slater
Executive Director
League of Minnesota Cities

The League of Minnesota Cities is requesting the Minnesota Legislature to reassess their position on the forthcoming Presidential Primary schedule to be held this spring. If it is held, the primary will be the first in 36 years for voters in this state. While the premise sounded like a good idea when it was conceived several years ago, present economic conditions make it clear that local communities will be required to spend needed resources in a nonessential manner.

The notion for a Presidential Primary was originally intended to put Minnesota on the map by giving voters here the opportunity to voice their candidate preferences in the presidential selection process. While the intent was certainly commendable, the apparatus for holding a referendum of this nature was never given much notice, particularly its financing.

The LMC has taken a firm position on this issue and is urging the legislature to either repeal the law, or, at a minimum, to alter the manner in which it will be held. As you are aware, taxes pay for elections and during this era of economic hardship and budget short-falls, communities everywhere are feeling the constraints of budget tightening. Minnesota is currently facing a possible shortage of $340 million in the 1993-94 budget year. It is my belief that a presidential preference contest is not an essential function of business for local units of government and therefor, communities should not be made to pay the cost of this election. While the cost is not enormous, the increase in spending will only result in modification or curtailment of essential services.

Now comes word that the legislators have decided to pay the cost of the election out of the proceeds of the newly formed Local Government Trust Fund—a dedicated revenue resource created by taking 1-1/2 cents from the state sales tax in compensation to those communities who passed a 1/2 cent local sales tax last year. This fund, while prone to various economic variances determined by national monetary trends, was intended to be a stable resource for funding property tax relief. Because of this fall's revenue shortage forecast, legislators have begun looking for areas for funding of mandated programs. The LGTF has hence, become one of the more attractive areas to get money for their programs. I fervently hope that legislators reject this proposed raid of the LGTF. This procedure sets a terrible precedent to simply take trust fund resources any time more money is needed.

Because of their original intentions and the condition of Minnesota's economy, we're asking the legislature to repeal the Presidential Primary law. If repeal is not possible, we are asking that lawmakers look at the following cost-savings: placing all political party presidential candidates on one ballot; nonrotation of candidate names; voter payment of return postage for absentee ballots; consolidation of precincts; shortening hours which the polls will be open; and state payment of the costs of publishing sample ballots in local newspapers. Because primary elections are purely political in nature, we are asking that all expenses of the process either be paid by the major political parties or with state funds. It is only in this manner, and in this time of tight budgets that we can assure that taxpayer resources will be used for the most legitimate and useful purposes.

Ignorance Of Agriculture Is A Growing Problem

"Not long ago we laughed about urban children thinking dairy products came from a milk truck. It is no longer a joke," writes Russ Schwandt, former Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture and chairman of the Minnesota Agri-Growth council.

Schwandt points out in his "Agri-Growth Report" column that a recent Gallup poll conducted for the Wheat Foods Council revealed at least two startling (at least to us) statistics: 49 per cent of the American public could not correctly define white bread as a wheat food and 48 per cent thinks oatmeal comes from wheat!

"If agricultural ignorance is so rampant," Schwandt writes, "it only follows that there's an equally high level of gullibility. Until and unless we begin to do a much better job of telling our story, we will continue to be plagued by new laws and regulations that might be well-intended but which actually are unwise, unnecessary and absolutely counter-productive to successful farming."

Schwandt said he is becoming increasingly disturbed by the assault on agriculture by "critics who hardly know a pitchfork from a combine." He said these self-appointed experts—"who almost invariably are urban-bred and urban-based"—have become highly effective in convincing consumers that our food is unsafe, our water is impure and our practices are wasteful to the environment.

"They have made their arguments long and loud enough so that many consumers have begun to believe these usually spurious claims. The regrettable result is that elected officials and bureaucrats have leaped blindly into all manner of legislative and regulatory activity, heaping even greater burden on the already beleaguered farmer.

"Yet it is the farmer who fully comprehends that if he intends to be in business tomorrow, he has to safeguard his crops and lands today. Who, after all, loves and understands his land better? Who is really more interested in the next generation when that generation is the farmers' only true legacy?"

Schwandt said that the critics find a ready audience in a society where the heavy mass of population is now concentrated in urban and suburban areas and where little understanding exists regarding agriculture. "We find ourselves facing a monumental challenge in agricultural education and awareness," he said.

No doubt. The further the mass of the American public is removed from the farm the greater the need to increase the effort to make accurate and pertinent information available through the educational system. This means a necessity to familiarize the classroom educators with the truths about agriculture—its people, its processes and its products.

There is no substitute for direct contact. In Thief River Falls schools lower elementary students have received a farm tour once a year. Farm animals have been brought to the school yards and farmers have discussed care of the animals and their uses. This is great exposure and it is relatively easy in our area. Think of the impact a similar program would have for urban school children. A farmer coming to talk to students in a classroom would give a touch of realism to food production that students would otherwise probably never think or be taught about.

Schwandt calls attention to a program called "FoodWatch" which has been recently instituted by the Agriculture Council of America. Its purpose is to build public confidence in the food and agricultural industry through public education and awareness.

"We simply must keep trying to get the word out—accurately," Schwandt said. He couldn't be more on track.

So What's Wrong With Workers" Comp?

"What's so bad about our workers' comp system?" asks a question in "The Minnesota Comp Report" published by the Workers' Compensation Coalition.

"Because of Minnesota's benefit structure, many workers who aren't seriously injured and could be working are staying off the job, drawing benefits," is the published answer.

"In many cases, workers make more money while they are on comp than they would if they were working. Health care costs are rising rapidly and our workers' comp system has precious few cost containment mechanisms.

"We are supposed to have a no-fault system where you don't need a lawyer, but the number of cases where lawyers are involved is at an all-time high."

The coalition claims it is hard to solve these problems because opponents contend that injured workers will suffer if reform occurs. "This is not the case," the coalition assures. "Needed reforms in the system will protect truly injured workers, but they will also encourage workers to go back to work when they can and reduce the overall cost burden."

The coalition points out that it isn't only a business issue. "All Minnesota workers are affected by the high costs of workers' compensation," the coalition states. "Those costs, coupled with our high taxes and other factors, make Minnesota an uncompetitive place to do business. We have lost many jobs because of this and more are likely to leave."

An indication that there are major flaws in the system is the fact that only three per cent of the injured workers are responsible for 73 per cent of the system's costs. Local governments are also feeling the pinch of workers' comp rates, and that means the taxpayers directly.

In Beltrami county, for instance, which has the fourth worst workers' compensation claim experience among Minnesota counties and agencies in a self-insurance pool called the Minnesota Counties Insurance Trust, the annual premium is expected to rise from $298,736 in 1991 to $351,968 in 1992. Last year the county had $131 paid out in benefits for every $100 paid for premiums.

Workers' compensation is the largest state-imposed cost of doing business in Minnesota—an annual cost of about $1.3 billion. Over and over Minnesota businesses cite workers' comp as the principal reason for their failure to grow in Minnesota, and more than any other single factor the costs force businesses to leave the state and take their jobs with them.

Systems in other states are not as costly. The system in Minnesota need not be as costly and can still provide the protection for injured workers it was intended to provide. Reform is essential—this session of the Legislature. There is no more time for delay.

The Rutherford Report

by Gary Rutherford

First Shot

The other day I was talking to a small town retailer. He told about a woman in his community who had come to his store wearing a new pair of shoes. As she was browsing he overheard her say, "Gosh, I could have bought these shoes right here and saved money besides."

I could see he was hurt. He asked, "Gary, aren't neighbors supposed to help each other? I'm fighting for my financial life in this community. She could have helped me by buying in this store and I could have saved her money."

I see this everywhere. Community retailers are not given first shot at new purchases. People exhaust their shopping list in the city mall without thinking that the items could be bought at home. And, in this case, the shoes were actually priced lower there than in the city. Yet, when local stores close, few connect their buying habits to the closure.

By giving your local retailers first shot, you give them the purchasing clout that they need to provide lower priced goods and services. And you reinforce a retailer's faith in the community. But how many people in rural communities have consciously decided to give local retailers first shot at all of their purchases? Put yourself in the retailer's place: would you put much inventory in stock if you saw the majority of new items in town coming from the mall?

The retailer remarked, "You know Gary, it hurts all the retailers to know we hold no priority. Basically, the whole town has turned into a big 7-11. We are the last choice and only used for the small purchases that are urgent."

Most of you are familiar with a mass merchandising term called "loss leader." That's an item or two priced very low to bring the consumer into the store, even at a loss if necessary. The consumer comes to buy "just that one item." But you rarely end up with just that. It's located way in the back of the store, and by the time you find it, you've filled your cart with many other non-bargain items. However, many of those can be purchased at an equal or lower price in your own community. So while the "loss leader" strategy works for the mass merchandiser, your cart is filled with the life blood of your community's retail future.

I know this is a tough discussion. I find myself driving across town to buy gas at $1.02 instead of $1.04. On ten gallons I save 20 cents – but I spend 50 cents more in gas getting there! The concept of saving seems very enticing. But it turns out to be a false savings. Furthermore, even if there is real savings, the reality of the death of small town's retail sector cancels that out. If you only want to buy the lowest priced product, there isn't any question that you can find it in the Sam's Clubs and Wal-Marts of the bigger cities. But then the profits will continue being shipped to Arkansas and your retailers will continue to close up, never to start again.

And when you get down to the bottom line, your savings may not be as great as you think. Final cost is the actual price we pay when everything is figured into the equation. To be fair, you have to figure in at least 25 cents per mile for gas and wear and tear on our vehicles, at least $5 per hour for the extra time we spend traveling, and generally there is a sandwich or a treat that we would have skipped. Add that to the loss we personally suffer from a decline in the value of our property as our main street declines and I think the math is no longer so gracious. There actually is a tremendous difference between the first and the final cost which we ultimately will pay for an item in the city.

On the other hand, I don't believe your loyalty should be to a local retailer who refuses to try and compete. If service is poor, if stocks are old and depleted, if the last paint job was in 1960, then buy in the city. Retailers that refuse to compete need to be replaced.

But where retailers are trying, before you decide to make a purchase outside of your community, really weigh the cost, the total cost vs the first price. If you get close with a local retailers price, give them your business. By giving them your first show, and your commitment to the long term, local retailers will have a reason to improve. They will have a restored faith in their future and for the community as a whole.

To The Editor:

Little "Ana" was here for her first Christmas after all, but it wasn't supposed to be that way. According to the New York Times (11/21/91), a baby girl born recently in New York will go through life missing her right arm. It was pulled off during an abortion attempt performed on her mother, who was in her eighth month of pregnancy.

The abortionist told the mother the abortion was incomplete and that she'd have to come back, but before she did, little "Ana" was born. Now she'll go through life missing her right arm....but she is alive.

How long are we going to stand by and allow these senseless killings and brutal mutilations?

There is no enforceable law in Minnesota or most states that prevent abortion at any time during the whole nine months of pregnancy. The abortionists hurt women, too. This same abortionist that maimed little "Ana" caused the death of a 17-year-old mother having an abortion. No action was ever taken against him and he's allowed to go on practicing even though many have filed charges against him. Why are they allowed to continue?

Why? Because we are not willing to really fight to change the laws and put a stop to abortion on demand which has existed since the 1973 Roe vs. Wade court decision.

Can we fathom that over 26 million unborn babies have been destroyed during all stages of pregnancy and untold number of women have suffered extreme physical and emotional trauma?

Pro-lifers, it's time to raise up a voice against this horrible holocaust. Pro-lifers will gather at the State Capitol in St. Paul January 22, anniversary of the Roe vs. Wade decision, to commemorate these abortion victims and to call attention to the need for legal protection for babies and women.

I pray you'll agree with me that 18 years of legal abortion should be enough to tell us that killing unborn babies is not the solution to our personal and social problems.

What "freedom of choice" really means is that no baby's life is important enough to override any reason a woman may have for wanting an abortion.

Research by Alan Guilmacher Institute, an associate of Planned Parenthood, shows at least 93 per cent of all abortions are done for "birth control" reasons. In our educated world, with easy access to modern birth control, I hope you'll agree with me it's time we wake up —what an awful way to plan a family!

We ask you to join in the fight to help change the law. Abortion came through the law; lawmakers make the law; we elect lawmakers. Let's be advocates for babies and change the laws.

Sincerely,
Dorothy Pederson, chairperson
Central Marshall County
Chapter of MCCL

To The Editor:

Arguments used today to justify legalized abortion are almost identical to those used over a century ago, to justify slavery.

In the 19th century, the reason you could make the choice as to whether other human beings would live or die, work in your fields or care for your home, regardless of their own will, innocence or guilt, is that they were not recognized as human at all. The slaves were only beasts, marked by the color of their skin to be apart from humanity.

Today, we are told, unborn babies are only a mass of cells marked by their silence in the womb for death.

Those who have no respect for the defenseless have no respect for anyone, even themselves.

The institution of legal abortion, like the institution of slavery, is doomed to fail.

But winning in courtrooms and legislatures will not be the ultimate victory. It's not a battle for law alone. It is a battle for the hearts and minds and consciences of the people that must be fought one on one, day after day, until we read back into the conscience of America the basic respect for the rights of each and every human being that in these years of legalized abortion has been slowly slipping away.

Americans are fundamentally ignorant of the abortion issue, and the media are largely responsible for the ignorance level.

If the media were to cover the abortion issue—instead of covering it solely as a political issue, or woman's issue or religious issue—to really cover the abortion issue, the reality of abortion and the statistics behind it, there would be a much more intelligent and healthy debate in this country.

Sincerely,
Verla Asselin
Brooks, MN.

To The Editor:

She's small, cute, friendly and outgoing and only 14 years old, but she struck fear into the hearts of the Minnesota press at the October MCCL state convention. "She" is Gianna Jessen and her story is unusual—she survived an abortion performed on her mother in the seventh month of pregnancy.

Reporters are always looking for things to write about, yet when invited to a news conference to hear Gianna's fascinating story, only a handful of journalists showed up. The only non-religious newspaper to go to the news conference was the Minneapolis Star Tribune, but even after being given a copy of the hospital record documenting that she was the product of a saline abortion, they refused to acknowledge the fact in their article.

The Star Tribune also misled readers by implying that the problem of live births from abortion has gone away because saline abortions have been replaced by a "surgical procedure," a procedure that crushes the baby's head and dismembers the body—making sure there will be no survivors.

The media blackout of Gianna's visit wasn't because her story isn't news or because of no interest. Reporters and editors are just plain scared to death of this charming teenager. She challenges their devotion to preserving the "right to choose" by personifying the reason why that "choice" is so despicable.

Sincerely,
Mary Mercil

"M. G. Norris of Crookston was in town a couple of days the first of the week selling George A. Ralph's map of Polk County. He succeeded in disposing of several.. The map is an excellent one and does credit to Mr. Ralph's ability."

"We notice that a number of our country exchanges are making considerable of a 'roar' because the county commissioners have decided to build a jail at Crookston. Although the county can hardly afford very heavy expense at present, we are badly in need of a jail and something better than the present one must be built or we had better go out of the business of arresting and detaining criminals. The present jail is a disgrace to the county."

Matt Hardware Sold

Matt Hardware at Plummer has been sold to Jim and Sherry Schiefert. They purchased the business which will be known as Schiefert Hardware on January 1, 1992. Hubert and Jean Matt started the Matt Hardware in November 1946, when they purchased a hardware store from George Lefaivre. This building was located between what is now the American Legion club and the Plummer agency. In 1954 they purchased Pioneer Hardware from Lars and Irene Haga, which was the business established by E.B. Lanager in 1904. They continued in this building until November 1968, when they built their new store. Hubert died September 21, 1991, and Jean continued the business until it was purchased by the Schieferts. We wish Jim and Sherry much success and appreciate how much it means to the people of Plummer, and the surrounding area to have a locally owned hardware store. Jim and Sherry have lived in Plummer since their marriage in 1978. They have two daughters, Heather 9 and Heidi 8. They are planning major changes to be made, new shelving, plumbing and electrical work, automotive and farm supplies are to be added. They are open Monday thru Saturday from 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. and a grand opening is planned in the spring. Congratulations Jim and Sherry and Plummer joins us in wishing you well in your new venture.

Crop insurance payouts exceed premiums paid

In only one year during the period from 1980 to 1990 have payouts in Federal Crop Insurance not exceeded the level collected in premiums, according to a report in "Agri-View," published by the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service.

The only break-even year was in 1987 when premiums and payouts were approximately equal. The following year the loss radio was nearly two and one-half times the amount of premiums paid. The aggregate loss radio for the 1980-1990 period, expressed as total indemnities divided by total premiums, was 1.5. This compared with only 1.1 for the period prior to 1980.

The "Agri-View" article reviews the crop insurance situation as follows:

Each year farmers confront the threat of poor weather conditions. This year, some farmers in the Corn Belt coped with the drought. Parts of the East coast and other areas have also suffered serious losses from poor weather.

For many farmers, crop insurance is an important mechanism for dealing with yield losses that result from a wide range of causes. But other programs, such as FmHA emergency loans, the emergency feed program and emergency haying and grazing also provide assistance to soften the impact of natural disasters.

Crop Insurance is offered and administered by USDA through FCIC, and provides yield protection for a wide variety of occurrences. Since the beginning of the program in 1938, drought has been by far the major cause of loss (56.8%).

Other loss percentages include excess moisture, 15.6%; frost/freeze, 8.9%; hail, 8.2%; wind, 3.5%; disease, 2.3%; insects, 1.9%; flood, 1.4%; and other, 1.4 %.

Crop insurance is voluntary and farmers who sign up for the program pay a premium. Farmers can buy crop insurance regardless of whether they enroll in commodity programs. A farmer may choose coverage at 50, 65 or 75 per cent of the farm's actual average yield over the past 10 years. A farmer receives payments based on individual yield shortfall, regardless of whether the county has been declared a disaster area.

The program is delivered primarily through private insurance companies, which typically provide insurance for the farmers' property and other needs as well. Most of the risk is borne by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC), which provides reinsurance to the private companies.

On average, the government pays over half the total cost of the program. The government subsidizes up to 30 per cent of the premium cost, pays delivery and servicing expenses of private companies, and covers the cost of indemnities in excess of premiums.

Crop insurance during the 1980's was accompanied by large losses. Over the 1980-1990 period total indemnities paid out exceeded total premiums (including the government-paid subsidy) by $2.5 billion.

Loss ratios vary widely among crops and regions, and among major field crops tend to be highest for wheat and soybeans. Consistently high loss ratios suggest that FCIC may have difficulty developing premium rates that reflect production risks. Problems that have contributed to large losses and the lack of actuarial soundness include:

Adverse selection. This problem occurs when farmers know more about their own yield potential than does FCIC. For instance, a farmer might choose to sign up for crop insurance in years when his soil moisture is low at the time of signup. As a result, the farmer correctly perceives his risk as larger than implied by the premium assessed, and buys insurance based on that knowledge. In this situation, FCIC holds a disproportionate share of high-risk policies.

Rapid expansion. The rapid expansion of crop insurance coverage under the 1980 act very likely increased actuarial problems. A lack of adequate yield data at times led to underwriting errors.

FCIC has worked to cut back the large losses experienced over the past decade. It has recently undertaken comprehensive rate reviews. As a result, FCIC has altered the premium rates charged to farmers so that the risk of loss is better reflected. For 1991 crops, rates increased by up to 15 per cent in some areas and declined as much as five per cent in others.

Together with ad hoc disaster assistance, delivered through ASCS, and low interest loans from the Farmers Home Administration, the total taxpayer cost of disaster assistance has been over $20 billion between 1983 and 1989.

Government outlays escalated because of widespread drought in 1988 and 1989. These large expenditures—over $13 billion for the two years—intensified the need to reduce government costs and increase the attractiveness of the crop insurance program to farmers.

Two face conspiracy and fraud charges

A United States Grand Jury in Minnesota has returned indictments against Gene Henrickson of Thief River Falls and Gordon Henrickson of Goodridge.

The grand jury indictment was returned on December 4 but sealed until warrants for their arrest were served. Gene Henrickson and Gordon Henrickson face charges in a U.S. District court that they conspired to dispose of property pledged to the government, and defrauded the government. Each count carries a maximum potential penalty of five years imprisonment and/or a $250,000 fine. The two men appeared in U.S. District Court and, according to the U.S. Department of Justice, bond was set at $10,000 each. Trial has been tentatively set for February 10 before U.S. District Court Judge Robert Renner in St. Paul.

The following is a copy of the indictment against the two men:

Count I

1. From on or about October 17, 1985, through March 14, 1988, in the District of Minnesota, the defendants, Gordon Henrickson and Gene Henrickson, did knowingly and willfully combine, conspire, confederate and agree with each other to commit certain offenses against the United States, its departments and agencies, to wit: to execute a scheme to conceal, dispose and convert to their own use property mortgaged or pledged to the Secretary of Agriculture, acting through Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 658.

Manner and Means of the Conspiracy:

2. It was part of said conspiracy that the defendants, Gordon Henrickson and Gene Henrickson obtained loans from FmHA in the amount and dates that follow: April 24, 1979 for $225,000; April 18, 1980 for $62,000; May 7, 1984 for $8,600; May 10, 1984, for $75,600; May 7, 1984, for $6,576; May 7, 1984, for $218,549; May 7, 1984, for $65,459; and May 7, 1984, for $78,684; and pledged grain as collateral for the loans.

3. It was part of said conspiracy that the defendants began disposing of the collateral, in the name of Donald Henrickson, Howard Henrickson and Michelle Henrickson, knowing that the said collateral was validly pledged to FmHA.

Overt Acts:

4. In furtherance of the conspiracy and to effect the objects of the conspiracy, the following overt acts, among others, were committed in the State and District of Minnesota:

a) From on or about October 17, 1985, through August 10, 1988, Gordon Henrickson and Gene Henrickson caused to be sold wheat which had been mortgaged by them to FmHA;

b) From on or about October 17, 1985 through October 10, 1988, Gordon Henrickson and Gene Henrickson in an effort to conceal from FmHA the fact that defendants had sold crops mortgaged to FmHA caused checks from the proceeds of their sales to be written in the name of their brother, without the brother's knowledge or authorization;

c) From on or about October 17, 1985 through October 10, 1988 Gordon Henrickson and Gene Henrickson used proceeds from said sales for their personal use;

d) From on or about October 17, 1985 through October 10, 1988

Continent crossers cruise in on their Cats

Four determined drivers purred out of Thief River Falls on their Arctic Cat Panther Deluxe snowmobiles Friday morning after spending a day at the Arctco, Inc. plant to have their sleds inspected, reviewed and repaired.

The three U.S. citizens and one Canadian are taking part in a two-month odyssey which will break a snowmobile distance record and cross the North American continent from the Pacific Ocean at Anchorage, Alaska to the Atlantic Ocean where it touches the shores of Nova Scotia.

The trip is being conducted under regulations prepared by the Guinness Book of World Records and if all goes as planned will exceed the present Guinness record of 7,211 miles set by Tony Lenzini of Duluth in a solo effort from Duluth to Fairbanks, AK and back to Havre, MT on a 1986 Arctic Cat Cougar.

"I have been riding Arctic Cat snowmobiles since 1969," stated Andre Boucher, trailmaster for the trip and originator of the idea along with his son Carl, who observed his 19th birthday on the trail Friday. With Andre and Carl, both of Derry, NH, are Andre's brother Denis of Arthobasko, Quebec, Canada and expedition leader John Outzen, also of Derry, NH.

"We normally ride 2,000 to 2,500 miles a year," Carl said, indicating that he and his father are no novices on the trail. Denis is also an avid rider and John has been drawn into the sport but is the least experienced. He became expedition leader for his organizational rather than his riding skills.

Andre and Carl had been planning the trip for three years, selecting the year which not only was the year after Carl graduated from high school but the 500th anniversary of Christopher Columbus' discovery of America. Denis was to be included and John was drawn in at the urging of Andre.

John operates a residential construction company and Andre and Carl frequently work on his projects in their drywall business. Denis is in the drywall trade in Quebec. John is also in the hot air balloon and repair business and Andre has a network marketing and general

Residents relive World War II memories

Times feature series on World War II events begins with Pearl Harbor attack and early war action

Earl Sletto, chief machinist's mate, on the U.S.S. Arizona, was one of 1,177 men who died on that ship when it was attacked at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. He was a cousin of Audrey Hermanson of Thief River Falls.

by Doaaa Mybrer
Times Community Editor

December, 1941, January 1942: ...Japan attacks Pearl Harbor, Hawaii...United States declares war on Japan...United States declares war on Germany...Japan occupies Manila. On December 7, 1941, the family of Earl Sletto, a chief machinist's mate aboard the U.S.S. Arizona listened to their radios in horror as the Japanese attack of Pearl Harbor was announced. Now fifty years later, Audrey Hermanson of Thief River Falls, a first cousin of Sletto, recalls the devasting news of the topedo which sank the Arizona. They learned that the battleship was the first target hit during the attack and had sunk in less than nine minutes, taking four-fifths of its crew, 1,177 men, to their deaths.

Audrey Hermanson

Earl Sletto, 24, was the first casualty of World War II from Douglas county, where Audrey, then 14 years old, also lived. She remembers him as "a fun person with a great sense of humor, always joking. He wasn't married, but had plans to marry a girl from California when he got out of the service." In fact, she adds, he had enlisted in the Navy in 1936, a year after his high school graduation, and had completed his four-year tour of duty several months before his death. For some reason, his discharge had been delayed.

Earl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Sletto and grandmother, Mrs. Sophie Leo all lived in Brandon, where the West Moe Lutheran church was the site of memorial service March 1, 1942 for him. Several of his relatives, including Audrey and her husband, Don Hermanson, have since visited the memorial to the U.S.S. Arizona at Pearl Harbor. For Don, this was also a time to remember his own military service in World War II, when he had a three-week rest period in Hawaii in early 1945 before traveling to Iwo Jima and taking part in that offensive. His memory of Pearl Harbor includes seeing bullet holes in the barracks, still left over from the first Japanese attack of the war.

During the couple's visit to the Arizona memorial in 1984, they viewed the large wall memorial listing all the names of those who died in the attack including that of Earl Sletto.

The news of the attack on Pearl Harbor meant something quite different to another present Thief River Falls resident, Arnold Kelley. He received his draft notice about the same time, the second man in Fordville, ND, to do so, and decided to get married.

On December 19, 1941, Arnold and his fiancee, Leola Mae Amundson, eloped to Thief River Falls and were married at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. Olafson. Sam and Lenore Nelson, friends who already lived in Thief River Falls, served as their attendants. For their brief honeymoon, Arnold says he is sure that they stayed at the Pennington Hotel and his wife insists it was the Thief River Hotel. They do agree, however, that, whichever it was, they stayed in the same one.

At this time, Arnold had been working for Johnson's Stores, Inc. in Fordville, a general store selling groceries, clothing and other merchandise, for about five years.

Arnold Kelley

Like most other Americans, he first heard about the Pearl Harbor attack on the radio in his home, an appartment he shared with two other young men. All three were registered for the draft. Arnold recalls that the announcement of the war had a large impact of the Fordville community with "everyone talking about it."

Leola had a beauty shop in Fordville and worked in her mother's restaurant while Arnold was in the service. They wrote to each other about once a week, but mail was often delayed and sometimes took a month to be delivered.

On December 29, 1941 Arnold reported to Grafton, ND, where he boarded a bus for Ft. Snelling. He remained there for about a month due to his orders being sent to the wrong camp, but eventually he was sent to Camp Forest, TN, where he had his basic training. He remained there for 13 weeks where, he says the inductees learned to march and disassemble their rifles. He adds that they used Springfield rifles at first, and later in the war, switched to M1s. During the last part of their

In acknowledgement of the sacrifices and triumphs of World War II, which took place 50 years ago, The Times will review events of the war in retrospect with a monthly series of articles from January 1992 through August 1995. These articles will feature interviews with local residents about their recollections of the war and pictures from that period.

Speaking Of . . .

I wrote this column after seeing my 1990 post-Christmas column reprinted in the Red Lake Falls Gazette. I was very flattered to see it, but the Publisher, Keith Axvig, had stated it was by "Someone." This is my way of telling him that "Someone" is me. I hope he doesn't mind it cuz I'm sending it to him today!

. . . 'Twas Time for a Rhyme

'Twas some time last week when I found myself scanning,
A Gazette from the first of the year, and planning
To read columns by Melvin and Axvig with glee,
'Cause the paper is one of my favorites, you see.

I read Editor Melvin and smiled with pleasure.
On to Publisher Axvig, expecting a treasure
Of wisdom and humor to carry me through
The long week ahead, what'er I might do

But what to my wandering eye should appear,
But a poem I wrote for my column last year;
"'Twas the Morn After Christmas," the title I gave it,
That poem with the rhyming I wrote, bit by bit.

I read it and marvelled, but looking around
Nowhere could my name or The Times' be found.
My poem, I wrote it in jest and had fun;
Axvig said it was written by only "Someone!"

So I set down my thoughts on the subject in rhyme,
Once again "'Twas" something, but different this time;
'Twas my way of getting a plug for our town,
And our paper, The Times, with a smile, not a frown.

Mr. Axvig, I offer this humble endeavor,
Just comic, not brilliant, or witty, or clever;
To let you know that I wrote all those lines,
In "Speaking of...," the column I write for The Times.

Lincoln enters 1-act play event

"Haiku" by Katherine Snodgrass is Lincoln high school's entry for the Region 8AA North Sub-Section one-act play contest to be held Saturday, February 1, in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Lincoln will be competing with Fergus Falls, Alexandria, Detroit Lakes and Moorhead for one of three positions in the Region 8AA contest to be held in Moorhead Saturday, February 8.

One winner among three teams from each of the north and south sub-sections will be selected February 8 to advance to the state contest in St. Paul February 15. Judges Saturday in Thief River Falls will be David Grapes of Moorhead State university and Duane and Linda Christianson of Red River high school in Grand Forks, ND.

Competition Saturday is open to the public free of charge and the schedule includes: 10 a.m., Detroit Lakes; 10:50 a.m., Thief River Falls; 12:15 p.m., Alexandria; 1:05 p.m., Moorhead; 1:55 p.m., Fergus Falls; and 3 p.m., awards, according to Connie Stock, contest manager. No one will be admitted while a play is in progress.

Lincoln's play is a glimpse into the relationships of a mother, played by Rachael Marshall, and her two adult daughters, Louise (Stephanie Vigon) and Billie (Danae Dekkers). Their relationship centers around each one's interpretation of and reaction to Louise's autistic disorder. The audience views their interactions in the present, but is taken into the childhood experiences of the sisters through dramatized flashbacks.

"The play is a compelling look at the fragile, delicate and disturbing world of autism," states Stock, who is directing the Lincoln play, "but is an even more compelling look at dreams and reality, expectations and the power of believing in someone, and understanding and communication as the simple images of haiku poetry become a path through the filmy maze of these characters' lives."

Assisting Stock as student director is Angelique Goulet.

INSURANCE UPDATE

Drivers in this country might want to take their cues from Canadian and Scandinavian drivers who use front and rear running lights during daytime hours. This safety measure makes automobiles more visible to drivers and pedestrians alike, and may add as much as three seconds to a driver's reaction time. Daytime use of headlights or parking lights is an effective safety measure in any season; and especially during periods of fog, rain, early morning and twilight. A U.S. study shows that daytime headlight use in good weather resulted in a seven percent reduction in car crashes.
Keeping and staying safe is your prime consideration. Whether it's being cautious and turning on your headlights, buckling up seat belts before you drive, or seeing that you have adequate automobile insurance protection for yourself and loved ones. Protection is the driving force that motivates our actions. Dear Readers,
It is imperative to be truthful to children when death occurs. If they are told, 'Grandpa went to sleep', they may be fearful of sleep. Likewise, if they are told, 'God wanted Grandma', they may be afraid God will want them. The word 'died' may seem harsh, however children need to understand that their loved one will not return. Explain to them, using simple language, that death is natural, inevitable, and final.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home

Mayor proclaims Donor month

Mayor Bob Reeve has proclaimed the month of January as National Volunteer Blood Donor month for Thief River Falls.

January has already been proclaimed as National Volunteer Blood Donor month by President George Bush. Mayor Reeve has proclaimed the month of January as Volunteer Blood Donor month because of the need in the community. According to the proclamation signed by Mayor Reeve, there is a need for about 1,000 units of blood per year for the protection of patients in Thief River Falls, and there is a need for more volunteers to join the ranks of those who have already given of themselves.

Mayor Reeve has urged all citizens to "pay tribute to those among us who donate for others in need. I urge citizens in good health to donate regularly. I urge all civic and service organizations and businesses, if they have not already done so, to form blood donor groups to provide blood for others."

United Blood Services will conduct a blood drive in Thief River Falls from 1 to 7 p.m. January 29 and from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday, January 30, at the Northwest Medical Center Chapel.

Impressions . . .

Sunday was the Super Bowl. The excitement attached to this particular game amazes me. The quantity of people, traveling many miles and paying many dollars for the privilege of watching this game, is mind-boggling. I read that a single ticket was being sold for over $600. I heard that even Duluth, a city about 150 miles away from the Twin Cities, was being the recipient of dollars from those needing places to spend a night or two while in our fair state watching the Super Bowl.

Isn't is amazing how much money and how much time can be spent watching grown men run around trying to get an oval shaped ball from one end of a playing field to the other?!

Football, to me at least, is not like other athletic events. I find baseball to be somewhat a thinking game, hockey to be a game of prowess on skates, while basketball shows the athletic greatness of its players.

Football, on the other hand, looks to me to be rather a foolhardy game! In professional football, grown men run around after this thing called a football. Now, if they only ran around with this football the game could have some redeeming moments. But, football relies on how well one player can prevent another player from catching or holding onto that ball. Therein lies the foolhardiness of this game. It's beyond me why persons of any age would willingly subject their bodies to the type of punishment that football tackles can produce. It's amazing to me that adults would consider this to be a wonderful way to make a living!! I mean, just to think of being at the bottom of a pile with several players above me is enough to set off the "this is senseless" alarm in me.

But, no matter what I feel about football, it is still a national pastime. Millions of us watch Monday Night Football on our televisions. Millions of us cheer for our favorite teams. Millions of us wear sweatshirts and caps and jackets with our teams' logos on them. Millions of us pay good money to watch this game.

Football does have an intrigue about it. Even I remember the football games of my youth. No, I didn't play the game, but I did go to every game my school played. I even was able to follow the game with relative knowledge. I usually cheered for the right guys. I don't know which was better—watching the games, or the pizza parties at one of my friend's homes after the game.

I remember other football games in the small towns in which we have lived. The competition was friendly. The entire town was usually there to cheer on the high school boys. The neighboring town that we were up against was usually composed of people we knew. The feeling was of friendly competition.

The football games of my youth were lent a particular flavor by the crisp fall air which had just a tinge of frost in it. The smell of bonfires and the harvest moon created the perfect football game picture.

But, back to Sunday's Super Bowl. I guess it's because of the memories of our youth that football is such a profitable business. But, somehow the memories of hometown boys and hometown competition and crisp autumn nights are far removed from the modern day Super Bowl. Sunday's Super Bowl was played on fake ground, newly painted. The stars, if there were any, were not visible because of a domed athletic complex. Times have changed. The dollar or two it cost to get into a hometown game is laughable when tickets are being scalped for outrageous prices.

But, somewhere in the fake grass and domed sky and large sums of money spent must be the memories of those simpler days. We must not really see the senselessness of grown men falling down just to get a football to the goal. Instead, we must in the recesses of our memories, see the way things used to be, and just for a few moments we can forget what is.

Isaac and Betsy Thompson returned January 20 from a five-week trip which took them to Phoenix, AZ, where they spent three weeks with Barb and Tom Woodruff. Christmas Eve they joined other members of the Woodruff family at Tam's folks, Jim and Nina Woodruff. Leaving Barb and Tom's January 9, they made an overnight visit with Rev. LeRoy and Jewell Johnson, who is pastor of the Central Assembly of God in Las Cruces, NM. From there they drove to Harrison, AR, where they spent five days with Rev. Albert and Eileen Stromlund and their son, Rev. Rodney and Ruth Stromlund. While there, Albert and Eileen, Isaac and Betsy went to see Crystal and Floyd Morris at Reed Springs, AR. That turned into a challenging trip as it became a 50-mile trip in 4" of wet, slippery snow on curvy roads in the "hills and hollows" of that area. They spent a weekend with LeRoy and Pearl Lundell in Minnetonka, then checked in with Richard Thompson's in Red Lake Falls, Nelson LeDoux, Thief River Falls and Robert Thompson's on the way home.

Visitors during the week at Elsie Lefrooth's were Donnie, Marlys and Melania Lefrooth, Pearl, Isaac and Betsy Thompson.

Raymond and Emphrie Heugard of Stephen, stopped in to see Judy Kleinvachter Wednesday forenoon, after she came home from the United Hospital in Grand Forks.

Marian Pederson visited Frank Kleinvachter's Thursday afternoon.

Thursday supper guests at Peter and Pearl Thompson's were Isaac and Betsy Thompson and Elsie Lefrooth.

Peter and Pearl Thompson accompanied by Elsie Lefrooth attended the funeral service for Ole Koland on Thursday.

Friday Isaac and Betsy took dinner to Nelson LeDoux in Thief River Falls, and visited with him.

Miles and Judith Pothum stopped to see Judith Kleinvachter Wednesday afternoon, also Julius Kleinvachter and Lori Johnson visited.

Sunday evening Pearl Thompson accompanied Isaac and Betsy to the Union service at the Gospel Tabernacle.

Jennifer Anderson was home from Hamline University, to attend 4-H District record judging in Mahnomen. She will advance to state competition with her citizenship records in June. Chana Chaffee took Jenny to the train Monday night, to return to St. Paul. Friday and Saturday Jennifer will be attending 4-H committee meetings at Cragun's Resort in Brainerd. She will be representing the MN 4-H Federation.

Slow Drains?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again!

The secret? Clean drains don't run slow. Slow drains, or periodic clogs, are signals that a thick layer of "gook" is choking your pipes. This gook coats the entire length of your pipe- from sink to sewer, or septic.

Conventional drain openers cannot remove this build up. Even a small tunnel through the waste lets them flow through the pipe, leaving the gook behind!

Now, with just a few minutes each month, you can easily clean out your pipes like new... and KEEP them clean with Plumb Clean. Its totally unique formula clings, and penetrates deep into the gook. That allows it to liquefy even years of build up. Plumb Clean will clean the entire length of your pipes. It will make your drains run like new, when used as directed. This penetrating action is so revolutionary, Plumb Clean is money-back guaranteed!

Save Money. A 1 lb. container of Plumb Clean holds up to 41 drain treatments. Even if drain openers could fix slow drains, you would have to buy over 10 quart bottles to get the same number of treatments. Plumb Clean costs about 35 ¢ per treatment. We don't know of anything that cleans drains for less.

Safety. Conventional drain openers are dangerous chemicals. They can injure eyes on contact. They can release deadly vapors, in some situations. Some, may damage your fixtures. Plumb Clean will not burn skin, or eyes. It will not release harmful fumes. When used as directed, it is 100% safe for people, and of course all plumbing.

So, if your drains are signalling you, get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean today! Available at:

Impressions . . .

Sunday was the Super Bowl. The excitement attached to this particular game amazes me. The quantity of people, traveling many miles and paying many dollars for the privilege of watching this game, is mind-boggling. I read that a single ticket was being sold for over $600. I heard that even Duluth, a city about 150 miles away from the Twin Cities, was being the recipient of dollars from those needing places to spend a night or two while in our fair state watching the Super Bowl.

Isn't is amazing how much money and how much time can be spent watching grown men run around trying to get an oval shaped ball from one end of a playing field to the other?!

Football, to me at least, is not like other athletic events. I find baseball to be somewhat a thinking game, hockey to be a game of prowess on skates, while basketball shows the athletic greatness of its players.

Football, on the other hand, looks to me to be rather a foolhardy game! In professional football, grown men run around after this thing called a football. Now, if they only ran around with this football the game could have some redeeming moments. But, football relies on how well one player can prevent another player from catching or holding onto that ball. Therein lies the foolhardiness of this game. It's beyond me why persons of any age would willingly subject their bodies to the type of punishment that football tackles can produce. It's amazing to me that adults would consider this to be a wonderful way to make a living!! I mean, just to think of being at the bottom of a pile with several players above me is enough to set off the "this is senseless" alarm in me.

But, no matter what I feel about football, it is still a national pastime. Millions of us watch Monday Night Football on our televisions. Millions of us cheer far our favorite teams. Millions of us wear sweatshirts and caps and jackets with our teams' logos on them. Millions of us pay good money to watch this game.

Football does have an intrigue about it. Even I remember the football games of my youth. No, I didn't play the game, but I did go to every game my school played. I even was able to follow the game with relative knowledge. I usually cheered for the right guys. I don't know which was better—watching the games, or the pizza parties at one of my friend's homes after the game.

I remember other football games in the small towns in which we have lived. The competition was friendly. The entire town was usually there to cheer on the high school boys. The neighboring town that we were up against was usually composed of people we knew. The feeling was of friendly competition.

The football games of my youth were lent a particular flavor by the crisp fall air which had just a tinge of frost in it. The smell of bonfires and the harvest moon created the perfect football game picture.

But, back to Sunday's Super Bowl. I guess it's because of the memories of our youth that football is such a profitable business. But, somehow the memories of hometown boys and hometown competition and crisp autumn nights are far removed from the modern day Super Bowl. Sunday's Super Bowl was played on fake ground, newly painted. The stars, if there were any, were not visible because of a domed athletic complex. Times have changed. The dollar or two it cost to get into a hometown game is laughable when tickets are being scalped for outrageous prices.

But, somewhere in the fake grass and domed sky and large sums of money spent must be the memories of those simpler days. We must not really see the senselessness of grown men falling down just to get a football to the goal. Instead, we must in the recesses of our memories, see the way things used to be, and just for a few moments we can forget what is.

Slow Drains?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again!

The secret? Clean drains don't run slow. Slow drains, or periodic clogs, are signals that a thick layer of "gook" is choking your pipes. This gook coats the entire length of your pipe- from sink to sewer, or septic.

Conventional drain openers cannot remove this build up. Even a small tunnel through the waste lets them flow through the pipe, leaving the gook behind!

Now, with just a few minutes each month, you can easily clean out your pipes like new... and KEEP them clean with Plumb Clean. Its totally unique formula clings, and penetrates deep into the gook. That allows it to liquefy even years of build up. Plumb Clean will clean the entire length of your pipes. It will make your drains run like new, when used as directed. This penetrating action is so revolutionary, Plumb Clean is money-back guaranteed!

Save Money. A 1 lb. container of Plumb Clean holds up to 41 drain treatments. Even if drain openers could fix slow drains, you would have to buy over 10 quart bottles to get the same number of treatments. Plumb Clean costs about 35 ¢ per treatment. We don't know of anything that cleans drains for less.

Safety. Conventional drain openers are dangerous chemicals. They can injure eyes on contact. They can release deadly vapors, in some situations. Some, may damage your fixtures. Plumb Clean will not burn skin, or eyes. It will not release harmful fumes. When used as directed, it is 100% safe for people, and of course all plumbing.

So, if your drains are signalling you, get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean today! Available at:

On January 26 at 2:47 a.m. police tried to stop a snowmobile. The snowmobile failed to stop and reached speeds up to 50 miles an hour. A passenger tried to get the driver to stop and eventually jumped off the snowmobile. The snowmobile and driver were later located and John Paul Prymak, Manitoba, faces charges of driving while intoxicated and failure to stop for officers after fleeing from an officer.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

Catholic Schools Week observed

Special events at St. Bernard's school in Thief River Falls call attention to the observance of Catholic Schools Week and the history of St. Bernard's school.

Rev. Noesen began considering the possibility of beginning a Catholic school in 1920 and arranged for purchase of six additional lots with a cottage located on them for $2,150.

In 1922 the old Knox elementary school was closed when replaced by a new building and Rev. Noesen, being of a conservative nature, opted for purchase of that building instead of building a new one. The building was cut into two sections and moved across the river on the ice at Third street early in 1923.

"The first part was moved across without any difficulty," a history of St. Bernard's church states. "It so happened that the movers were from Red Lake Falls and commuted on the passenger train between Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls. It was on a Saturday afternoon when they got to the middle of the river with the second section of the school, and it was time for the crew to catch the train home. They quit their work and left the building standing on the ice.

"The next day the parishioners found the school at the bottom of the river. When the moving crew came back they drove pilings alongside the building and jacked it up again, leaving it in midair for a few days to let the river freeze over again.

During the summer the school was set up and painted. In the fall of 1925 the school was finally put into operation by the new pastor, Rev. A. I. Merth. Benedictine Sisters from Crookston staffed the school with Sisters Secunda, Sophia, Margaret, Clare, Cecelia and Philomene.

Although expense of maintaining a school weighed heavily on the parish, it eventually paid its debts and began to plan for future needs. In May of 1948, with Rev. William B. Swanson as pastor, the parish voted to build a combination church and school building at a cost of $250,000. It was dedicated in February of 1949.

The rectory built in 1914 was replaced with a new rectory in June of 1966 and included a library, business offices and classrooms.

Seventh and eighth grades were discontinued in 1969.

With Rev. Stan Bourassa and Rev. Dave super as parish priests, a new church was built in 1989 and expansion and remodeling of the school accomplished. Improvements included two new classrooms, offices, library, computer room, storage area and fire alarm system.

In 1991 Rev. Joe DeCrans and Rev. John Kleinwachter were transferred to St. Bernard's to serve the parish.

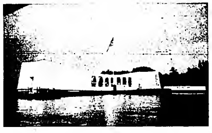
Arnold and Leola Kelley, who recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, eloped to marry in Thief River Falls December 19, 1941 after he received his induction notice for World War II.



The U.S.S. Arizona memorial at Pearl Harbor is open for visitors every day and contains the names of the 1,177 men who died when the battleship was struck by a topedo at the beginning of World War II.

training, the troops were moved to a tent city from which they took a lot of 25-mile hikes. He was with F company of the 129th Infantry and trained as a gunner for a 60 mm mortar section.

Just before he went overseas, Arnold was allowed a seven-day pass to go home. After he returned, the troops loaded their equipment on flatcars on a train and traveled to Pittsburgh, CA, the debarkation point. They left Sept. 2, 1942, on Arnold's 23rd birthday, on the Torrens, a Norwegian ship which had been converted to a troop ship with a PT boat as its only escort.

Arnold arrived in the Fiji Islands later in September and was assigned to warehouse work, because of this experience in the general store at home. The items which he and two other men were responsible for dividing among the troops included toothpaste, cookies, pop (mostly Coca Cola), cigarettes and beer. The cigarettes arrived in round metal tins and were often moldy, but "the guys smoked them anyway." The beer was KB Lager from Australia, packed in quart bottles in wooden crates and surrounded by hay or straw. It was often not properly aged and some men got sick from drinking it. It was Arnold's responsibility to divide the items equally between the companies and load the trucks to ship it to them. He adds that these items were very important to the morale of the troops in the South Pacific.

On May 24, 1944 Arnold left the Fiji Islands for Guadalcanal. From there he traveled on the U.S.S. John Hope, a freighter, on which the men slept on the decks. They arrived at the Green Islands, where they disembarked by climbing over the sides of the ship and rode in LSTs to shore. At this base, radio-controlled plane made of plywood were sent over Rabaul Island to bomb Japanese positions there.

After his stay at the Green Islands, he traveled to Bougainvdle, where he joined the Americal division, 181st Infantry and, in February, left for Leyte in the Philippines, still assigned to the supply section. From there he was sent to Cebu, an island, on April 3, 1945. The ship on which he traveled was escorted by destroyers that dropped depth charges periodically in case there were submarines in the area.

He arrived two days after the initial invasion, but fighting was still going on. With tracers being fired into the sky at night, "it looked like the Fourth of July. But we never thought anything about it." At one point, the Japanese ignited a gasoline dump and "it was quite a blaze." For his service there, he recieved the Asiatic Pacific Service medal and the Philippines Liberation ribbon with one bronze star.

While at Cebu, Arnold received word from the Red Cross that his mother was very ill and he traveled home, leaving May 30 and arriving at Angel Island in San Francisco on June 27, "where they fed us like kings, pork chops, steaks, ice cream and fresh milk." He arrived at Fordville on July 4, shortly after his mother's funeral. Before there was time for him to return overseas, the Japanese surrendered and the war was over.

Arnold also recalls that when he began his military service, he received $21 a month, but as a T5, when he got out, he was getting about $90 a month, including overseas pay.

After the war, he worked in Grand Forks for a while, before moving to Thief River Falls in 1947 to work at Northern Motors.

merchandising business as well.

That Arctco provided the quartet with the new Panthers for the trip is not purely an act of generosity.

"We're interested in the publicity, of course," admits Darcy Harbott of Arctco, who worked closely with Outzen and Boucher in arranging for the trip. "But our research and engineering department is even more interested in what the sleds will reveal after the trip. Every guy in R and D was going over the machines the day they were in the plant here."

Because there are four riders and machines involved, it is likely two of the sleds will come back to Arctco after the ride is completed for research and development analysis. The other two will remain with the riders for their public relations appearances at schools, snowmobile clubs and other places where appearance of the machines will add impact to the presentations.

"While we do a lot of testing to simulate trail conditions and stress the parts we use," Harbott said, "we aren't able to simulate the total exposure to such a variety of conditions this venture will provide. It will be an excellent proving ground for our machines and should help us in providing even better snowmobiles in the future."

Four riders, by the way, is considered the optimum number for such an undertaking by both John and Andre. If one of the riders has a problem, another can stay with him while two others go for assistance. Motel accommodations work out well with four riders, as does planning for the next day's ride. Often planning is done for two or three days ahead.

From this point on the trip should be easier with more trails and greater population density available. The travelers have gone to carrying only two spare gallons of gas instead of six gallons.

"Earlier on the trail it might be 100 miles between gas stations, and that meant 100 miles between buildings!" John said.

Speaking of gas stations, the riders added that they have been able to reduce the personal expense of the trip—which is still considerable—by receiving donated gas at many of the stations where they stop. They explain their goal of promoting safe, alcohol and drug-free driving as well as their record mileage goal.

The safe and careful driving is more than a slogan for the four men, it's a creed. If they have any type of law violation on the trip their Guinness participation is gone—no record, no recognition, no acknowledgement.....nothing.

"We provide the station with a logo sticker and we will send a certificate to the station when the record-breaking trip is completed," John added. "Most seem to get caught up in the spirit of things and I would say more than 75 per cent of the stations have become donors."

Not only has gas been donated but overnight hospitality as well. At Tok, Alaska, when they stopped for gas near the end of the day, another customer by the name of Wayne Eagle invited them to his home. "It was a beautiful log house and we appreciated his hospitality," Outzen said.

The men have also picked up some other support, including $1,000 from their home Derry Pathfinders Snowmobile club, $500 from the state snowmobile association in New Hampshire and smaller amounts from others. They also have clothing and equipment sponsorship which helps hold down the cost.

They have been pleased that the trip has gone much better than expected so far, due to the performance of the snowmobiles and especially to the moderate weather.

"We were expecting 50 below zero temperatures," Andre said, "but the coldest it has been anywhere has been about 20 below. We can't believe it. There has been at least some snow in all areas."

The men said they had worn out three sets of hifax from Anchorage to Thief River Falls but had experienced little trouble with anything not designed to be a wear item.

They followed the Alcan highway through the Yukon Territory, British Columbia, the Northwest Territory, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba before dipping into the United States south of Winnipeg to ride into Thief River Falls last Wednesday evening.

After a day of public relations work and sled inspection and repair, they left Friday morning in the rest of their journey which would include Wisconsin (where a governor's reception was planned), Michigan, Ontario, Quebec (where Lenzini's 7,211-mile record would be broken and the group would stop at Denis Boucher's home), New York, Vermont, New Hampshire, maine, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and a ski dip in the Atlantic.

The trip which began January 2 in Anchorage is expected to conclude about the end of February. Mileage has varied from as few as 65 (due to a pre-arranged promotion) to as many as 300 miles per day. To satisfy the Guinness record requirements, a log book has to be kept on each machine by serial number. Each day photos have to be taken of the odometer and of the machines with a descriptive landmark visible.

Most memorable experience on the trail so far?

"Definitely riding the Denali highway from Cantwell to Faxton," Outzen said, and the others readily agreed. The highway had been closed for the season and the men put in a 271-mile day including 130 miles on the Cantwell to Faxton segment.

"The scenery was breath-taking and there was a lot of wildlife," Carl added. "It was a great experience that I'm sure I won't forget."

Prowlers beat Falcons

A strong start carried Thief River Falls past Fertile-Beltrami 59-43 Friday in girls high school basketball.

Some of the Prowlers' best basketball of the season provided them with a 19-2 head start and a 25-8 cushion by the time the first quarter came to a close.

Those first eight minutes including a near-perfect blend of offense and defense as the Prowlers hit 12 of 23 from the field (52 percent), including a quarter-ending string of eight-in-a-row, while forcing the Falcons into 11 turnovers with pressure defense that converted six of those Fertile-Beltrami errors directly into baskets. Thief River Falls, meanwhile, did not turn the ball over the first quarter. And to make it even sweeter, all five Thief River Falls starters were in on the first quarter scoring.

"We were hot the first quarter," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse. "That was exactly the way we wanted to play. We put pressure on them defensively; we didn't want to let them set up and get the ball to their big kids inside."

But the Falcons did go inside at the start of the second quarter when their 5-11 duo of Kelli Kronschnabel and Kirsten Jacobson, plus 5-9 Tricia Swenson, combined on a 10-2 run that trimmed the Thief River Falls lead to 27-18 with 4:38 remaining in the first half.

However, the Falcon were never able to put back-to-back baskets together again until the final two minutes of the game.

"They went back-door on us a number of times when we went to a man-to-man at the start of the second quarter," pointed out Wiltse, "so we went back to the zone."

And the Prowlers closed out the first half with a 10-1 scoring spurt to take a 39-21 cushion into intermission. It was 52-31 at the end of the third quarter and Fertile-Beltrami faced a 59-35 deficit midway through the fourth quarter before scoring the final points of the night.

All eight players on the Prowlers' varsity bench got into the scoring column, with Jodi Kruta netting 18 to lead the way. Lisa Ulrich finished with 12 points and Amy Adams had 10.

But with Tarik Koivisto sidelined indefinitely because of health reasons, the already-thin Thief River Falls bench looked even more empty when Adams went down with a first half ankle sprain. She did not play the second half, but Wiltse didn't think the injury would prove to be as serious as the ankle problem that kept the 5-10 junior out of the line-up at the start of the year.

Swenson led the Falcons with 16 points and Kronschnabel had 12.

Thief River Falls was still shooting 45 percent from the field before the Prowlers missed their final 11 attempts to finish 27-for-71 – 38 percent. They were 5-for-9 at the free throw line.

Fertile-Beltrami was 19-for-52 from the field (37 percent) and went 4-for-8 at the line.

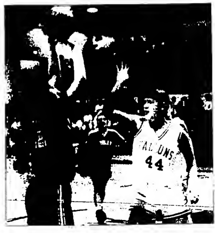
TRF - Toni Chiodo 6, Jodi Kruta 16, Allison Peterson 2, Lisa Ulrich 12, Amy Adams 10, Lori DeLap 7, Leslie Ammerman 2; Vanessa Anderson 2.



Fertile-Beltrami defender Jamie Erickson tried to keep Thief River Falls' Lisa Ulrich away from the basket during Friday's girls high school basketball game played in Thief River Falls. Ulrich scored 12 points in the Prowlers' 59-43 win.

Roseau handles TRF 4-1

A Roseau goal scored with just one second left in the first period provided the spark to lift the struggling Rams past Thief River Falls 4-1 Saturday in Section 8 high school hockey.

The two teams had played to a 3-3 overtime tie 19 days earlier, beginning a four-game winless streak for the Rams, who followed the tie with subsequent losses at the hands East Grand Forks, Bemidji and Warroad to fall to a very un-Roseau-like 6-5-2 for the year.

Saturday's Thief River Falls-Roseau rematch in front of a packed Roseau Memorial Arena crowd was tied at 1-1 before the Rams' Greg Foster, left all alone at the corner of the net, had an easy tap-in for a power play goal at 14:59.

That 2-1 edge stood through the second period, with Roseau doubling the margin over the final 15 minutes to quiet a large Thief River Falls fan following.

"The first period was a critical period, " noted Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo. "They've been struggling, but they played hard that first period and got a lead. That gave them the momentum. Any time you score in the final seconds like that, it's a big goal."

The loss snapped a seven game unbeaten streak for the 10-5-1 Prowlers, who will host East Grand Forks Tuesday and Moorhead Saturday in 7:30 p.m. games at the Sports Arena.

"We didn't play the kind of hockey we've been playing lately," acknowledged Chiodo. "We made far too many mental mistakes, and we picked up too many penalties. You can't go to the box that many times against the good teams and expect to get away with it. We've been fortunate in our penalty killing situations lately, but you go to the well too many times and you're going to come up dry sooner or later."

Saturday's scoring started when a slap shot off the left wing by the Rams' LeEarl Rugland trickled through Thief River Falls goalie Barry Dowers at 6:10 of the first period.

It was tied just 58 seconds later, however, when Thief River Falls' Troy Bertram was a winner in a foot race for the puck, finishing the sprint by slipping his shot past Roseau goalie Ross Boldt at 7:08.

Just when it looked like it would finish in a 1-1 tie, the first period ended on Foster's goal.

The Rams capitalized on another power play opportunity in the opening moments of the third period to deflate the Prowlers' comeback hopes as Andy Hedlund tapped in a goal mouth feed at 1:44.

Todd Hagen scored at 9:04 to put the final nail in the coffin when his slap shot from the point sailed through a maze of players screening Dowers.

Dowers finished with 39 saves. Boldt had 22.

First period - Roseau, LeEarl Rugland (Tony Hammer), 6:10; TRF, Troy Bertram (Chad Frezor-Mero Saavarson), 7:08; Roseau, Greg Foster (Todd Hagen-Andy Hedlund), 14:59.

Another one bites the dust. Undefeated Thief River Falls senior Joel Davis completed a pin of Badger-Greenbush junior Danny Kvien at 125 pounds as his teammates and Thief River Falls cheerleaders celebrated the victory during Friday's high school wrestling dual. Davis upped his record to 17-0 for the year with the win.

Fergus Falls wins title at Crookston

Fergus Falls was an easy winner Friday in the four-team Crookston invitational boys high school swim meet.

The Otters collected 196 points, while Detroit Lakes had 141, Thief River Falls 87 and Crookston 83.

Detroit Lakes scored 150 points to win the junior varsity portion of the meet, followed by Fergus Falls with 127, Crookston 86 and Thief River Falls 75.

"The kids swam okay," noted Thief River Falls coach Ryan Lokken, whose team was coming off a tough 94-92 dual meet loss at Bemidji the night before, "but they were a little sluggish after a hard effort in Bemidji."

Brad Kragness turned in the top Thief River Falls place finish – a second in the 500-meter freestyle. Adam Jacobson and Jason Coto went 3-4 for the Prowlers in the 50-meter freestyle. The Prowlers also came up with a third place effort in the 200-meter medley relay and 200-meter freestyle relay.

Wrestlers have 7-8 record

Youth is being served in Thief River Falls wrestling this winter, but senior Joel Davis continues to be the Prowlers' top performer heading into the stretch drive of the 1991-92 season.

A Thief River Falls team that included a seventh grader, two eighth graders and four freshmen lost a 70-6 Friday night make-up dual to Badger-Greenbush, but Davis remained unbeaten, stretching his record to 17-0, with a 1:59 pin of Danny Kvien at 125 pounds.

"Even though we got beat pretty good, we actually wrestled pretty well," said Thief River Falls coach John Anderson. "We're just so young. Seven of the 13 kids in our starting line-up could actually be wrestling junior high."

Thief River Falls is 7-8 in dual meet action. The Prowlers had a solid showing in a five-team North Sub-Section 8AA dual meet gathering in Detroit Lakes Jan. 18 – beating Detroit Lakes 43-20, Moorhead 35-30 and Fergus Falls 38-34 while losing to Alexandria 37-32 and Bemidji 55-12 – but didn't show so well in a 53-24 loss to Red Lake County Central Thursday in Plummer.

"We wrestled well at Detroit Lakes," pointed out Anderson. "We didn't wrestle very well against Red Lake County Central. I think we were looking past them to Badger-Greenbush, and when you're as young as we are, you can't afford to do that. You have to pick up a win in the matches where he have a shot at winning."

Thief River Falls will meet Grand Forks Central/Valley Junior High Thursday in a 7 p.m. dual that will not be scored as a varsity match, although many of the Prowlers' younger varsity wrestlers will be in the line-up that night.

The Prowlers will also be at home Saturday with a 12-noon dual against East Grand Forks.

Huskies handle RLF

Donovan Quam scored 19 points and Brandon Blaine had 17 Friday as Goodridge beat visiting Red Lake Falls 61-43 in boys high school basketball.

Goodridge coach John Rahn was concerned his team might not be at the top of its game following a 68-41 win over rival Grygla-Gatzke the night before, but the Huskies grabbed a 21-11 first quarter lead, maintained a 35-26 halftime advantage and opened up a 49-32 spread.

"We came out a little flat, but overall, I though we played a nice game," said Rahn.

Brian Remick scored 13 points and Greg Johanneck had 11 for the Eagles.

Goodridge went 26-for-66 from the field (39 percent) and finished 9-for-19 at the free throw line. Red Lake Falls was 16-for-53 from the field (30 percent) and 4-for-8 at the line. The Huskies out-rebounded the Eagles 37-29.

Pirates beat Prowlers 69-56

Some time during the halftime break Thief River Falls lost its shooting eye Friday in a 69-56 boys high school basketball setback at Crookston.

The Prowlers shot 56 percent from the field in the first half when they hit 14 of 25 in staying within 39-31 of the once-beaten Pirates. But Thief River Falls cooled off to 24 percent shooting in the second half on a 7-for-29 showing in falling to 2-10 for the year.

"We just didn't put the ball in the hole in the second half," offered Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "We had some good shots but they just wouldn't fall. If we would have shot in the second half like we did in the first half, we might have won the game."

Crookston started with an 18-11 first quarter lead. The Pirates maintained an eight-point spread at halftime, then opened up a 55-41 third quarter cushion when the Prowlers struggled through a 3-for-11 effort from the field.

Senior guard Tom Upham scored a game-high 24 points for the Prowlers, but he was their only double figure scorer. John Vorachek and Scott Magsam both netted 19 for the Pirates, and Ted Hasz added 15.

Thief River Falls wound up 21-for-54 from the field (39 percent) and 9-for-15 at the free throw line. Crookston went 26-for-50 from the field (52 percent) and finished 13-for-21 at the line. The Prowlers finished with a 31-28 rebound edge. Turnovers were held to a minimum on both sides – nine for Thief River Falls; eight for Crookston.

"The effort was good," said Brekke. "We worked hard and we got up and down the floor pretty well."

Thief River Falls was scheduled to visit Roseau tonight (Tuesday). The Prowlers host Fergus Falls Friday.

Northland Community College women's basketball...

Pioneers split games

Northland women beat Mesabi 74-42 Friday night, but lost to Vermilion 76-68 Saturday afternoon in Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball games played at Virginia and Ely.

The weekend road split left the Pioneers at 6-6 for the year and 2-2 in the MCCC Northwest Division standings, one game behind 3-1 Fergus Falls. Brainerd and the University of Minnesota-Crookston are both 1-3.

Northland will be at Fergus Falls Wednesday and will host Itasca Friday in 6 p.m. division-counting games before heading to Willmar Sunday for a 2 p.m. nonconference start.

Mesabi 42

Sharp Northland passing game opened up the inside for Alice Dunning and Rhonda Rothschadl, and the two Thief River Falls sophomores combined for 47 points as the Pioneers rolled to a 74-42 win over Mesabi.

"It was a strong performance for us," reported Northland coach Sue Barnd. "We were able to move the ball quickly, which gave us opportunities from the perimeter, and once we established the outside threat, we were able to drop it inside to Alice (27 points, 14 rebounds) and Rhonda (20 points, 21 rebounds).

Nanette Berg joined Rothschadl and Dunning in rebound double figures with 14 as Northland doubled Mesabi 60-30 on the boards.

Northland led 39-25 at halftime.

The Pioneers were 34-for-82 from the field (41 percent) and went 6-for-10 at the free throw line. Mesabi struggled with a 16-for-68 shooting night from the field (24 percent) and wound up 9-for-17 at the line. Northland topped the turnover charts 22-15.

Sarah Schleppegrell scored 16 points and Jen Tiedeman had 10 for Mesabi.

Vermilion pulled away at the end to finish with 76-68 win over Northland in a Saturday matinee match-up.

It was close throughout. Northland trailed 37-32 at halftime, but had a 62-61 lead with 5:19 left before point guard Susie Bengston re-injured a knee as she tried to chase down a loose ball.

That presented Vermilion with an edge down the stretch as the winners opened up a 69-64 lead on a Katrina Daniels basket with 2:12 remaining, then finished it with six free throws by Shannon Kroeze.

"I thought we had another good outing," said Northland coach Sue Barnd. "We played well even though we got banged up."

Alice Dunning had a 24-point, 12-rebound game for the Pioneers, while Rhonda Rothschadl scored 18 points and grabbed 10 rebounds.

Kelli Lee led a balanced Vermilion attack with 18 points.

The Pioneers shot 33 percent from the field on a 26-for-79 outing and went 14-for-18 at the free throw line. Vermilion put up 95 shots, hitting 31 for a 33 percent showing, and added a 13-for-17 effort at the line. The winners finished with a 45-36 rebound advantage.

Nordics beat Bears 86-40

Thirteen different Marshall County Central players put their names in the scoring column Friday as the Nordics handled Lake of the Woods 86-40 in boys high school basketball at Baudette.

Four Marshall County Central scorers reached double figures as Tim Olson netted 18 points, Robbie Anderson and Jeremy Tallum both had 14 and Ivan Hirst picked up 12, along with 19 rebounds.

Joe Dobransky led the Lake of the Woods efforts with 11 points.

Marshall County Central led 20-11 at the end of the first quarter and had a 35-22 halftime advantage, then out-scored Lake of the Woods 51-18 in the second half when the work of Olson and Anderson on the edge of the Bears' zone defense broke things open. It was 63-33 at the end of the third quarter. Using junior varsity players extensively in the fourth quarter, the Nordics still blitzed the Bears 23-7 over the final eight minutes.

"I thought we played real well in the second half," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland, whose team went to 7-5 for the year – the first time they've been two games over .500 this winter.

Marshall County Central went 34-for-73 from the field (47 percent) and had a productive 14-for-18 game at the free throw line. Lake of the Woods struggled with a 15-for-50 shooting performance from the field (30 percent), while going 6-for-12 at the line. The Nordics clobbered the Bears 47-12 on the boards. Lake of the Woods topped the turnover charts 39-24.

The Nordics were scheduled to meet Warroad tonight (Tuesday) in Middle River. They will be at East Grand Forks Friday.

Wolverines pick up their first win

Grygla-Goodridge girls snapped a season-long 12-game losing streak Friday with a 47-40 high school basketball win over Kittson County North at Grygla.

But the Wolverines' win streak ended at one game Monday when Grygla-Goodridge lost a heartbreaking 44-42 triple-overtime decision to Lake of the Woods in Baudette.

Next Grygla-Goodridge start will be a Thursday contest at Middle River.

Lisa Verbout scored 12 points and Kathy Smeby had an 11-point, 15-rebound game to lead Grygla-Goodridge past Kittson County North 47-40.

The Wolverines went up 9-4 in the first quarter, moved out to a 27-18 halftime lead and maintained a 34-25 third quarter advantage.

"It felt good," said Grygla-Goodridge coach Mike Gast after the Wolverines' reversed an earlier 29-21 loss to the Cougars. "We played pretty well for the most part. We played very well for 2 1/2 quarters."

Three Kittson County North scorers reached double figures as Melanie Peterson netted 14 points, while Cheri Wilson and Lavone Nelson both had 10.

"We've improved a lot since the beginning of the year," pointed out Gast. "Our record just doesn't show it.

The injury-plagued Smeby has once again emerged as the Wolverines' leader with her aggressive play, pointed out Gast. "She's coming around. She's been playing better and better all the time," he said.

Grygla-Goodridge was 15-for-59 from the field (25 percent) and 17-for-25 at the free throw line. Kittson County North went 16-for-57 from the field (28 percent) and 8-for-16 at the line.

Lake of the Woods 44
Grygla-Goodridge 42

A three-point basket by Lisa Verbout of Grygla-Goodridge with four seconds left in regulation time tied the game 38-38, but after two overtime periods failed to break the deadlock, Lake of the Woods wound up a 44-42 Monday night winner.

"We made a nice comeback, and we had our chances to win," mentioned Grygla-Goodridge coach Mike Gast. "We should have won, we could of won, but we just didn't."

Lake of the Woods had a 9-6 first quarter edge and went into halftime with an 18-14 edge. Grygla-Goodridge took a 27-26 lead into the fourth quarter. After regulation time ended in a 38-all tie, the two teams played to 40-40 and 42-42 draws in the first two overtimes.

SueAnn Verbout scored 12 points and Kathy Smeby had 11 for the Wolverines. Brandy Toft came up with a game-high 20 points for the Bears. Teammate Erika Klassen netted 14.

Grygla-Goodridge was 19-for-65 from the field (29 percent) and made just one of seven free throws. Lake of the Woods went 19-for-71 from the field (27 percent) and wound up 6-for-18 at the line.

It wasn't a smooth outing, acknowledged Gast. "It was one of the roughest games I've ever been involved in," he noted. "They weren't calling anything."

Smeby and Jackie Kiesow both pulled down 13 rebounds for the Wolverines.

Skippers win 43-41 ball game

Middle River ended a three-game losing streak Friday with a 43-41 boys high school basketball win over Warroad.

A one-point scoring edge in both the first and fourth quarters wound up being the difference on the scoreboard at the end as the host Skippers had leads of 13-12, 20-19 and 33-32 at the quarter stops.

Ahead 43-39, Middle River tried to run time off the clock at the end, but wound up with a couple of turnovers to make it even more interesting. A final Warroad three-point attempt was well off the mark.

"We lucked out," admitted Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We gutted it out. We shot atrocious, but we played excellent defense."

Both sides struggled through 29 per cent shooting performances from the field as the Skippers hit 19 of 66 attempts and the Warriors made 16 of 55. Middle River also had trouble with a 4-for-10 showing at the free throw line, where Warroad was 8-for-12.

Gilbert Olson scored 12 points and David Blazek had 11 for the Skippers. Chris Bergstrom came up with a game-high 19 points for the Warriors.

Middle River wound up with a 37-34 rebound edge, including an 18-11 advantage on the offensive end. Warroad had more turnovers, 17-8.

Lumberjacks edge swimmers

Bemidji edged Thief River Falls 94-92 Thursday in a late-reported boys high school swim meet in the Lumberjacks' pool.

The loss left the Prowlers 0-3 in dual meet competition, but the two-point setback, explained Thief River Falls head coach Ryan Lokken, represented a significant improvement for a program that lost an 80-point dual meet decision to the Lumberjacks a year ago.

"The meet was as close as you can get," pointed out Lokken after the teams battled to the final relay.

Top Thief River Falls performances, according to Lokken were turned in by Daryl Kiesow with a 1:04.4 first place finish in the 100 butterfly and by Aaron Hall with a big time drop while finishing third in the 500 freestyle.

Matt Carlson supplied the Prowlers with first place finishes in the 50 and 100 freestyle, while Brad Kragness won the 500 freestyle and Adam Jacobson took the 100 breaststroke. Carlson, Kiesow, Kragness and Tony McEnelly formed first place relay teams in the 200 and 400 freestyle races.

Marshall County Central girls...

Solid shooting carries MCC

Solid shooting carried the Marshall County Central girls to high school basketball wins over Lake of the Woods 67-54 Friday and Argyle 49-39 Monday.

The two wins boosted the Nordics to 7-6 for the year. They will meet Roseau Thursday at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls and will take on Badger-Greenbush Monday in Middle River.

Marshall County Central went 28-for-60 from the field (47 percent) and 8-for-11 at the free throw line in beating Lake of the Woods 67-54 at Baudette.

The Nordics had quarter leads of 12-11, 29-24 and 49-37.

"I was pleased with the way we shot the ball," said Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "That's the best we've shot from both the field and the free throw line all year."

A 1-2 Marshall County Central scoring punch featured Sara Lokstad with 24 points and Kim Davidson with 22. Brandy Toft led Lake of the Woods with 20 points, while Erika Bailey had 14 and Erika Klassen scored 11.

Lake of the Woods was 23-for-55 from the field (42 percent) and went 8-for-16 at the line.

Marshall County Central finished with a 29-22 rebound edge, but the Nordics also topped the turnover charts 17-16.

Field goal percentage stayed up there, making up for a poor night at the free throw line, as Marshall County Central turned back Argyle 49-39.

The Nordics were 21-for-46 from the field (45 percent), but wound up just 5-for-16 at the free throw line, including a 3-for-13 fourth quarter that featured a bundle of misses on the front end of bonus opportunities.

"We shot well again from the field, but I was really disappointed in our fourth quarter free throw shooting," offered Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We usually do a much better job than that at the line. But other than the free throws, I thought we played pretty well."

Sara Lokstad scored 19 points and Kim Davidson had 14 as the Nordics posted quarter leads of 14-6, 28-14 and 38-29. The margin could have been greater at the end, pointed out Mjelde, if they had come through at the free throw line when the Eagles were backed into a must-foul situation.

Argyle was 16-for-56 from the field (28 percent) and 6-for-12 at the line.

Prowlers defeat Wolfpack 62-43

Amy Adams scored 22 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to lead Thief River Falls past Hallock-Kennedy 62-43 Monday in girls high school basketball.

Jodi Kruta added 14 points to the Prowlers' attack and Alison Peterson, a recent addition to the Thief River Falls starting line-up, came up with a 12-point effort.

For the second straight game a strong start keyed the Prowlers' performance as they jumped out to a 17-5 first quarter lead, maintained a 31-22 halftime spread and had a 43-34 third quarter advantage.

"We played real well," said Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse. "We came out strong in the first quarter. We came out a little flat in the third quarter – our defense wasn't moving and our offense wasn't working – so we switched from a man-to-man defense to a 2-3 zone just to try something different, and that seemed to be effective the rest of the way."

Wendy Dziengel scored 18 points to lead the highly-regarded Wolfpack, with Sabrina Platland netting 11.

Hallock-Kennedy was playing without center Karen Larson because of a knee injury, but Thief River Falls was without forward Tarik Koivisto because of health problems.

Thief River Falls was 28-for-62 from the field (45 percent) and 4-for-6 at the free throw line – with all of the free throw shooting done by Adams. Hallock-Kennedy went 18-for-59 from the field (31 percent) and had a 6-for-12 night at the line. The Prowlers out-rebounded the visiting Wolfpack 37-33.

The 8-6 Prowlers will be in Crookston Friday and at Detroit Lakes Saturday.

Middle River girls high school basketball...

Skippers lose pair of games

An eight-game Middle River winning streak ended Saturday when the Skippers dropped a 52-44 girls high school basketball decision at Warren.

It became a two-game losing streak Monday when Middle River fell to visiting Stephen 51-41.

A busy Middle River schedule will continue when the 11-5 Skippers host Grygla-Goodridge Thursday and entertain Argyle Saturday.

Middle River 44

Warren out-scored Middle River 14-1 in the fourth quarter for the 52-44 Saturday night win.

The Ponies started with a 20-10 first quarter lead, but Middle River was within 30-29 by halftime and the Skippers had a 43-38 lead when the third quarter came to a close.

But Middle River lost play-making guard Denise Johnson to an ankle injury in the process, and they faltered without her in the line-up running things.

"It was an exceptionally well-played game for three quarters," pointed out Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "We were playing as good a ball as we've played all year. But things came to a standstill in the fourth quarter without Denise in there. We just hit a wall."

Johnson scored a team-leading 17 points before the injury stopped her. Holly Gram added 12 points to the Middle River total.

Game-high scoring honors went to the Ponies' Heidi Lochow, who burned the Skippers for 33 points – the most points scored by an individual against a Neibauer-coached team since 1980, he pointed out. Jenny Diedrich contributed 11 points to the Warren efforts.

Middle River was 17-for-44 from the field (39 percent) and 10-for-16 at the free throw line, where Warren was 11-for-17.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Middle River	10	19	14	1	44
Warren	20	10	8	14	52

Middle River - Denise Johnson 17, Sara Melby 4, Andi Nelson 2, Krissi Super 8, Sherie Melby 1, Holly Gram 12.

Warren - Jenny Diedrich 11, Heidi Lochow 33, Erin Aakre 4, Susie Novak 4.

Stephen 51
Middle River 41

Twenty-seven percent shooting from the field cost Middle River in the 51-41 defeat at the hands of Stephen.

The Skippers played without point guard Denise Johnson, who was injured in Saturday's loss to Warren, and her absence made a big difference, especially in the transition game, explained Middle River coach Tom Neibauer.

"They (Stephen) got down the court faster than we did," he said. "With Denise in there, nobody would beat her down the floor."

Middle River had a 12-10 first quarter lead, but trailed 20-18 at halftime and fell behind 34-28 in the third quarter. The Skippers were still within two points with 4 1/2 minutes remaining before losing ground down the stretch.

Holly Gram scored 17 points and Krissi Super had 15 for the Skippers. Darcy Kuznia of Stephen led all scorers with 18 points. Rachel Kazmierczak added 10 points to the Tigers' total.

Middle River was 14-for-52 from the field and 10-for-20 at the free throw line. Stephen went 5-for-7 at the line. Even without Johnson, the Skippers had just nine turnovers for the night.

"Our floor game was good enough to win," noted Neibauer, "but we didn't shoot well enough to win."

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Stephen	10	10	14	17	51
Middle River	12	6	10	13	41

Stephen - Sara Sczepanski 5, Robyn Dahl 2, Darcy Kuznia 18, Tracy Anderson 4, Rachel Kazmierczak 10, Brandi Borowicz 8, Krista Busby 2, Lisa Hooper 2.

Middle River - Andi Nelson 7, Krissi Super 15, Sherie Melby 2, Holly Gram 17.

Thief River Falls VFW Bantam A hockey team dropped a 3-2 Thursday night decision at Warroad, then went 2-1 for a runner-up finish in its own TRFAHA Invitational over the weekend at the Sports Arena.

Keefe finished with an 11-save shutout while Kaine Martell and Tim Barry both scored two goals as Thief River Falls blanked St. Louis Park 7-0 in first round tournament play Saturday. Single goals came from Adam Fulton, Jason Cota and Hanson, while Anderson, Martell, Aaron Ehrenstrom and Steve Rambeck picked up two assists each. The St. Louis Park goalie finished with 33 saves.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR DEAR MOTHER (MARTHA HASBY) WHO PASSED AWAY JANUARY 30, 1991

Long have we loved you but God loved you more
He's taken you away to that bright happy shore
Your loving eyes were often dimmed with tears
Guiding our feet through the long weary years
Angels have taken her out of our care
Still we recall our dear Mother's prayer.
Sleep Mother sleep, your troubles are ours
Sweetly the rest you needed before
Soon we'll meet you on that bright happy shore
And there we'll be so happy forever more
We Love You Mom!

Sadly missed by all her children

MINNESOTA POLLUTION CONTROL AGENCY PUBLIC NOTICE ON PROPOSED AIR EMISSION FACILITY PERMIT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the Commissioner of the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency proposes to issue Air Emission Permit No. 890-92-OT-1 to ARCTCO, Inc. for its snowmobile manufacturing facility located in Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota.

The facility is in an area designated as attainment for all criteria pollutants. Snowmobile manufacturing is one of the industrial source categories listed in the federal Prevention of Significant Deterioration regulation (PSD, 40 CFR 52.21) as major, if the potential to emit is equal to or greater than 250 tons per year for any single regulated pollutant.

Air Emission Permit No. 890-92-OT-1 contains federally enforceable limits on the emission of non-criteria volatile organic compound pollutants so that the facility is not a major facility and is not subject to review under PSD regulations.

The draft permit applies to the entire facility and authorizes the operation of electrodepositional coating equipment, spray painting, fiberglass hood fabrication, foam seat manufacture, logo silk screening, heated washing tanks, and space heating equipment. The draft permit further authorizes the installation and operation of electrostatic powder coating equipment.

The proposed duration of the permit is five years.

The ARCTCO Inc. facility in Thief River Falls is being permitted as a synthetic minor for PSD purposes. The potential emission rate of 248.3 tons VOC per year will be accomplished by limiting VOC emissions and requiring daily evaluation of VOC emissions based on quantities of VOC containing coating materials used each day at the facility. A summary of the facility's emission rates follows:

Emission Rate (tons/year)

Pollutant	Actual	Potential
TSP	4.5	201
SO_2	.01	.24
NO_X	2.3	39.4
CO	.5	7.9
VOC	88	246

In addition, the permit limits fiberglass hood production not to exceed 25 units in any one hour and limits silk screened Logo production not to exceed 325 units in any one 8-hour period.

The preliminary determination to issue the permit is tentative. There are three formal procedures for public participation in the Agency's consideration of the permit application. These procedures are set forth in Minn. Rules pts. 7001.0100 to 7001.0130. First, interested persons may submit written comments on the proposed permit. Second, interested persons may request the Agency to hold a public information meeting. Third, interested persons may request the Agency to hold a contested case hearing, which is conducted by the Office of Administrative Hearings pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act.

Interested persons who submit comments or requests to the Agency shall set forth:

1. A statement of the person's interest in the permit application or the draft permit;
2. a statement of the action the person wishes the Agency to take, including specific references to the section of the draft permit that the person believes should be changed; and
3. the reasons supporting the person's position, stated with sufficient specificity as to allow the Division Manager of the Air Quality Division to investigate the merits of the person's positions.

The public comment period commences January 28, 1992, and terminates February 28, 1992. Comments and requests should be mailed to:

John Ferman
Permits Section
Air Quality Division
Minnesota Pollution Control Agency
520 Lafayette Road North
St. Paul, Minnesota 55155

All written comments and requests for public information meetings or contested case hearings received during the public comment period will be considered by the Division Manager, Air Quality Division. The Division Manager will issue a final determination in a timely manner after the expiration of the public comment period.

A copy of the draft permit will be mailed to any interested person upon the Agency's receipt of a written request. Additional materials relating to the issuance of this permit are available for inspection at the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency, Air Quality Division, 520 Lafayette Road North, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155, phone (612) 296-7600, and at the Agency's Detroit Lakes Regional Office, Lake Avenue Plaza, 714 Lake Avenue, Suite 220, Detroit Lakes, Minnesota 56501, phone (218) 847-1519 between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Lottery research refutes image

by George R. Aadersen,
MN State Lottery Director

It is generally believed that there is but one type of lottery player — someone who have a relatively low income, little education, one who simply wants to win big money. Not so.

The Minnesota State Lottery recently commissioned a series of market research studies to determine the profile, attitudes and playing habits of Minnesotans. Such information is very important — not only with regard to marketing the lottery, but also to ascertain the acceptability, motivation and social impact of a major form of gambling in this state. Gambling is a major business in Minnesota, and it is important to major business in Minnesota, and it is important to know what is going on. Much has been said and written about the compulsive gambler, about the "waste" of personal resources and about the perceived inability of the public to restrain itself when it comes to gambling. All who participate are "Painted with the same brush", especially by people who choose not to gamble. The facts, however, show a dramatically different pic-

SCS officials concerned about crop residue use

In some parts of Minnesota, U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Soil Conservation Service (SCS) officials are concerned that some farmers are not leaving the correct amount of crop residues after planting as required by their conservation compliance plans.

"In southeastern and south central Minnesota we have some farmers who are leaving only 10 to 15 per cent crop residue cover on their fields when their plan calls for 40 per cent residue," say John Nicholson and Ron Hardesty, SCS area conservationists in Rochester and St. Peter, respectively.

"It is imperative that farmers understand that crop residues help reduce soil erosion. It is also very important that they understand the consequences related to not leaving the required crop residue percentages on their highly erodible fields as defined in their conservation compliance plan. Crop residue, such as cornstalks, left on the field after harvest, is effective in reducing soil erosion."

In the wheat producing region of northwest Minnesota, many farmers are talking about moldboard plowing to control diseases in wheat. In 1991, the unusually wet, humid climate caused some severe disease problems. While this was a result of a combination of factors, including planting wheat following wheat, some farmers are blaming only residue management practices. Crop rotation can solve most disease problems. Where rotation is not possible, crop scouting and fungicide applications may be needed, or revising your plan to change other practices, such as windbreaks.

Farmers failing to leave required crop residue percentages on their fields are taking a severe risk and may lose their USDA program benefits.

Danny Potter, president of the Minnesota Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts and a farmer in Redwood county, urges farmers not to wait until 1994 and hope to meet 1995 crop residue compliance plan requirements. "It takes a little practice to achieve the required 30, 40 or 50 per cent residue cover after planting. The sooner farmers start measuring their crop residues, start managing their farm tool choices and how to use them—at both harvest and at planting time—the more effective they'll be in meeting their crop residue requirements."

The clock is running. Meeting

Parents should create guidelines on drinking

(Second in a series of three articles on Parents, Alcohol and Pre-Teens.)

The first article in this series identified the significant influence that parents can have on the choices their children make about the use of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs. For example, the personal choices parents make about alcohol use are clear messages to their children. Parents can be positive and healthy role models for children by choosing not to drink or by choosing to use alcohol moderately, appropriately and within the guidelines discussed below.

These guidelines have been described in a number of publications by Roger Svendsen and Tom Griffin of Health Promotion Resources, a division of the Minnesota Institute of Public Health. They can be used by parents to determine if the use of alcohol or other drugs is necessary or unnecessary, healthy or unhealthy, low risk or high risk, and appropriate or inappropriate.

(1) The use of alcohol is a personal choice.

No one should feel pressured to drink or made to feel uneasy or embarrassed because of a personal choice. Many people will choose to use alcohol safely, moderately and appropriately. Others will simply have no desire to experience the effects of alcohol. Some people with a family history of chemical dependency or alcoholism may choose not to risk any use of alcohol. The bottom line is that no one should feel that he/she has to drink to be accepted.

(2) Alcohol use is not essential for enjoying family or social events.

The real value of parties and other social activities is being with friends and taking time out from the pressures of work and school. Drinking alcohol should not be seen as a necessary component for having fun and being with friends. If alcohol is used it can be an enjoyable complement to other activities, not the only reason for socializing. Actually, focusing on alcohol use as the main reason for a party can result in intoxicated people who get sick, can't carry on a conversation and generally aren't much fun to be with after a while.

(3) Use of alcohol that leads to impairment or intoxication is unhealthy, risky and should be avoided and discouraged.

Getting drunk is not a condition to be admired, laughed at or taken lightly. Rude, destructive or just plain foolish behavior triggered by alcohol use is socially unacceptable. It may also indicate an alcohol use problem. Drinking games often result in drunkenness and can present serious risks for those involved.

(4) There are times when it is important for everyone to obstain from alcohol or other drug use. Examples include:

- When recovering from chemical dependency;
- When the alcohol or other drug use is illegal;
- When pregnant or nursing;
- When operating equipment—motor vehicles, motorcycles, boats, tools, firearms, etc.;
- When swimming, skiing, climbing, or doing other risky physical activities;
- When at work or studying;
- When performing in athletics or fine arts;
- When taking certain medications.

Each of these situations presents specific risks and should be a time when alcohol use is avoided. As caring friends we can help each other choose not to use during these times.

(5) There are personal limits of moderation for everyone who chooses to use alcohol.

Everyone who chooses to drink alcohol should know his/her personal limit of moderation. It is important that each person set the limit before having any alcohol. Judgement can be affected even after a small amount of alcohol. Factors that influence the effects of alcohol include: Weight, strength and number of drinks, time between drinks, food eaten, age, fatigue, emotional state and gender.

(6) There are ways to minimize health and safety risks when serving alcohol. Examples include:

- Emphasize friendship, conversation and other activities rather than drinking alcohol;
- Offer a variety of attractive non-alcoholic drinks that are easily available;
- Provide a variety of foods;
- Serve all drinks to guests rather than having an open bar;
- Inform guests whether or not

DON'T LET THE SHADOW OF SUPERSTITION CLOUD YOUR DAY

By now each one of us has picked
A trusted method to predict
The kind of weather we will see;
By watching experts on TV,
Or learning what we have in store
By turning to our native lore:
A famous groundhog known as Phil
Will leave his burrow on the hill,
And if his shadow will be cast,
Then winter's cold is bound to last.
It's just for fun, yet we recall
That superstition grips us all.
Don't let it overshadow you,
But keep faith's messages in view;
For rain or shine, your true reward
Will come from trusting in the Lord.

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

by Gretchen Beito

Her home looks like a dollhouse. Hild Hildahl's house is like a child's drawing with a doorway in the center flanked by lace-curtained double windows on each side. When we stopped at her house last August, Hild's front stoop was painted as bright a red as the geraniums in a clay pot beside her front door.

Hild herself is not like a doll—she is lively, bright and talks gladly. She is more like a Norwegian Nisse—small, teasing, filled with cheerfulness and a sense of goodness.

Hild's home, located a few blocks from downtown Roseau, is indeed a dollhouse. There she has created a host of Norwegian dolls, only four or six inches high, each one complete to the tiniest detail. "Nokken," "dveno," "Nisse"—each has a distinctive personality.

Surrounded by her own crewel-embroidered pillows and hundreds of hard-cover books, I visited with Hild and friends over a cup of coffee in her living room.

Hild grew up in the busy port town of Kragero, Norway, where her love of handwork started very early. "When I was a little girl and had some extra money, I didn't buy candy. I would run to the store to buy yarn in basic colors. Then I knitted doll clothes and mittens for my family, too. My mother taught me and I had such encouragement from my father. That was my greatest joy when I was seven or eight years old," Hild says. Her father had a gift for telling her stories, and her favorite characters were Per, Paal and Ashlad.

Later Hild taught weaving, hardanger, book binding, the weaving of baskets, and the making of fine brushes in Home Economics School in Kragero. She had studied in Sweden and Risor and kept two big looms in her home to weave fine, linen-like tablecloths.

At the age of 35 she moved with her husband, Olaf, to America and a farm on the Roseau River. "When Olaf was out in the fields, he never wanted me to do any hard farm work. He said to keep house and bake and cook—that is a big enough job."

But at the farm she could not see any neighbor's house, and it was quite a difference from living in Kragero where traffic on ocean and streets was bustling. There sailors from many nations walked about the town. The old town of Kragero has narrow streets and red-tiled rooftops. "You would think a giant had been standing above the town with a handful of houses, then just dropped them around," she says.

Hild missed the familiar Norwegian figures of her home town, and began to create skiers, kicksled drivers and members of her family. The very first of these perfectly detailed Norwegian folklore characters was a red-capped Nisse. Later she was to sell over 4,000 of them.

Hild says, "I would create new folklore characters which Olaf would admire. We had it so good. We felt the same about things. Olaf made many things for the dolls—skis, ski poles, little chairs, metal pails, kicksleds—each one so tiny.

"Norwegian songs have inspired me in many cases, almost every one. We have such a wealth of folksongs in Norway and I like so much the music of Grieg. On the farm I would sit and hum—and something would come to mind, some new folklore character to create."

On the farm Hild had planted many flowers around the cottage, and she showed us a painting by Tom Waale of their cottage. Hild and Olaf lived happily in the cottage by the river until 1948 when a terrible storm came up. So much rain fell they had a flood, and "Olaf built a boat in a hurry," she says.

Along with their neighbors, they came back and cleaned the place up, but everybody said that the flood was Hild's fault.

"But that is impossible. How could they say such a thing?" I asked.

"They said I was telling everyone I was so lonesome for the ocean, so the ocean came to me," Hild said with a chuckle.

She told us that two years later the prairie flooded again, and this time floodwaters came up to the window sills of the cottage. "That's when we moved to town and built this house," Hild explained.

Hild continued her love of dollmaking and made dolls with all the Norwegian national costumes, River Sprites, Mermaids and Pillarguri (peasant mountain girls). Figures from the tales her father had told her included Soria Moria castle folk, Gudbrand and his wife, and the Woman Against the Stream, whose tiny index and third fingers on both hands stick out, saying with insistence, "Clip, Clip, Clip."

Her trolls, made of bits of branches, yarn and moss, have terrible, malicious smiles and even at five inches high seem threatening. Hild says, "The trolls we will never get rid of because they symbolize the evil in the world. People are always fighting trolls. There is the three-headed troll in some stories. When the young man has to cut off the three heads, he has to be pretty smart in order to do it. It is comforting to know that if we fight evil, we will win."

It is not only great that Hild's dolls are artistically brilliant and true to the smallest detail, they also carry the cumulative wisdom of centuries of Norwegian life. Hild has transported the spirit of other centuries to the new world.

Different people like different things for different reasons. Finding out who they are and why they have certain preferences is the key. Certainly people have different reasons for preferring Coke or Pepsi. The same is true with the variety of wagering opportunities offered by lottery products, pull tabs, horse racing and casinos. Within each play method, preferences exist regarding winning frequency ("I like to win more often", big prizes ("I play just for the big prize"), game theme ("I like that fish game"), where the proceeds go ("I take a chance for the environment's sake"), and many more. We are alike in many ways but different, too.

So what does the research show? The median household income of lottery players is $30,000. Pretty typical for Minnesota. Average per capita play is just $1.50 per week. Rural and farm residents play significantly more than their counterparts in other states, with 65 per cent of rural and 50 per cent of farm residents playing. As a percentage of their populations, rural players are exceeded only by players from large cities and only by five per cent, or 70 per cent of city residents playing.

Lottery players tend to be younger: 71 per cent are 18-34 years; 60 per cent are 35-64 years; 44 per cent are 65 plus years. Only 19 per cent of the total population (18 plus years) in Minnesota play more than once per week. And, 14 per cent of Minnesotans dislike, or are opposed to, gambling.

Most folks play hoping to win a prize. That is, after all, the reward. But it is the fun and excitement of winning in and of itself, rather than the anticipation of winning "big," that Minnesotans say motivate them to spend a few dollars every month. This is evident not only from their responses to research surveys, but also from their spending patterns — instant games with their smaller, more frequent prizes outsell all other lottery products combined, even Lotto which offers the big prize — millions of dollars that can dramatically alter one's lifestyle. Minnesotans love Lotto, but they are also very realistic. In their measurement of value to expenditure, Lotto is worth an occasional dollar, more when the jackpot is very large. But players still prefer, and play, the games with more, smaller prizes.

All these data demonstrate that, with respect to the lottery, Minnesotans are still the practical, budget conscious people we always knew. They are our neighbors and friends. Just regular folks, whose lives are typical — a lot of work, a little fun, a few dollars now and then to test their luck. Lottery players are typically the smallest segment within compulsive behavior gambling among casino games, pull tabs and the lottery. Oh, there are exceptions, and there are indeed some people who spend more than they should. But as much as we all desire to help them, we should always recognize that they are a very small percentage of the population, and simply do not represent the greater values of Minnesota, nor of the typical lottery player.

The conclusion? The lottery is viewed as beneficial, fun, entertaining and, of course, potentially rewarding by the vast majority of Minnesotans. It is extremely popular, played by the average Minnesotan, but not so frequently or so extravagantly played as to cause alarm, and it is endorsed and viewed as an affordable pastime.

Parents should set guidelines

beverages such as punch contain alcohol:

- Stay alert and assume responsibility to help a guest who may have had too much to drink; and
- Create an environment that allows guests to feel comfortable making a personal choice about alcohol use or nonuse.

For more information on the Minnesota Prevention Resource Center materials for responsible hosts, that include tips and recipes for nonalcoholic beverages, call 1-800-247-1303 or Carrie Berg at 281-2546.

(7) Avoid situations where someone else's alcohol, tobacco or other drug use may put you at risk. Examples include:

- Not riding with an impaired or intoxicated driver;
- Using seat belts at all times to protect both drinkers and non-drinkers; against being injured or killed in an alcohol-related crash;
- Exercising caution in unfamiliar environments; and
- Recognizing high risk sexual situations.

The guidelines above can provide the framework to examine the use of alcohol and other drugs as part of family and social events. Through consistent application of these guidelines we can:

- Support those who choose not to drink;
- Affirm the right of adults to drink alcohol safely and wisely;
- Share our concerns with those who drink or use other drugs illegally or inappropriately;
- Be compassionate to those whose lives have been affected by chemical dependency and other related problems;
- Encourage discussions about alcohol and other drug use with people of all ages; and
- Be role models for healthy and appropriate choices about whether, when and how much to drink.

The third and final article in this series will offer specific suggestions for actions parents can take to prevent problems with alcohol, tobacco and other drug use.

SCS concerned about crop residue use the crop residue management requirements in your compliance plan means planning ahead. Residue management begins at harvest. For example, to achieve your planned residue levels after planting your 1993 crop means starting in the fall of 1992 with your planned tillage system.

SCS will be making status reviews, or spot-checks, of randomly selected fields to check crop residue left on top of the soil surface along with other planned conservation practices. For example, if a plan calls for leaving 40 per cent corn residue on the field surface after planting, SCS will check to see if it's there.

Likewise, if a farmer had scheduled the installation of a water management practice, such as a terrace or a grass waterway for a particular field in the current year, it would be checked. Cover on Conservation Reserve Program land, management practices, and wetlands are also spot-checked.

Some Minnesota SCS conservationists are concerned that many of the more permanent practices, which involve a lot of earth movement, have been scheduled than can be completed on schedule. "I'm worried about the number of people who have scheduled to build these practices in 1994. It's possible that the funding, contractors and SCS technical help may be spread so thin that year that many of these farmers may be out of compliance," says Gary Nordstrom, SCS State Conservationist in St. Paul.

"I think it would be wise for farmers who are in this situation to build those practices as soon as possible. Or, maybe they should consider planning and installing other conservation practice alternatives for a more realistic approach to getting the necessary conservation work put on the land."

Bill Richards, national chief of the SCS, headquartered in Washington, D.C., is himself a farmer from Ohio. Richards advises farmers to take their conservation compliance plans and the status review process seriously. The status reviews are designed to check compliance and to help farmers know whether they are on schedule with putting the conservation practices in their conservation compliance plan on the land.

"Conservation compliance is here to stay," say Richards, Nordstrom and Potter. "The conservation intent of Congress in the 1985 Farm Bill didn't change in the 1990 Farm Bill. We don't see conservation compliance fading out of the picture at all. It's in the farmer's best interest to go to their local SCS/SWCD office now and be sure they understand the contents in their plans, talk about alternatives and firm up a schedule for any revisions that they and SCS can agree on."

"A farmer who has highly erodible land and takes part in USDA programs certifies each year that he or she is actively applying a conservation plan. The American people have asked farmers to take care of their land in exchange for receiving USDA program benefits. It's a reasonable request, and it's the responsibility of the farmer to be sure it's done. USDA and Minnesota's 91 SWCDs stand ready to help them," Nordstrom says.

Wood Building Materials Environmentally Friendly

"The materials issue cannot be ignored as we seek to create a quality, sustainable environment," states Jim Bowyer, Minnesota forest products specialist. "What we need to do is to produce raw materials to the extent we can in an environmentally acceptable way.

"If we choose not to consider realistically the need for materials, then our efforts to create a pristine U.S. environment will be at the expense of the global environment. This approach is irresponsible."

What Bowyer is saying, in essence, is that those self-styled preservationists who have a personal relationship with every tree in the country are probably barking up the wrong one. In particular he is taking issue with those who object to timber harvest without the realism that there are few options.

And the fact is that manufactured substitutes are much more energy intensive and environmentally harmful than wood building materials.

"Gathering and processing industrial raw materials tends to be energy intensive," states Bowyer, who conducts research for the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station. "Energy consumption has major environmental impacts, ranging from global warming to oil spills. And when you look at industrial materials in an energy context, wood looks very environmentally acceptable in comparison to other materials."

As an example, he points to a total energy cost study conducted by the national Academy of Sciences on manufacturing different kinds of walls used in buildings. The study included costs for harvesting or mining, transportation, processing and construction.

The results: A 100-square-foot wood wall of medium density fiberboard siding over plywood sheathing, with 2x4 framing, required only 2.54 million Btu oil equivalents. Energy cost for a concrete block wall was 17.09 million Btu oil equivalents, and for brick the number was 17.89 million.

Substituting steel for wood studs on the fiberboard and plywood wall almost doubles the energy used to 4.79 million Btu. "Although using steel would result in fewer trees being harvested," Bowyer said, "the overall environmental impact would be very negative."

According to an article by Anne Gillespie Lewis in Minnesota Science, published by the University of Minnesota's Agricultural Experiment Station, the U.S. is a net importer of many raw materials. Sometimes the materials aren't found in this country, sometimes the domestic production isn't economical, and sometimes it is considered environmentally disruptive to produce them here when they can be obtained for countries with less stringent regulations. In effect, we export our pollution problems to other countries.

"In 100 years, given rapidly growing populations, will these countries be willing to export these raw materials to us and, even if they are, is it morally acceptable for us to do that as a national environmental strategy?" Bowyer asks.

He said the construction materials question is part of a larger problem of coping with population growth while maintaining healthy ecological systems. "Global thinking means looking at the total system," he said, "yet we often talk about the environment without considering population trends, which shows there is a certain amount of wishful thinking."

The United Nations says world population could possibly double in the next century to more than 12 billion. "Let's plan for that realistically," Bowyer says. "We need to take the requirement for materials and the need to protect the environment and come up with real solutions. When we view the world in this way, sustainable production of wood to near the biological potential of our forests looks to be a desirable environmental goal."

About That $25 Per Head Ransom.....

Announcement by the Minnesota Education Association (MEA) that all but 10 Minnesota school districts and their teachers reached contract agreement by January 15 indicates that people were negotiating with at least one eye on the calendar as well as on the contract.

Deadlines aren't all bad. Certainly in the newspaper business we deal with them all the time, and most people in business of any sort are confronted with getting things done by a specified time. If we're honest, most of us will admit that without deadlines we tend to procrastinate and to put off decisions or actions which don't necessarily require the expenditure of additional time.

Most school board members will maintain that the State-imposed penalty of loss of $25 per pupil unit if agreement is not reached by January 15 puts them at a disadvantage in negotiations. We can understand their concern. But it is also true that loss of that amount would leave school districts with less money to distribute, and that impacts on faculty. We don't see any real disadvantage to either side in negotiations.

There are a couple of things wrong with the State-imposed deadline and resulting penalty for non-compliance. The first is timing and the second is negativism.

If there is to be a deadline, it should be June 30 instead of January 15. Teacher contracts are generally two-year pacts that span fiscal years beginning July 1. We can see no reason for school districts and their teachers to wait six months into the new contract year to settle on a contract. Pay is retroactive to the start of the contract year, and a January settlement means additional accounting work for all concerned. Non-settlement by the start of a contract year puts a lot of things on hold that could just as well be accomplished if financial circumstances already have been determined.

The penalty for non-compliance is a negative motivation. If the state wants to hang a carrot from a stick, maybe a bonus payment per pupil unit for June 30 settlement would be more positive as an incentive. We realize the odds of that happening are about the same as winning the lottery, but the point is still valid.

It is difficult to argue with success. The deadline seemed to work, judging by the number of settlements just prior to it, but it adds another stress factor to an already stressful process. Sometimes the best decisions aren't made under duress.

Educators Role in Economic Development, Part One

I entered the classroom where sixteen teachers waited to talk with me. The subject: economic development.

"How many of you are happy with your current condition as an educator in this community," I asked? No one raised a hand. What's wrong? "We're caught in a trap, a condition not of our own making," they complained. "Our salaries are...grossly under where they should be and there is no hope in sight. We like our jobs, we like the children, but our condition is unfair."

If this "no hope" attitude is representative, and if it is transferred to the students, what affect will it have on the future economic development of the community.

Due in part to the role assigned to education by society, and because of the nature of education itself, educators have traditionally not been an active part of economic development efforts. However, we believe educators have a tremendous impact on the economic future of the community. Thus, the traditional role of educators must change, if the attitude of our youth is to change. Working in conjunction with parents, educators and the educational system can develop positive attitudes of hope. They can set the necessary examples of committed citizens willing to believe in and fight for the future of your community.

The question, then, begins with attitude. Traditionally, educators do the job they have been hired to do: educate our kids academically. However, very rarely has anyone ensured that teachers develop in our kids a positive attitude, self-confidence, pride in America, and faith in the community.

Can educators teach these positives while maintaining a negative attitude? No. Kids are perceptive. Kids know. A teacher consciously or unconsciously transfers attitudes to the kids.

And educators affect attitudes another way. Statistics say only one out of twenty people become job creators, yet schools prepare all students for jobs outside the community. As to attitude, then, students today think "job dependent." But the future, education will not necessarily ensure a quality job. Education, then, must seek a balance and also develop the attitudes and curriculum for the independent 5% who will start their own business somewhere.

The hard cost of developing positive attitudes in students toward themselves and the community is small. But what is the cost to the community if you don't develop this attitude? Suppose you had a teacher who built self-confidence in students, developed a spirit of independence, instilled pride and hope in the community, besides developing strong academic abilities? And suppose this teacher understood the need for the school and teachers to be involved in the community, along with all citizens? Such a teacher would produce a certain number of students each year prepared attitudinally to become "job-creators." And, some of those kids will get experience in the real world and will return to the community to start their business. What would that teacher be worth? By today's standards this educator would be grossly underpaid. On the other hand, an educator with a negative attitude toward the future who is unwilling to be a committed citizen may be grossly overpaid and incredibly expensive to the community regardless of current pay.

Should educators, then, be part of an educational institution only, or active citizens, who along with parents, contribute to the community's future by building positive attitudes in kids? If we do not see the link between the loss of youth and the attitudes developed via education and parents as a root problem, then long-term trends can't be reversed.

Educators, like their community, have not historically had to deal with declining trends. But today, we are forced to deal with this new phenomenon: if community decline continues, many teacher will lose their jobs. So educators have a vital stake in reviving rural communities.

On the other hand, the community must check its own attitude toward educators. Teachers are in a trap, and as valuable citizens in the community, we must give them the encouragement and respect they deserve. Civic clubs must actively solicit the involvement of educators. Conversely, educators should encourage positive involvement of business in some part of education. It is unthinkable for a community to develop an accountability system regarding an educator's civic impact, and reward positive impact with merit-pay increases? This could be funded from a source apart from the school budget. Doing this can increase the dignity of one of the most valuable assets in any community: educators committed to excellence both in education and citizenship.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Solomon, to many the wisest man who ever lived, once said, "Give therefore Thy servant an understanding heart to judge Thy people, that I may discern between good and bad: for who is able to judge this Thy so great a people?" (I Kings 3:9).

Now, I am not a King like Solomon, but I am a child of the King....and I have wanted to comment on the casino subject for some time, but since it involves the "god" money, it has been a delicate subject to wrestle with.

First of all, our church agrees that casino-type gambling is improper and unnecessary for this community....short-term profits are not worth long-term problems! We are proud of the folks who worked diligently, even in the midst of deadly friendly fire, to prevent the casino from coming to town. Large crowds have avoided our church because of our stand for righteousness and truth, but for this we are not ashamed.

Also, we were not surprised nor disappointed in the attempts of businessmen striving to bring more economic success to the area. This is commendable behavior for any entrepreneur. Thief River Falls needs growth, and some churches have been praying earnestly for economic growth to come...because the churches need it, too!

From all the public meetings, editorials, letters to the editor and general comments we have heard, it is quite obvious the majority of consumers in this church-infested area would be opposed to a legalized gambling casino, even if President Bush were financing it! A simple community vote would have confirmed this, and prevented all the twisted racial slurs from contaminating the town's image. The Newfolden school issue proved this when they allowed the people's majority voice to be heard—remember all the smiling politicians?

All in all, I think the whole episode, even though financially painful for some, was a good learning experience for Thief River Falls. Some "righteous judges" spoke their convictions (and that is O.K., according to the Word!) and we believe, in the long run, the community will see the truth come to pass of 1 Timothy 4:8 which states: "...godliness is profitable unto all things...."

Christianly yours,
Pastor Michael L. Forsberg

To The Editor:

On Wednesday morning, January 1, we had to take my father to the emergency room of Northwest Medical Center. I called the desk at 6 a.m. and said we would be there in about 20 minutes.

We got there at 6:30 a.m. It took about 15 minutes to get checked in (papers signed, blood pressure and temperature taken). The emergency room nurse put in a call at 15 minutes before 7 a.m. for the doctor who was on call until 8 a.m. He couldn't be found! He didn't answer his page, his beeper, house phone....he just could not be located.

What kind of doctors are being hired that they can't be found while they are on call? Lately it seems doctors just don't care.

We want to thank the nurses in the E.R. and Doctor Rittenour for coming to help us out. They were great! It turned out my father had a small stroke and pneumonia.

It's no wonder people by-pass Thief River Falls and go to Grand Forks. It scares a person knowing you don't get immediate treatment (other than what the nurses can do) in the emergency room. I wander why it's called that. For us it was a waiting room.

It seems if a person is on Medicare the doctors just don't have time. If it wasn't for our elders, just where would we be?

Sincerely,
Bev A. Swanson

To The Editor:

I am writing especially to young folks. God's commandment is to love your neighbors. I love young folks. I think the most beautiful sight I see is a group of young people.

This is why I write, hoping I could help prevent even one from smoking. Too many don't stop to think that smoking is a sin. It will hurt your lungs in time, it costs a lot of money and it is a fire hazard. I have seen many holes burned in clothing and car cushions and fires that destroyed meadows and buildings worth thousands of dollars.

I have met many who said they wish they had not started to smoke. Young people, when you are offered a cigarette say "no, thanks." Then you will be thankful because you did not smoke. You can use the money you save to buy a gift that you are proud of for your boy friend or girl friend.

Let's tell our best not to smoke—it's a sin and a shame.

Sincerely,
Olaf Stolaas

"Yesterday was the day the ground hog or woodchuck, so the tradition says, comes out of his hole for the first time during the winter and looks the weather over. If he can see his shadow he retires expecting six weeks cold weather, but if the day is cloudy, the weather will be mild. If our ground hogs are thifty and got up before noon yesterday, he undoubtedly saw his shadow, but if he was slow about coming out, he did not, as the afternoon was cloudy."

Sno-Fest royalty at Goodridge high school was crowned Friday afternoon in ceremonies in the school gymnasium. Freshmen Bryce Marquie and Tabitha Downs were crowned king and queen on the basis of their class' performance in a number of point-producing participation and competition categories. Pictured in the honor court (left to right) are seventh graders Crystelle Johnsrud and Jered Sunsdahl; juniors Michelle Coen and Wyatt Anderson; Queen Tabitha and 1991 queen Stacie Crowell; King Bryce and 1991 king Lyle Miller; seniors Jennifer Kotrba and Shane Vettleson; sophomores Jennifer Norby and Jered Haugen; and eighth graders Sheri Liedberg and Jerry Sturre.

The percentage of delinquent real estate taxes is at the smallest it has been in the past three years. As of December 31 only 3.46 per cent of the taxes due are delinquent. That compares to 4.42 per cent in 1990, 5.40 per cent in 1989, and 5.62 per cent in 1988, according to figures recorded by the County's Treasurer Vickie Bjorgaard.

The total amount of taxes assessed for 1991 was $5,693,427.46, which includes special assessments. Of the total, only $197,193.96 was considered delinquent as of December 31, 1991, for the entire county. Bjorgaard said the total levy was probably a little lower in most townships. That could have been one factor why tax delinquencies were down this year.

Of the 25 townships and three cities in the county, the highest percentage of tax delinquency was recorded in the city of Goodridge. According to the County Auditor Ken Olson, the delinquencies might reflect disagreements over special assessments. The percentage of delinquent taxes recorded for the city was set at 16.40 per cent. The second highest percentage of tax delinquency (14.24 percent) was recorded in Highlanding township. The third highest percentage of tax delinquency was recorded in Star township (12.63 per cent).

The lowest rate of tax delinquency was recorded in Numedal township, which recorded absolutely no tax delinquencies, which according to the county treasurer is extremely unique. Black River township recorded the second lowest at .52 per cent. The third lowest of .72 per cent was recorded in Mayfield township. The fourth lowest of .96 per cent was recorded in Wyandotte township.

Of the three cities in the county, the highest rate of tax delinquency was recorded in Goodridge, as mentioned earlier. Despite the fact that it had the highest rate of tax delinquency, the 16.40 per cent recorded was a decrease from the previous year from which a 20.18 per cent tax delinquency was recorded. Similarly, declines in the rate of tax delinquency were recorded in St. Hilaire, which dropped from 5.65 to 5.19, and Thief River Falls, which dropped from 4.12 to 3.19.

Bjorgaard said real estate taxes for 1991 are still payable. After the 30th penalties and interest begin to accumulate.

LHS German students prepare for Germany

Nine students from the German language program at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls are preparing for a two-week trip to Germany shortly after school is dismissed for summer vacation this year.

German instructor Paivi Young will lead the tour group in her fourth study trip to Germany. She will be assisted in her chaperone duties by Mrs. Sharon Iverson, an elementary school teacher in the Thief River Falls public schools.

Making the trip will be Ben Sjoberg, son of Dick and Holly Sjoberg; Melanie Fayette, daughter of Terry and Laurie Fayette; April Klinker, daughter of Larry and Kathy Klinker; Steven Anderson, son of Bob and Jan Anderson; Jami Dehnert, daughter of Doug and Polly Dehnert; Brad Cota, son of Les and Donna Cota; Anita Hamm, daughter of Forrest and Margaret Hamm; Sally Hagen, daughter of Lynn Hagen; and Jane Bentson, daughter of Scott and Linda Bentson.

In addition to planning and study the students have been involved in fund-raising. So far they have sponsored two dances, sold German candy, conducted two bake sales, sold Advent calendars prior to Christmas, operated concessions for school events and served hamburgers at the American Legion club rooms for two Saturdays.

The group has also approached a number of local organizations with

Washington Close Up program attracts five students from Lincoln

Two seniors and three juniors at Lincoln high school, accompanied by Lincoln instructor Lynn Dyer, will participate February 16-22 in the Washington Close-Up program in Washington, DC.

Making the trip with Dyer will be seniors Stephanie Vigen and Erica Alberg and juniors Jeny Stumpf, Darla Ayers and Lisa Delap. Program application was made available to all Lincoln students this year after being restricted to Dyer's business law class last year. Seven students applied to participate and two later dropped out due to scheduling conflicts.

For some time the group has been involved with fund-raisers to assist in paying part of the estimated cost of $5,150—or $1,030 per student. Projects have included a Christmas cookie bake sale (the group baked 518 dozen cookies!), pancake breakfast, concession stand operation and business directory calendar sale. Funds collected to date are about $4,000.

Donations totaling $2,450 have been received from the St. Hilaire Lions club, American Legion Post 117, Eagles Aerie 2368, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2793 and the Thief River Falls Lioness club. Photos of donors and Close Up participants are published in the Second Section of today's Times. (Reference to March for program participation in the photo captions is in error since the dates have been moved up to February as noted above.)

Since 1971 more than 300,000 high school students and teachers from all 50 states, U.S. territories and dozens of foreign countries have taken a close look at U.S. government through Close Up programs. Close Up Foundation is a non-profit, non-partisan educational organization with no affiliation with any branch of government, political party or interest group.

An introduction to the program informs potential participants that "As a young American today, you have an important role to play in the world you'll inherit tomorrow. Throughout the week you will see again and again that each individual can make a real difference. And although your week will come to an end, your lifelong participation in the U.S. political process is only beginning."

Dyer said that last year's seven participants from Lincoln were impressed with the program and what it provided. One said he learned more in a week of being in the Washington area than he had learned about our government in all the rest of his school years.

In addition to meeting public political figures and visiting places of national interest, students have the opportunity to meet other stu-

Trinity youth benefit from mile of pennies

Donation of more than 86,000 pennies during the past year has given the Junior and Senior Luther Leagues operational funds and shown support of the congregation for the youth.

Klem Gigstad, a member of the congregation, suggested the project after reading about a similar one. He drilled holes in a number of wood blocks to serve as a collection station in the church narthex. With a row of 16 pennies equaling one foot of length, it takes 84,480 pennies to make a row a mile long.

"With youth programming already on budget here at Trinity," stated Rev. Ron Calvert, associate pastor, "it seemed only appropriate to ask the congregation to 'go the extra mile' to help with this project. In today's economy a penny doesn't seem like a lot, but when you put them side by side, up to a mile, a little can go a long way."

Mock trial team wins first trial

Representing the prosecution in the first mock trial of the season, Lincoln high school's mock trial team defeated Cass Lake high school by a score of 197 to 172 at Warren Monday morning.

Judges for the trial were Judge Larry O. Jorgenson and attorney Arthur Drenckhahn, both of Warren. The trial was held in the old courtroom of the Marshall county courthouse.

Next action for the mock trial team will be Thursday, February 13, at Bemidji. The team will present the case for the prosecution at 9 a.m. with Wadena representing the defendant, then switch to the defense at 12:30 p.m. when the prosecution will be represented by the team from Gary.

"The students all performed very well," stated coach Cal Lindberg following the trial at Warren Monday. "One judge tended to score a little higher than the other, but the comparative point difference was quite similar."

Judges in the mock trial score individual participants in a number of areas on a scale of 0 to 10 (poor to excellent). One judge gave the Thief River Falls team a perfect performance score of 10 and the other awarded a 9 for team performance—the only score higher than an 8 that he awarded throughout the trial.

Participating for the Thief River Falls team were Karmen Ortloff, Gayle Rhineberger, Beth Natvik, Kym Peters, Joel Johnson and Linnea Dimich.

state patrol, at 2:15 a.m. they received a report of an accident seven miles north of junction Highway 2 near Wilton on Highway 89. According to the report, Hallett was thrown from his vehicle when it left the road and rolled. A passenger, Donna Palmer, 25, Minneapolis, sustained scratches and bruises. Hallett died upon arrival at North Country hospital in Bemidji. Neither were wearing seat belts at the time of the accident. Dense fog and slippery roads may have contributed to the accident.

Safe sledding suggested

When considering sledding or tobogganing as winter fun, also consider the need to keep yourself and your equipment safe and in good condition, recommends the Minnesota Safety council.

Tips suggested by the council include:

- Make repairs on any broken equipment. Fix sharp edges, cracks and split wood.
- Sled on spacious, gently sloping hills. Avoid steep hills and those located near roadways.
- Avoid slopes with trees, holes and other obstructions that might cause injury.
- Don't sled on or around frozen waters that may be unstable.
- Dress appropriately and take breaks when you begin to feel cold and tired.

In memory of Emil who passed away one year ago February 1, 1991.

If I could have one lifetime wish,
One dream that would come true,
I would pray to God with all my heart,
For yesterday and you.
A million prayers can't bring you back,
I know because I've tried.
And neither can a million tears,
I know, because I've cried.
But I'll trust in God in his loving way,
To bring us together again some day.
I miss you—Herren.

Lincoln German language students prepare for study tour to Germany invitations for financial assistance. "Any organization, whether contacted previously or not and which would be interested in donating toward the study trip, is invited to contact me," Mrs. Young said. "I can be contacted through Lincoln or at home at 681-3386."

According to the itinerary for the tour which is called "Ganz Deutschland (which means 'the entire Germany')," the group will leave the United States on a Thursday, arrive in Frankfurt, Germany on a Friday and stay there overnight.

Then it is on to Berlin where a tour guide will teach students about the formerly divided city and latest changes and developments. The afternoon is free for individual activities. Sunday will also be spent in Berlin and Monday the group will cruise along the Autobahn through the former German Democratic Republic and check in at a youth hostel, visit a disco and stay overnight in the Leipzig area.

Tuesday the students will meet their local guide, tour the area and stay overnight, moving to Numberg and Rothenburg in Bavaria on Wednesday. Thursday they will participate in a walking rallye to see the major sights and spend the night in Munchen, where they will also be located on Friday.

Saturday they travel into the Bavarian Alps and visit the village of Oberammergau where passion plays are staged every 10 years and they can watch world-renowned wood carvers at work. They will spend the night in Munich.

Sunday they will journey to Heidelberg to tour the university, take another walking rallye and attend a farewell dinner in the Heidelberg area. Monday they will begin a two or three-day family stay—possibly in Diessen—before transfer to Frankfurt airport for the return trip.

A number of requirements for the participating students has been prepared in order for them to receive one-fourth school credit which will appear on their transcripts.

Included is the keeping of a journal which will be due on the flight home. It is to be kept three days a week at a minimum and consist of three hand-written pages a day in English or German. It is to be written first-person in a casual style and is to include full names, opinions and impression, feelings and emotions, humor and happenings.

A small, pocket vocabulary notebook is to be carried at all times and new words and expressions entered as seen or heard. This is also due on the return flight.

A cultural differences notebook is to be used to record observations of things that are different or are done differently than at home.

Students are also to take or purchase slides and obtain any available printed materials on the place they are visiting, prepare a handout of background information, including vocabulary, and present the slides and observations to other German language students upon return.

Choice is also given for the students to be one of the following: Official photographer, trip historian, sound person, art or architecture historian or reporter on consumer goods, politics, food, fashion, housing and daily life, school life, television, sports or music. A brief outline is provided to show the duties of each selection.

"The students are beginning to get more excited about the trip as it gets closer and fund raising is intensified," Mrs. Young said.

"Two of the special features of this trip are the tour pals and walking rallyes. There will be two German students to serve as 'tour pals' and travel along with the group to serve as valuable informants. The walking rallyes give students a chance to explore a city on their own, compete for prizes and have fun at the same time."

Travel arrangements are being made through Bergan Travel and cost per person is expected to be in the $1,700 to $1,800 range. Because the student numbers are small, the Lincoln group will be combined with another school group to utilize bus services and hold costs down.

dents of diverse cultures and interests and exchange ideas and opinions. This exposure and interaction is considered one of the greatest benefits of the experience.

Activities include a keynote seminar to open the week, tour of the city's neighborhoods and landmarks, judiciary and media seminars and briefings, walking workshops on Capitol Hill, seminars with members of Congress, student's choice seminars on selected topics, international study and seminar, defense briefing and seminar, an evening at the theatre, visits to Arlington National Cemetery, the Smithsonian Institution or Georgetown and many others.

Rules of the program are simple but direct and violation may result in immediate dismissal from the program, in which case school and parents are notified and the student is returned home immediately, at his or her own expense, with no refund of any payments.

The rules are:

(1) At no time are male students permitted to visit in female students' rooms or female students permitted to visit in male students' rooms:

(2) Possession and/or use of alcoholic beverages or drugs, other than those medicines prescribed by a doctor, are absolutely forbidden.

(3) Theft, abuse or defacement of any property or facility is strictly prohibited.

(4) Students are to follow the scheduled daily activities as directed and cooperate fully with Close Up staff.

Participating students prepare in advance by studying a 200-page "Current Issues" study guide and a "Washington Notebook" publication which has pertinent information and study topics. They are also required to participate actively in the educational program while in Washington.

"The students have to be up early and read the papers to be up to date on current happenings," Dyer said. "Close Up representatives constantly quiz the students and have been known to stop a bus enroute to activities if they do not receive an informed response to questions."

Several mail boxes damaged

So far, law enforcement officials in Pennington county have received reports of as many as 18 damaged mailboxes over the weekend.

A law enforcement center spokesperson in Thief River Falls said they received between 14 and 15 reports from North and Silverton townships over the weekend. On Monday they received at least four more reports. All of the damage appears to be related and caused by a tool or bat. Damage is estimated at $40 to $50 per mailbox.

Law enforcement officials are looking for information on the incidents.

Dear Readers,

Men, having been taught to suppress emotion, frequently find it more difficult than women to handle grief. Because they tend to keep their grief inside, they need a lot of support and understanding from family members. Silence is hard to read, but it does not mean a lack of love or that they are not feeling a great sense of loss. The day will come when they are ready to talk. Wait for that time and then be there to listen.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home

Larry Belmont

Impressions . . .

by Beth Johnson

Well, it's official—we are going to be having another (at least) six weeks of Winter. Sunday, the Ground Hog saw it's shadow. When the Ground Hog sees it's shadow, six more weeks of Winter are forecast to follow.

This Winter has been relatively amazing. Six more weeks of this milk kind of Winter will not be too hard to endure. So far this Winter we have had a minimal number of days in the frigid, below zero range of temperatures. And, when those days of below zero have occurred, they have not lasted for weeks. Instead, this Winter, we have had relatively mild temperatures. Only in northern Minnesota have I heard the weather men announce that we are having warm days when the temperature is going to be about 20 degrees!!!

In spite of the Ground Hog's prediction of six more weeks of Winter, I think that all around us are the first signs of Spring.

Earlier this Winter I was bemoaning the fact that few birds were around. In other, somewhat warmer places in which I have lived, Winter was the time when the birds flocked to the feeders. Here, the birds simply leave for a while. This week I have been once again listening to the birds. Spring can't be too far away.

The past few days have produced the disease of Spring fever in some of us. I know I am beginning to feel like being out-of-doors. We moved into the home in which we are now living during the only blizzard of the Winter—last Halloween. Since then, snow has been on the ground. I'm a gardener. I am anxious to see what kind of gardens I can create in this bit of earth placed into my care. The hint of Spring in the air simply fills my head with ideas of gorgeous summertime flowers. The hint of Spring lets me forget that those gorgeous summertime flowers might need a bit of work from me!!!

The signs of Spring are also in my mailbox these days. The seed catalogues have begun to appear in my mail. These catalogues simply add fuel to the brainstorms of garden ideas I'm contemplating. But, as long as there is a hint of Spring in the air, there might as well be the seed catalogues to dream and plan with for the coming summer.

Signs of Spring are also being made evident by my cat. The cat who resides in our house and hearts is not as well loved these days. Our cat of 16 years is going through one of her Spring shedding seasons. Our cat is all black. Black hair seems to be everywhere. But, as her shedding is simply another sign of Spring, I guess we can endure for a while!

Have you looked closely at any of the trees or bushes around you? If you have, you will see more signs of Spring. The buds on the bushes are beginning to appear. What just a few weeks ago looked like a stick, now has a bit of life flowing in it. Before we know it, the beginning leaves of Spring will appear.

But enough talk of impending Spring. The Ground Hog tells us that we still must endure more Winter. We in northern Minnesota know that that will be certainly true for us—even if the Winter remains mild.

So, what do we do to endure the rest of this season called Winter? We can't loathe it as it is a part of where we live. We can accept it and wonder at its variables. We have seen a blizzard and wind and cold and sun and fog and ice this season. We will most likely see more of all of these. We can't simply endure Winter. We do need to live with it and by living with it, maybe learn to simply enjoy the extremes of weather it can produce.

For, after yet another Winter is past, Spring with all of its beauty will once again appear. Only because of the extremes of Winter can we so wonderfully appreciate the long-awaited beauty of Spring. For both of these seasons I am grateful.

YOUR TIMES

by Sen. Roger Moe

Party precinct caucuses are just around the corner, and at a time when voter frustration is high, it is a perfect opportunity for those who haven't been active in the political process to get involved.

All too often we hear that special interests have taken over the process. It is easy for us to diminish our individual importance, but the recent gubernatorial election in Louisiana, with its 80 per cent voter turnout—the highest ever in the nation—shows clearly that we can make a difference. After all, we, as individuals, have our own special interests—whether it's better education for our children, property tax relief or access to affordable health care. And, as the candidates gear up for the presidential elections, it's a wonderful opportunity to let them know just what you think.

We can be proud that Minnesota voter turnout—65 per cent in 1990—has always been among the highest in the country. But that still means that one-third of our citizens didn't exercise their right to choose the elected officials who will guide the direction of the state and the nation.

Minnesota's caucus system is one which encourages citizens to become involved and voice their opinions, not only about candidates, but also about vital national and local issues. As we've watched the incredible growth of democracy around the world this last year, we can be proud that we have the right to voice our opinions in free and open elections. In these tough economic times, it's more important than ever that people get involved, and use their constitutional right to vote.

Speaking Of . . .

. . . Just Imagine It!

I recently read a newspaper article about the new look that fashion designers have decreed for this spring—the "Bra Suit." I read the article twice to make sure my eyes, old as they are, were not deceiving me, and then I got the giggles.

The reason I couldn't contain my mirth was because I envisioned some of the smart young business and professional women trying out this new fashion statement at their offices and other places of business here in Thief River Falls.

That vision was hilarious enough, but then I envisioned some of the smart business and professional women about town who are, perhaps, not so young and not so trim, like-me, but who might be inclined to dress in such an outfit, unlike me. More giggles!

Then the biggest giggles of all come as I envisioned the response these fashionable women would get from their prim and proper co-workers, straitlaced, sedate bosses and others, some of whom might not be so fashion-conscious.

Perhaps I should explain what this "Bra Suit" looks like. Evidently, according to the article, it is a nice suit with neatly tailored jacket, worn with longer skirt or some type of pants (sounds good so far), but... a matching bra ... and the jacket is worn open!

Now this might be all right if the bra didn't look like what it was and looked like a cute halter or tube top, but the picture that ran with the article didn't show a bra that didn't look like a bra. That bra in the picture looked just like what it was, no mistake about it, underwires, straps, seams and all.

Now, envision this fancy new suit worn by a secretary in the next office you go into, like your accountant's office when you go there to have your taxes done or the secretary in your attorney's office when you go there to talk over your legal problems, the tellers in the bank, your real estate agent or her secretary, your life insurance agent or her secretary, the salesgirl at the five and dime, the check-out girl at the market, or ... whoever. Just imagine it!

What would your reaction be? Would you pretend you didn't see anything strange about her appearance and take a seat and try to avoid staring? Would you decide she had forgotten her blouse that day and feel embarrassed for her? Would you turn red, turn on your heel and leave? Would you compliment her on the cute outfit? Would you think she had lost her mind?

Come to think of it, if the fashion catches on, we could see new styles in uniforms, too, like nurses' uniforms, waitresses, law enforcement women, drug store clerks, fast food workers, and any other profession where a uniform is worn. Just imagine it, "Bra Uniforms"!

Now, you may have thought this couldn't get worse, but it is going to. Just imagine sitting in that office where the woman might be wearing this new fashion (after you have gotten over your own shock) and watching the faces of the people who come into the office after you. Are you giggling yet?

First of all, imagine a regular person, male or female, just casually walking up to the desk where the secretary or receptionist wearing this outfit is seated. Imagine their surprise, the look on their face!

Now envision an older gentleman, perhaps a little old man, or an older lady, maybe a little old lady, a person who is more conservative and conventional, walking slowly up to the desk and then visualize their expression as they catch a glimpse of "The Bra Suit."

And that is enough imagining for now. The visions can boggle the mind—rock star look-alikes in every office, on every street corner!

After all, this new fashion is really just a joke ... isn't it? No one will actually wear it ... will they?

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Are you as tired as I am over the lack of leadership by both parties and the White House? Are you at wits' end over the news media's fascination with making public the private lives of candidates (whether true or not) when space and time should be devoted to issues? Do you feel your intelligence insulted knowing the upcoming every-four-year-scenario of prospective candidates posturing for the Presidency will result not in a blueprint for the future, but a lot of ambiguous non-answers?

Have you ever asked yourself why our leaders cannot conceive of creating job security for our citizens by conversion of a military economy to one of rebuilding the country through programs such as the WPA and the CCC? It seems to me our political leadership in general has become stagnant, which explains our country's cancer.

Perhaps a total overhaul of the system is in order by REFERENDUM BY THE VOTERS. Wouldn't a more 'true' democracy be a method whereby the people would vote on ALL issues? No more special interest groups, PAC money or lobbyists to interfere. We have in place a branch of the government called the General Accounting Office. The GAO's only role has been to monitor and research issues and present their UNBIASED conclusions (recommendations rarely voted on by our reps).

Monthly, or weekly if need be, the GAO or similar body, could present to us, the viewers and readers and voters, those issues needing to be voted on through the television medium. Through computers and electronics, the process could be made simple. To vote in an educated manner on issues, one could not vote without first having viewed the GAO (or similar body) reports. Voting would be based not on opinion but fact.

Now is the time to make changes for the future. Our leadership has continued to prove its incompetence. Instead of allowing the politicians to feed at the trough, now is the time to put them out to pasture. Radical? Possibly. Democratic? You Bet!!!

Sincerely,
-s-Connie Omdahl

Local woman tracked to AZ

An 18-year-old local woman is in custody after she was tracked to Washington and then Arizona through a series of charge account charges.

Janel Pahlen, 18, Thief River Falls, was wanted in Thief River Falls in connection with a theft and forgery. She allegedly took some check blanks, money and a VISA charge card from a local woman while renting an apartment from her.

Police in Thief River Falls say Pahlen was tracked through the stolen VISA card to the state of Washington where she allegedly made a number of charges. But police finally caught up with Pahlen in Phoenix, AZ, where she was being held on an attempted theft charge, which was dismissed, and a forgery charge, which as reduced to misdemeanor forgery.

Pahlen has been returned to Thief River Falls where she faces charges of check forgery, a felony. She is also wanted on warrants from St. Louis county.

Fishermen outnumbered the fish caught by more than 400 to 1 Sunday afternoon on the Red Lake river near the Eighth street bridge in Thief River Falls. The annual Our Lady of Lourdes council Knights of Columbus fishing derby attracted an estimated 450 anglers who basked in 44-degree temperatures while trying to coax wary fish to take their bait. The winning (and only) entry was a four-ounce mud puppy caught by Brad Poole of Thief River Falls.

INSURANCE Update

by Carol Nelson

Even in its broadest form, a homeowners policy has certain limits. Because it covers personal property only up to specified limits, a homeowners policy may have to be supplemented with personal articles coverage issued separately or as an endorsement to a homeowners policy, a personal articles floater will cover listed items up to designated amounts-regardless of where the loss occurs. By carrying this type of coverage, a homeowner can adequately insure such items as expensive jewelry and audio/visual equipment more fully than with homeowners policy alone.

Working family tax credit

Working parents should be aware that a new "Working Family Tax Credit" will be on Minnesota's 1992 state income tax forms, according to Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls.

For families earning up to about $22,000, the new credit can reduce state income taxes by $120 to $200, Rep. Sparby said. The new credit is linked with the "Earned Income Credit" on the federal income tax forms, which can be worth up to $2,000 to families with more than one child.

Rep. Sparby noted that a family can get the full amount of the credit even if it exceeds the taxes the family owes. Grandparents can also claim the credit if the child lives in their household.

Full eligibility rules and the necessary instructions and forms will be included in the packet of income tax forms taxpayers will receive in early January, he said. Forms are also available at libraries, post offices and banks and may be ordered from the State Revenue Department by calling 612-296-3781 or the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program at 612-297-3727.

"The credit was established by the 1991 Legislature with the goal of putting $10 million back in the pockets of people struggling to raise families while working in low-wage jobs, a situation that is increasingly common in rural Minnesota," Rep. Sparby explained. "This is the reverse of the trickle-down theory. Instead of giving a break to the wealthy in the vague hope they will invest in something, we're putting cash in the hands of parents who will spend it on groceries or new shoes for their kids," he said.

A federal version of the credit has been available for 15 years, Rep. Sparby noted, but research indicates less than a quarter of eligible taxpayers actually file for it—probably because many of them are unaware of it.

Sparby backs override of credit veto

Future of the Homestead Credit is in limbo after the Minnesota House of Representatives failed to override a veto blocking funding for the program, State Rep. Wally Sparby said this week.

The House voted 87-45 to override, with all "no" votes cast by Republicans. An override requires a two-thirds majority, or 90 of 134 votes in the House. Rep. Sparby voted to override the veto.

Gov. Carlson used his line-item veto—which enables him to cancel spending items within a bill—to block spending from the Local Government Trust Fund for the Homestead Credit and two smaller local aid programs after 1993, Rep. Sparby said. This trust fund is financed by 1.5 cents of the state sales tax and the half-cent "local option" sales tax added last summer. The tax will continue to be collected.

Renters credits and property tax refunds are unaffected; these are paid out as income tax credits.

Rep. Sparby said the Legislature created the trust fund to provide a dedicated source of money for property tax relief that wouldn't be subject to the biennial struggle over the state budget.

"This veto didn't provoke much of an outcry last spring because there wasn't any immediate effect on people's property tax bills," Rep. Sparby said. "The governor was careful to delay the effective date to 1993. Fortunately, that gives us time to act in the 1992 session."

Rep Sparby said the Legislature will now look for other ways to maintain funding for the Homestead Credit.

Honor society activated at Lincoln high

With Mrs. Linda Goulet as advisor, an active chapter of the National Honor Society will soon be functioning at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls. Eligible students will receive invitations to apply for membership in late February or early March.

To be eligible for membership consideration, students must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.5 per cent. Additionally, potential members must meet high standards of leadership, service and character.

Leadership evaluation is based on the student's participation in two or more community or school activities or election to an office. To meet service requirements, the student must have been active in three or more service projects in the school and community.

Character is measured in terms of integrity, behavior, ethics and cooperation with both students and faculty.

The National Honor Society ranks as one of the oldest and most prestigious national organizations for high school students. Chapters exist in three-fourths of the nation's high schools. Thousands of dollars in scholarships have been awarded to senior members since 1945 by the sponsoring organization, the National Association of High School Principals.

Otters hold off Prowlers 75-70

If there is such a thing as a moral victory, Thief River Falls earned one Friday when the underdog Prowlers pushed Fergus Falls to the very end before surrendering a 75-70 boys high school basketball decision to the visiting Otters.

The struggling Prowlers have won just twice in 14 starts this winter, and three weeks earlier they were blown off the court in Fergus Falls, 67-39.

"The kids played well tonight," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke, whose team was coming off a disappointing performance in a 61-33 loss at Roseau Tuesday. "That just shows what hard work will do. We've played well at times before, but this was one of our better games."

Thief River Falls made Fergus Falls work for this one. Although the Otters enjoyed a 15-point lead midway through the third quarter and had a 14-point cushion with just 1:57 remaining, they weren't assured of winning until Mark Heidelberger came through on both ends of a bonus free throw opportunity with nine seconds left.

"The kids didn't quit," pointed out Brekke. "There were a couple of times where they could have thrown in the towel, but they kept battling back."

It was a game of streaks in the first half. Down 8-5 midway through the first quarter, Thief River Falls went on a 9-0 two-minute run to go up 14-8 on a three-point basket by Tony Greene.

But that was just the first of several momentum swings. Fergus Falls came right back with its own 9-0 surge to go back on top 17-14; the Prowlers scored the next six points to go ahead 20-17; then the Otters netted eight straight for a 25-20 lead on a short jumper by Jim Conklin with 4:23 left in the first half.

Fergus Falls never did trail again. A short range basket by John Gunstad and a long jumper by Nathan Egge pulled Thief River Falls within 25-24 with 3:29 remaining. Two free throws by Heidelberger made it 27-24, and with Tom Upham and John Wallberg both on the bench with three fouls apiece, Brekke decided to finish the half by working the clock.

However, two turnovers in the final minute led to fast break baskets for Ryan Retzlaff and Kevin Pearson as the Otters opened up a 31-24 spread.

"We had two of our best players on the bench, we were struggling with our shooting at that point (a 2-for-11 Thief River Falls run) and they were rolling," explained Brekke, "so we decided to slow it down at the end of the half. We had a chance to be in the ball game at halftime. It didn't work out exactly like we wanted, but we were still in the game."

It didn't look like the Prowlers were going to be able to maintain their outstanding first half effort when Fergus Falls started the second half with a 12-2 scoring spurt that included back-to-back three-point baskets by Heidelberger and Pearson to open up a 43-28 lead.

Thief River Falls was still looking at a 14-point, 52-38 deficit when Heidelberg hit another three-pointer with 1:24 left in the third quarter, but 10 of the next 12 points came from the Prowlers as they sliced the gap to 54-48 following a three-point basket by Upham with 6:37 to play.

Fergus Falls promptly doubled the six-point lead to 12 when Fritz Skinner knocked down a three-pointer on an in-bounds play and Pearson followed a Thief River Falls turnover with an old-fashion three-point play for a 60-48 difference with 5:52 showing.

The Otters appeared to have the game well in hand with a 14-point, 71-57 spread following a pair of Retzlaff free throws with 1:57 to play, but the Prowlers' Darin Wald came up with a free throw, a three-point basket and a short jumper in a 15-second flurry that was followed by a Kelly Swanson fast break lay-up and a John Wallberg rebound bucket to make it a suddenly-interesting 71-67 with 22 seconds still showing.

Pearson momentarily interrupted the Thief River Falls comeback by making two free throws on a 1-and-1 opportunity with 19 seconds to play, only to have Wald bank in a three-pointer with 14 seconds left in a now-close 73-70 contest.

However, Heidelberger came through in the bonus situation at the end to finally put a stop to what had been a 30-point Thief River Falls fourth quarter rally.

Pearson, the 6-5 multi-sport standout, finished with a game-high 26 points, while Retzlaff, an impressive-looking 6-4 sophomore netted 18 and Heidelberger, a 5-10 senior, had 14. Upham, a 6-0 senior forward, shook off foul trouble to lead the Prowlers with 22 points and 9 rebounds, while Wald, a 5-11 senior guard, hit the 20-point mark with his late-game outburst.

Both teams shot 47 percent from the field – the Prowlers hitting 27 of 57 and the Otters connecting on 25 of 53. Thief River Falls had seven three-point baskets; Fergus Falls wound up with six.

The difference on the scoreboard came at the free throw line, where the Otters were 19-for-22, including a 13-for-14 second half, and the Prowlers were 9-for-11.

Thief River Falls, out-rebounded by 30-some in their first meeting with Fergus Falls, beat the taller Otters on the boards this time 28-25. "That was the big difference in the game right there," said Brekke, pointing to the rebounding figures.

The Prowlers topped the turnover charts 16-12.

Thief River Falls will have another North Sub-Section 8AA assignment this week when they head to Bemidji Friday for a 7:30 p.m. game.

Spuds beat Prowlers 5-1

A month away from post-season play, Moorhead has firmly established itself as the team to beat in Section 8 high school hockey. The Spuds, ranked No. 5 in the latest Associated Press state poll, went to 14-2 Saturday with a convincing 5-1 win over Thief River Falls in front of a large Sports Arena crowd.

The win made amends for the only Moorhead loss in Section 8 play this winter – a 4-2 home ice setback Jan. 4 when the Spuds out-shot the Prowlers 50-22 but were stymied by Thief River Falls goalie Barry Dowers.

This time the shot chart wasn't so one-sided, although Dowers still finished with 37 saves. Moorhead goalie Troy Brekke had 25.

"I know it might sound crazy because we won the first one and lost the second one, but I actually thought we played better this time than we did down there," said Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo. "I think the shots point that out. I feel bad that we lost, of course, but I don't feel bad about our performance. We had some chances – we just didn't get the goals. The puck just didn't go in the net for us."

Scoring started when a slap shot from the point was tipped in by Moorhead's Steve Difiore at 7:56 of the first period as Dowers tried to contend to a mass of players in front of the net.

But Thief River Falls followed a season-long pattern of quickly answering an opponent's goal when Jeff Twomey was left alone in the slot and he put Aaron Broten's centering pass away just 40 seconds after the Moorhead goal.

Moorhead took a 2-1 lead into the first intermission when the Spuds kept banging away at the puck on a scramble in front of Dowers until Thad Stafford put it in the net at 11:23.

A power play goal just 24 seconds into the second period put Moorhead in command 3-1 as a length-of-the-ice rush set up Robert Gramer in front and he put a point-blank shot into the upper corner.

Difiore picked up his second goal of the night at 14.07 of the second period to make it 4-1. Dowers made the first save on the play, but then got caught up in traffic and Difiore scored on the rebound.

Josh Arnold completed the scoring at 12:10 of the third period when Dowers was left to fend for himself. The Spuds got three shots at the Thief River Falls net, with the final one, by Arnold, trickling across the goal line.

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 10-6-2, and left them winless in their last three starts – a 4-1 loss at Roseau and a 4-4 overtime tie with East Grand Forks preceding the setback at the hands of Moorhead.

It's a slump, of sorts, but Chiodo isn't about to panic. "I think people

High school wrestling...

TRF rally tops EGF 37-30

A string of seven straight wins in the middle weights carried Thief River Falls past East Grand Forks 37-30 in a Saturday afternoon high school wrestling match-up in the cozy confines of the new Lincoln High School gym.

The Green Wave opened with wins at 103, 112 and 119 pounds for a 15-0 head start, but the Prowlers then put together a string of wins by sophomore John Parish at 125, sophomore Rob Bakken at 130, senior Joel David at 135, freshman Steve Burslie at 140, freshman John Davis at 145 and junior Lee Nieland at 152 to take an insurmountable 31-15 lead.

It became 31-17 when East Grand Forks surrendered a forfeit at 160. The Green Wave then finished the way they started, with three wins, including a heavyweight forfeit, to make the final score look close.

"Our middle weights wrestled real well," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach John Anderson.

Those mid-weight wins meant Anderson didn't have to make final-minute alterations to his line-up at 160, 171 and 189, where senior Matt Kaushagen, 14-3 for the year, was the key.

"It couldn't have gone any better," explained Anderson, who said if the Prowlers would have trailed after the 152-pound match, the juggling would have started.

But Nieland made it academic when he snapped a 9-9 tie with a 4:21 pin of Brent Hanson to clinch the match.

Top match-up of the day saw Joel Davis go to 18-0 for the year with a come-from-behind 9-6 victory over 19-1 East Grand Forks sophomore Gabe Valtrierra. Davis spotted Valtrierra an early 4-1 lead and still trailed 4-3 through two periods before starting the third with a quick take down and nearfall for a 7-4 lead. Valtrierra came back with a reversal to make it 7-6, but Davis got those points back on a reversal of his own with 30 seconds left to complete the scoring.

Beaten by the Grand Forks Central junior varsity 34-31 Thursday, Thief River Falls is now 8-9 in dual meet competition. The Prowlers will be in Oklee Tuesday for a 5 p.m. quadrangular that will include host Red Lake County Central, Warren and Crookston.

Thief River Falls will be at home Thursday in a 7 p.m. dual with Larimore, ND.

Green Wave tips MCC boys 53-46

Marshall County Central spotted East Grand Forks a 16-3 head start Friday and never really recovered as the visiting Nordics lost a 53-46 boys high school basketball game to the Green Wave.

"Our first half was really poor," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland.

Marshall County Central trailed 16-10 at the end of the first quarter and faced a 24-14 halftime deficit. The Nordics pulled within 30-26 by the end of the third quarter and were within two points midway through the fourth quarter, but could not complete the comeback.

"We didn't get the job done," said Ueland. "We blew the opportunities when they presented themselves in the second half."

Chad Filipski led a balanced East Grand Forks attack with 16 points, while Matt Hustad had 15 and Pat Whitty netted 10. Tim Olson turned in a 22-point, 11-rebound game for the Nordics, with teammate Ivan Hirst contributing 11 points and 10 rebounds.

Marshall County Central shot only 30 percent from the field on a 16-for-53 showing. East Grand Forks fared a little better with a 35 percent shooting performance – 14-for-38. The Nordics went 13-for-16 at the free throw line, where the Green Wave wound up 20-for-29, including some clutch performances down the stretch.

Mustangs post win over Ulen-Hitterdal Red Lake County Central out-scored Ulen-Hitterdal 13-5 in the fourth quarter Saturday for a 52-48 girls high school basketball win on the road.

Ulen-Hitterdal posted a 14-11 first quarter lead, maintained a 28-25 halftime edge and had a 43-39 third quarter advantage before being shut down over the final eight minutes.

"We decided to play better defense in the fourth quarter," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto.

A three-point basket by the Mustangs' Jenny Walter tied the game and two free throws apiece by Dawn Bachand and Cheryl Greenwald provided the winning margin down the stretch.

Greenwald finished with 16 points and Bachand wound up with a 14-point, 13-rebound performance, which included a 6-for-7 effort at the free throw line. Anne Seykora led Ulen-Hitterdahl with 12 points.

"I was real pleased with the win," noted Koivisto, whose team snapped a three-game losing streak and moved to 5-8 for the year. For the third straight game the Mustangs were without starter Lisa Howard, a junior who has been sidelined by illness.

Don Olson honored

Donald L. Olson, owner and manager of KTRF Radio in Thief River Falls from 1952 through 1982, will be inducted into the Minnesota Hockey Coaches Hall of Fame during the upcoming 1992 Minnesota state high school hockey tournament.

Induction ceremonies will be held Thursday, March 12.

Olson will also be recognized locally Saturday during the final home game of the 1991-92 Thief River Falls hockey season – against Alexandria.

Olson began his interest in hockey through volunteer work with the old States-Dominion League in the late 1940's. He was there when KTRF became the first radio station in the state to carry games from the state tournament beginning in 1946, doing color commentary until 1963 when he took over play-by-play duties.

The Olson hockey broadcasts continued until 1982 when health problems compelled him to pass the job along to his son, Jim.

Northland led 46-21 at halftime and maintained the spread by out-scoring Itasca 36-19 in the second half.

The win evened the Pioneers' MCCC record at 3-3.

Northland's MCCC basketball schedule normally features men's/women's doubleheaders, but Itasca is not fielding a men's basketball team this winter.

Huskies win fifth straight

Goodridge won its fifth straight game Friday, a 51-41 victory over visiting Valley North that put the Huskies at 11-3 for the year.

A huge 50-16 Goodridge rebound advantage spelled the difference as Shane Wilkens (13) and Shane Vettleson (8) both had career-high efforts on the boards, while Willie Vettleson turned in a 19-point, 9 rebound game and Donovan Quam recorded a rare triple-double with 16 points, 11 rebounds and 10 blocked shots.

Goodridge won despite losing starter Brandon Blaine to a rules violation earlier in the week.

"We had to pull together," said Goodridge coach John Rahn. "We asked each kid to do just a little more to pick up the slack, and they responded."

Goodridge started with a 13-4 first quarter lead, opened up a 28-12 halftime cushion and had a 40-21 third quarter spread.

Valley North managed to cut into the Goodridge lead in the fourth quarter, but never got closer than the 10-point final margin.

Jeremy Boman led the Raiders with 13 points.

Goodridge was 24-for-62 from the field (39 percent) and 12-for-15 at the free throw line. Valley North was just 13-for-64 from the field (20 percent) while going 12-for-16 at the line. The Huskies' big rebound night included a 19-7 spread on the offensive boards.

The Huskies were scheduled to host East Grand Forks Sacred Heart tonight (Tuesday). They will be at Fisher Saturday for a make-up game from a Jan. 11 postponement.

Saro Lokstad scored 21 points and Kim Davidson had 13 Monday as Marshall County Central got by Badger-Greenbush 53-49 in a girls high school basketball game played at Middle River.

The Nordics took an 11-5 first quarter lead and had a 25-17 halftime edge before the Bulldogs narrowed the gap to 43-38 at the end of the third quarter.

"It was close all the way," noted Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We struggled at times, but I want to give Badger-Greenbush credit. I thought they played well. They shot the ball really well."

Jessica Reese led the Bulldogs with 13 points, while Stacy Dallager and Raquel Kilen both had 11.

Marshall County Central was 22-for-59 from the field (37 percent) and 9-for-16 at the free throw

MCC Girls lose 44-43 to Roseau

A three-game Marshall County Central win streak ended Thursday in a late-reported 44-43 girls high school basketball loss to North Border Conference leader Roseau at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls.

The Nordics opened with a 15-8 first quarter lead, but the Rams cut the difference to just 23-22 at halftime and Roseau went up 36-35 at the end of the third quarter.

Trailing 44-43, Marshall County Central failed to cash in on two scoring opportunities at the end, losing the ball on a turnover with 12 seconds left, then missing the first attempt on a bonus free throw situation with three seconds remaining.

The Rams beat the Nordics 53-43 earlier this year in similar fashion, pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We started strong – just like we did up there – but we finished poor," he said. "We had chances to win it at the end, but we just didn't get the job done."

Sue Roadfeldt scored 15 points and Teresa Gotziaman had 12 for the Rams. Sara Lokstad netted 16 points and Sandi Gustafson added 12 for the Nordics.

Roseau went to 9-0 in conference play with the win, while Marshall County Central dropped to 6-4.

The Nordics were 20-for-47 from the field (43 percent) and 2-for-6 at the free throw line. The Rams went 19-for-54 from the field (35 percent) and 6-for-12 at the line. Marshall County Central finished with a 31-30 rebound edge.

Scoring

Roseau - Teresa Gotziaman 12, Julie Kindzerski 6, Charissa Lundbohm 2, Sue Falk 2, Elsa Klotz 7, Sue Roadfeldt 15.

Grygla-Gatzke 70, Roseau 68 in overtime...

Eagles surprise Rams

Mitch Bernstein scored 10 points, Jeremy Engelstad had a 16-point, 10-rebound game and Ryan Bakken scored six of his 14 points in overtime Friday as Grygla-Gatzke surprised visiting Roseau 70-68 in boys North Border Conference high school basketball.

The Eagles were beaten by the Rams 69-47 earlier in the month.

"I was really proud of the way the kids played," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern John. "It was a big win for us against one of the better teams in the area. We played well."

The Eagles had a 20-16 lead at the end of the first quarter. Roseau gained the upper hand at the start of the second quarter, but Grygla-Gatzke finished the first half strong and took a 33-30 lead into intermission. Ahead 48-47 when the third quarter ended, Roseau opened up a 60-53 cushion with 4 1/2 minutes remaining, only to be out-scored 9-2 down the stretch.

David Pankratz led Roseau with a game-high 27 points. Jason Hooser and Taylor both had 12.

Grygla-Gatzke was 28-for-71 from the field (39 percent) and 10-for-18 at the free throw line. Roseau had an edge in both departments with a 28-for-50 showing from the field (56 percent) and a 12-for-17 free throw night, but the Eagles' 4-for-13 three-point shooting was enough to make up the shot difference. The Rams, who were 5-for-11 from three-point range in their first meeting with Grygla-Gatzke, went 0-for-3 from outside the circle this time.

Grygla-Gatzke had a 31-29 rebound edge, and gave up only three offensive boards to the Rams, pointed out Johnson. Roseau topped the turnover figures 14-9.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	ot	T
Roseau	18	14	18	14	8	68
Grygla-Gatzke	20	13	14	15	8	70

Missed free throws cost Skippers

Middle River girls failed to cash in on their free throw opportunities Saturday and paid the price in losing a 55-54 high school basketball game to Argyle.

The host Skippers were 19-for-30 at the line, and missed seven of those free throws in the fourth quarter.

Argyle led 14-10 at the end of the first quarter. Middle River went ahead 28-27 at halftime and the Skippers held on to a 42-41 third quarter edge.

It remained close to the end, with the Eagles' winning basket coming on an in-bound play with 24 seconds left.

"We didn't do a very good job with the ball down the stretch," acknowledged Middle River coach Tom Neibauer.

The defense also has to improved, said Neibauer. In four of the losses for the 12-6 Middle River squad, the Skippers have surrendered 50 or more points. "We've got to get that down to the 40's if we want to beat the good teams," he said.

Krissi Super and Holly Gram scored 17 points apiece for the Skippers. DeAnn Ellefson led Argyle with 14 points, while Kari Keller netted 11.

Middle River was 18-for-43 from the field (42 percent). Argyle went 10-for-16 at the free throw line.

A North Border Conference title will be on the line Thursday when Middle River visits Roseau. The Rams are unbeaten in conference play; the Skippers have one loss. Middle River will host Lake of the Woods Saturday.

Eagles hold off Warriors 54-52

Grygla-Gatzke came up with its second straight two-point win Monday when the Eagles held off Warroad 54-52 in a boys high school basketball make-up game played in Grygla.

The Eagles, who pulled off a surprise Friday in a 70-68 overtime win against North Border Conference leader Roseau, actually made this one harder than it had to be, acknowledged Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson.

Warroad trailed by 11 with just two minutes left before storming back. A three-point shot by Troy Mattern put the Warriors in position to win or tie on a final-possession basket, but the try for the tie underway was off the mark at the buzzer.

"I don't think we were really mentally ready to play basketball," said Johnson. "We were lucky to come out with a win – but we'll take it."

Grygla-Gatzke had a 15-13 first quarter lead. Warroad went up 25-24 at halftime and kept that one-point edge at the end of the third quarter, 38-37.

Mitch Bernstein of Grygla-Gatzke and Chris Bergstrom of Warroad shared game-high scoring honors with 19 points apiece. The Eagles' Jeremy Engelstad netted 13 and teammate Ryan Bakken had 12. Mattern finished with 17 points for the Warriors.

Shooting-wise, it was almost a draw – like the scoreboard – as Grygla-Gatzke went 19-for-59 from the field (32.2 percent) and 11-for-19 at the free throw line, while Warroad was 19-for-57 from the field (33.3 percent) and 11-for-14 at the line. The Warriors finished with a slight 25-24 rebound edge. There were just 12 turnovers in the game – seven charged to the Eagles.

Grygla-Gatzke, 7-6, was scheduled to play Kittson County North tonight (Tuesday) at Lancaster. The Eagles will host Marshall County Central Friday.

DNR News

Take a Kid Fishing Material

It's designed to help introduce youths to the joys and skills of fishing. It's Take a Kid Fishing weekend, and this year it will be held Saturday and Sunday, June 6 and 7.

The 1992 event will mark the seventh consecutive year the Minnesota Legislature will waive the license requirement for any resident adult who takes a youngster 16 or under fishing that weekend.

Numerous organizations around the state have joined with the DNR each year to promote this event by holding clinics or other special activities.

The DNR Fisheries MinnAqua Program, a statewide aquatic education program, is offering a Take a Kid Fishing community planning booklet for those interested in conducting a special event. This booklet includes a variety of materials to help plan special events. It also provides event ideas so that everyone can go home a winner.

To obtain a free booklet, write the DNR Information Center, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4040, or call toll-free, 1-800-766-6000.

Skippers beat Bears

Middle River grabbed a 14-2 first quarter lead and coasted to a 60-34 Friday night boys high school basketball win over visiting Lake of the Woods.

It was 29-10 at halftime and 46-21 through three quarters.

Jarrett Wolton led the winners with 14 points, while David Blazek netted 11 and David Nelson had 10. Brody Willis was the lone Lake of the Woods scorer in double figures, finishing with 12 points.

It wasn't a particularly well-played game, admitted Middle River coach Eldon Sparby, whose team shot just 35 percent from the field (23-for-66) and turned the ball over 20 times. However, those were still better figures than the opposition as the Bears shot only 21 percent (10-for-48) and wound up with 30 turnovers.

Lake of the Woods played without four starters because of disciplinary reasons.

Middle River went 13-for-23 at the free throw line, where Lake of the Woods was 5-for-20. The Skippers out-rebounded the Bears 52-25, including a 19-5 advantage on the offensive end.

The 9-7 Skippers host Tri-County Friday.

MCC Girls lose 44-43 to Roseau

A three-game Marshall County Central win streak ended Thursday in a late-reported 44-43 girls high school basketball loss to North Border Conference leader Roseau at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls.

The Nordics opened with a 15-8 first quarter lead, but the Rams cut the difference to just 23-22 at halftime and Roseau went up 36-35 at the end of the third quarter.

Trailing 44-43, Marshall County Central failed to cash in on two scoring opportunities at the end, losing the ball on a turnover with 12 seconds left, then missing the first attempt on a bonus free throw situation with three seconds remaining.

The Rams beat the Nordics 53-43 earlier this year in similar fashion, pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We started strong – just like we did up there – but we finished poor," he said. "We had chances to win it at the end, but we just didn't get the job done."

Sue Roadfeldt scored 15 points and Teresa Gotziaman had 12 for the Rams. Sara Lokstad netted 16 points and Sandi Gustafson added 12 for the Nordics.

Roseau went to 9-0 in conference play with the win, while Marshall County Central dropped to 6-4.

The Nordics were 20-for-47 from the field (43 percent) and 2-for-6 at the free throw line. The Rams went 19-for-54 from the field (35 percent) and 6-for-12 at the line. Marshall County Central finished with a 31-30 rebound edge.

Grygla-Gatzke 70, Roseau 68 in overtime...

Eagles surprise Rams

Mitch Bernstein scored 10 points, Jeremy Engelstad had a 16-point, 10-rebound game and Ryan Bakken scored six of his 14 points in overtime Friday as Grygla-Gatzke surprised visiting Roseau 70-68 in boys North Border Conference high school basketball.

The Eagles were beaten by the Rams 69-47 earlier in the month.

"I was really proud of the way the kids played," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern John. "It was a big win for us against one of the better teams in the area. We played well."

The Eagles had a 20-16 lead at the end of the first quarter. Roseau gained the upper hand at the start of the second quarter, but Grygla-Gatzke finished the first half strong and took a 33-30 lead into intermission. Ahead 48-47 when the third quarter ended, Roseau opened up a 60-53 cushion with 4 1/2 minutes remaining, only to be out-scored 9-2 down the stretch.

After tying it at 62-62, the Eagles nearly pulled off a last-shot regulation time victory, but Bernstein's jumper hit the rim and bounced away at the buzzer.

Roseau rushed down the court for a final attempt, but the shot by Jeff Taylor, like that of Bernstein at the end of regulation time, went off the rim at the horn.

David Pankratz led Roseau with a game-high 27 points. Jason Hooser and Taylor both had 12.

Grygla-Gatzke was 28-for-71 from the field (39 percent) and 10-for-18 at the free throw line. Roseau had an edge in both departments with a 28-for-50 showing from the field (56 percent) and a 12-for-17 free throw night, but the Eagles' 4-for-13 three-point shooting was enough to make up the shot difference. The Rams, who were 5-for-11 from three-point range in their first meeting with Grygla-Gatzke, went 0-for-3 from outside the circle this time.

Grygla-Gatzke had a 31-29 rebound edge, and gave up only three offensive boards to the Rams, pointed out Johnson. Roseau topped the turnover figures 14-9.

Missed free throws cost Skippers

Middle River girls failed to cash in on their free throw opportunities Saturday and paid the price in losing a 55-54 high school basketball game to Argyle.

The host Skippers were 19-for-30 at the line, and missed seven of those free throws in the fourth quarter.

Argyle led 14-10 at the end of the first quarter. Middle River went ahead 28-27 at halftime and the Skippers held on to a 42-41 third quarter edge.

It remained close to the end, with the Eagles' winning basket coming on an in-bound play with 24 seconds left.

Last four Middle River possessions ended with a poorly-selected field goal attempt, a turnover, two missed free throws and a final turnover with just seven seconds to go.

"We didn't do a very good job with the ball down the stretch," acknowledged Middle River coach Tom Neibauer.

The defense also has to improved, said Neibauer. In four of the losses for the 12-6 Middle River squad, the Skippers have surrendered 50 or more points. "We've got to get that down to the 40's if we want to beat the good teams," he said.

Krissi Super and Holly Gram scored 17 points apiece for the Skippers. DeAnn Ellefson led Argyle with 14 points, while Kari Keller netted 11.

Middle River was 18-for-43 from the field (42 percent). Argyle went 10-for-16 at the free throw line.

A North Border Conference title will be on the line Thursday when Middle River visits Roseau. The Rams are unbeaten in conference play; the Skippers have one loss. Middle River will host Lake of the Woods Saturday.

Eagles hold off Warriors 54-52

Grygla-Gatzke came up with its second straight two-point win Monday when the Eagles held off Warroad 54-52 in a boys high school basketball make-up game played in Grygla.

The Eagles, who pulled off a surprise Friday in a 70-68 overtime win against North Border Conference leader Roseau, actually made this one harder than it had to be, acknowledged Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson.

Warroad trailed by 11 with just two minutes left before storming back. A three-point shot by Troy Mattern put the Warriors in position to win or tie on a final-possession basket, but the try for the tie underway was off the mark at the buzzer.

"I don't think we were really mentally ready to play basketball," said Johnson. "We were lucky to come out with a win – but we'll take it."

Grygla-Gatzke had a 15-13 first quarter lead. Warroad went up 25-24 at halftime and kept that one-point edge at the end of the third quarter, 38-37.

Mitch Bernstein of Grygla-Gatzke and Chris Bergstrom of Warroad shared game-high scoring honors with 19 points apiece. The Eagles' Jeremy Engelstad netted 13 and teammate Ryan Bakken had 12. Mattern finished with 17 points for the Warriors.

Shooting-wise, it was almost a draw – like the scoreboard – as Grygla-Gatzke went 19-for-59 from the field (32.2 percent) and 11-for-19 at the free throw line, while Warroad was 19-for-57 from the field (33.3 percent) and 11-for-14 at the line. The Warriors finished with a slight 25-24 rebound edge. There were just 12 turnovers in the game – seven charged to the Eagles.

Grygla-Gatzke, 7-6, was scheduled to play Kittson County North tonight (Tuesday) at Lancaster. The Eagles will host Marshall County Central Friday.

East Grand Forks' Gabe Valtrierra was lifted in the air by Thief River Falls' Joel Davis in their 135-pound match during Saturday afternoon's high school dual meet wrestling action in Thief River Falls. The undefeated Davis came from behind to edge the once-beaten Valtrierra 9-6.

Skippers beat Bears

Middle River grabbed a 14-2 first quarter lead and coasted to a 60-34 Friday night boys high school basketball win over visiting Lake of the Woods.

It was 29-10 at halftime and 46-21 through three quarters.

Jarrett Walton led the winners with 14 points, while David Blazek netted 11 and David Nelson had 10. Brody Willis was the lone Lake of the Woods scorer in double figures, finishing with 12 points.

It wasn't a particularly well-played game, admitted Middle River coach Eldon Sparby, whose team shot just 35 percent from the field (23-for-66) and turned the ball over 20 times. However, those were still better figures than the opposition as the Bears shot only 21 percent (10-for-48) and wound up with 30 turnovers.

Lake of the Woods played without four starters because of disciplinary reasons.

Middle River went 13-for-23 at the free throw line, where Lake of the Woods was 5-for-20. The Skippers out-rebounded the Bears 52-25, including a 19-5 advantage on the offensive end.

The 9-7 Skippers host Tri-County Friday.
